Seek Spending Cutoff

Senators Are Ready To Defy President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate advocates of legislation to cut off spending for U. S. military operations in Cambodia now appear to have the votes to pass it in defiance of the White House.

But their voting strength could be diluted if Republican leaders and the administration succeed in fashioning an alternative acceptable to President Nixon.

An Associated Press survey of the Senate showed 45 senators now favor the appropriations cutoff, and five more are leaning toward support.

Thirty-four senators are lined up in opposition to the measure; 16 are uncommitted.

That lineup is based on an AP poll and on the public declarations of senators on the appropriations cutoff sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

At least two senators are certain to be absent when voting begins, probably next week. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., and Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., both are hospitalized. That means a maximum of 98 votes, with 50 votes sufficient for passage.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he is confident supporters have the votes they need.

But Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, said neither side has 50 votes. He said 12 to 15 undecided senators hold the balance of decision.

The White House has declared its flat opposition to legislation the administration insists would infringe upon President Nixon's constitutional powers as commander in chief.

Mansfield said he sees no chance of compromise on the issue. "Frankly, I don't think the amendment is strong enough," he said. "But it's a good start."

The amendment, attached by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to a bill authorizing military sales abroad, would prohibit the use of appropriations for the purpose of "retaining United States forces in Cambodia."

Nixon has pledged the withdrawal of U.S. forces by June 30, and sponsors of the amendment—now 32 strong—said their measure could not take effect before that time.

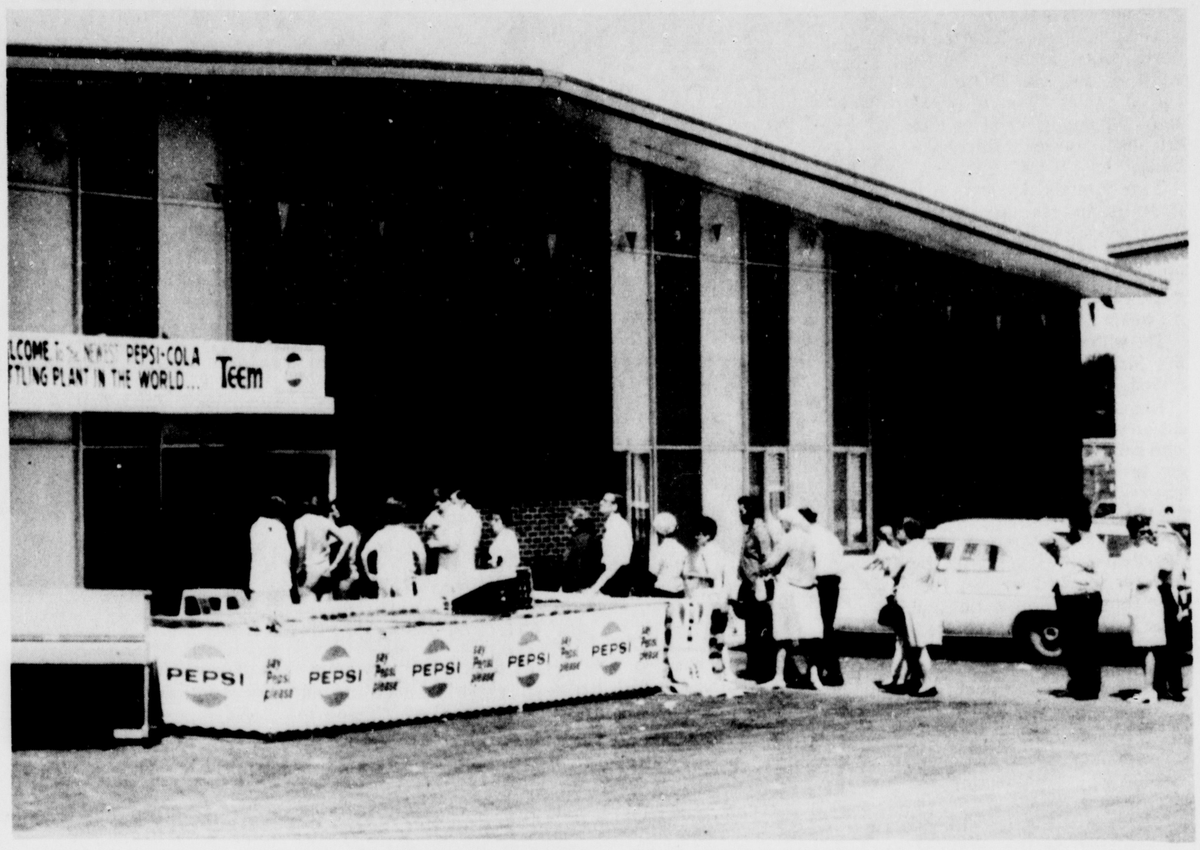

Scott called another conference of Republican leaders Tuesday in his effort to work out an alternative acceptable to the administration

The Scott formula would have the Senate declare its opposition to a wider war in Indochina, but would permit Nixon to waive the appropriations cutoff if he deemed that necessary for the protection of U.S. troops.

Five Senate critics of Nixon's policy in Indochina said they had sent to newspapers throughout the nation a background paper challenging administration accounts of the Cambodian operation.

The paper was prepared by George McT. Kahin, director of the Southeast Asia program at Cornell University.

Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, said they sent it out in response to an administration package of questions and answers on Cambodia.

Many Attend Dedication

Crown Virginian New Miss USA

MIAMI Beach (AP) — Miss Virginia, statuesque brunette Debbie Shelton of Norfolk, was named Miss USA Saturday night over 50 contestants.

The winner goes on to the Miss Universe pageant in July, hoping to succeed Gloria Diaz of the Philippines as holder of the international beauty title. Four of the 18 previous Miss USAs have gone on to become Miss Universe, the last one being Sylvia Hitchcock in 1967.

Miss Shelton, a 5-foot-8 student at Old Dominion University, is the 21-year-old daughter of a Norfolk dentist and says the greatest man in the world today is "my daddy."

Miss Virginia was the most buxom entry with measurements of 39-24-36. She weighs 125 pounds and said she entered the contest "for excitement and travel and to meet people and promote good will."

Rounding out the five finalists were third runnerup Miss Tennessee, Donna Marie Ford of Trenton, and fourth runnerup Miss Georgia, Cherie Stephens of Atlanta

Sedalia Physician Urges Development of Facilities

A Sedalia physician predicted Saturday that area residents can expect longer waits for admission to hospitals in major urban areas of the state, where highly specialized treatment is available, and urged that facilities at Bothwell Hospital be developed to a degree where it will be less necessary to depend upon other hospitals.

Dr. Thomas J. Hopkins, chief of the medical staff at Bothwell, said that conditions are changing at hospitals in Kansas City, Columbia, St. Louis and elsewhere, and it is becoming increasingly difficult to place patients in these institutions on short notice.

"It once was comparatively easy for doctors in communities like Sedalia to arrange for entry of patients into one of the larger hospitals without much delay," he said. "Now, however, waits of from two to six weeks are commonplace in Kansas City hospitals, and things are about the same elsewhere."

Dr. Hopkins said that more and more demands are being made on hospital facilities in major cities, not only by their own residents, but also by people from other sections of the state.

He expressed pessimism over the possibility of a brighter outlook in the near future and indicated that he anticipated a worsening of present conditions.

The answer to the problem, Dr. Hopkins said, is to develop Sedalia into an intermediate medical center to serve west-central Missouri.

"We are well on our way toward this objective already," he said "There now are 40 doctors on the hospital's active staff, 16 of whom are specialists in some branch of medicine. Most of these specialists came to Sedalia within the past 10 years.

"Our capability to treat more complicated medical problems locally, without the necessity of sending patents to urban centers, has increased enormously. Take heart ailments, for instance. We now have a cardiac unit at Bothwell comparable to anything found elsewhere in the United States," he said.

Development of heart techniques locally probably can be credited with saving a number of lives, since in the past it was necessary to take critically ill patients to Kansas City or Columbia because they could not be treated at Bothwell, Hopkins said.

Questioned as to the possibility of immediate admission of patients to Bothwell Hospital, the head of the medical staff said that the hospital now is operating at capacity, although emergency patients always are accommodated.

"In cases of elective surgery, where a wait will not endanger the patient," he said, "we frequently have a shorter or longer wait. With only two operating rooms, it is extremely difficult to schedule operations, and the appointment book often is filled as much as two weeks ahead."

Dr. Hopkins said he deplored the frequent necessity of placing incoming patients in beds located in the hospital corridors until a regular bed can be found for them.

"When you are forced to place a person who has had a heart attack in the hall," he pointed out, "his chances of recovery naturally diminish somewhat. There isn't the needed privacy and quiet out in the corridor. Then, too, the possibility of contracting a cold from passing visitors that could develop into pneumonia is ever present with any type of patient."

Elaborating on the need for expansion, he made the following points:

At least 50 new beds are needed to relieve present patient overcrowding, and prevent nursing care from declining in quality.

Sedalia still has too few doctors to take care of the number of potential patients. More doctors are needed.

New doctors cannot be attracted here unless they can be assured of hospital facilities that will enable them to use diagnostic and therapeutic techniques in which they have been trained, and are in the habit of using.

Hospital ancillary facilities, such as X-ray and laboratory, are inadequate today for the amount of work they are called upon to perform. They will be completely overwhelmed by anticipated future demands.

NEWS IN BRIEF

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — About 100 peace demonstrators marched more than two miles under a broiling sun Saturday to President Nixon's Florida White House to protest the war in Southeast Asia.

A three-day conference of student strike leaders from colleges and universities across the country closed Saturday at Yale University with a call for "a summer of resistance and liberation." Black students, meanwhile, opened their own four-day meeting at Yale. Most of the colleges and universities themselves were quiet.

Secretary of Welfare Defends The Quality of His Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch, once regarded as the most effective liberal Republican voice in the Nixon administration, has called a mass meeting of his employes Monday to defend the quality of his leadership.

Finch, it was learned, plans to reply to complaints that he has allowed the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, kingpin of domestic agencies, to drift and has abdicated responsibility to speak out against what dissidents within the department regard as the rightward lean of the administration.

Finch's difficulties are another indication of unrest in the federal establishment, especially since President Nixon's move into Cambodia and the slaying of four students at Kent State University.

Among other things, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel's letter urging Nixon to seek better communications with the young was leaked to the press, the President's youth director resigned, and more than 800 government employes turned out for a rally on the Capitol steps to protest the Vietnam war.

Monday's meeting at the Welfare Department stems from an employe petition two months ago asking Finch for public justification of the administration's civil rights policies. It came after the ouster of Leon Panetta as head of the civil rights enforcement office, and Panetta's charge that White House aides were bringing pressure on the department to ease up on forcing desegregation of Southern school districts.

Concerns have since expanded. The 4 p.m. session now is expected to cover, in addition to civil rights, student unrest, the rhetoric of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's speeches and communication with the young.

To accommodate the thousands of employes in downtown Washington, the proceedings from the Departmental Auditorium, which seats only 580, will be broadcast into various departmental cafeterias.

In a preview Friday, Finch met with about 75 young employes "to open the channels of communication," according to a department spokesman.

Interviews with men close to the secretary disclosed almost universal agreement that Finch allowed policy questions to slide because of intense preoccupation with politics in his home state of California. They say that on several occasions in the past six months, Finch was one step away from declaring his candidacy for the Senate seat now held by his long-time political friend, George Murphy. Finch has heatedly denied this.

Chemical Warfare Issue is Revived

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was nudged by a House group Saturday about a six-month delay in seeking Senate ratification of an aged treaty banning initial use of gas or germs as war weapons.

At the same time, the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee cautioned that problems lie ahead if the 1925 Geneva Protocol is submitted with an interpretation that its prohibitions do not cover use in war of tear gas or chemical herbicides.

The subcommittee suggested that the administration treat the issue as an open question, not affecting chemical warfare activities in Vietnam. But it said the government should be willing—following ratification—to meet with other parties on a uniform interpretation or submit it to an international judicial body.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., called for swift ratification of the pact. It noted that if it is to receive adequate consideration in this Congress the administration should send it to the Senate soon.

Nixon announced his intention to send the treaty to the Senate last November after Zablocki's panel had opened hearings on the chemical-biological warfare issue but there has been no formal submission. Nixon at the same time announced this country would confine its biological research to defensive measures such as immunization, and pledged the United States would not be the first to use lethal or incapacitating gases.

During the subcommittee hearings, government officials said the plans then were to make it clear that the administration does not believe the use in war of riot-control agents or chemical herbicides is covered by prohibitions of the treaty.

However, some have seen the large-scale use of chemical agents in Vietnam as a violation. The subcommittee forecast problems in obtaining Senate ratification because of their continued use.

The United States took a major role in shaping the 1925 protocol during a Geneva conference but the Senate never acted upon it. It prohibits first use of "asphyxiating, poisonous or other gases and of bacteriological methods of warfare."

Accurate Count Urgently Needed

Persons who were missed by the census enumerators, particularly in Sedalia and Pettis county, are requested to mail or telephone their names and addresses to the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce or the Sedalia Democrat office immediately. The purpose is to determine whether the count in these two areas should be greater than reported in the preliminary figures released last week.

Doctors Concerned Over Speed Issue

By ED VAUGHAN
(Democrat-Capital Staff Writer)

The elimination of speeding ambulances on Sedalia streets to avoid endangering other motorists or pedestrians is a subject local doctors plan to discuss with the city council in the near future.

Dr. Robert L. Glass, chief of surgery at Bothwell Hospital, said Saturday that he and Dr. Ira White, a former member of the city council, and Dr. John Lamy are urging the council to draft an ordinance to eliminate speeding, traffic violations and the use of sirens by ambulances in the city.

"The speeding ambulance is unnecessary and harmful," Dr. Harrison L. McLaughlin, a professor of surgery at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, says in his textbook "Trauma."

He also says, "Transportation (of the injured) should be as smooth and comfortable as all other first-aid measures. Bells, sirens and speed have become the universal trademark of the ambulance driver, but a recent study by Dr. Syndney Lyttle, Flint, Mich., of 2,500 consecutive ambulance runs failed to reveal that speed was necessary, or contributed measurably to the welfare of the patient, except in one case."

On Feb. 16, 1965, a woman was killed in Sedalia in the collision of the car in which she was a passenger and an ambulance which ran a red light while on an emergency call, Dr. Glass said. Charges were never pressed because the ambulance was designated as an "emergency vehicle," according to Glass.

The present city ordinance outlines all the steps necessary to gain a city license to operate an ambulance. It states that the Chief of Police must certify the Enemy Enters Cambodia's Third Largest City

SAIGON (AP) — An estimated regiment of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops surrounded and fought their way Saturday into Kompong Cham, Cambodia's third largest city.

The action threatened to trigger the biggest battle of the war.

About 45 miles to the east, other Communist command forces, apparently regrouping after initial retreats from their border base areas, stood off American forces trying to push into nine enemy cache sites occupied by the North Vietnamese 5th Division.

Amid these latest turns in the war the U.S. Command in Saigon announced withdrawals into the thousands of American forces from the sanctuary area of Eastern Cambodia. The command did not give any figure, but informed sources estimated the total at 5,000 to 6,000. From 9,000 to 10,000 remained beyond the border in the drive that began on May 1.

An Associated Press correspondent just outside Kompong Cham reported that the enemy forces of 800 to 1,000 men had encircled three Cambodian battalions and were fighting other government troops inside the city. Under battle conditions the enemy force was considered at regiment strength. There was no estimate of just how many government troops were involved.

Kompong Cham is a provincial capital, 74 miles by road and 50 by air from Phnom Penh, and the military headquarters for three surrounding provinces.

U.S.-made T28 bombers flown by Cambodian pilots pounded the enemy positions surrounding the town, and the Cambodian high command rushed reinforcements toward the city aboard commandeered civilian trucks and buses.

Cambodian officers renewed an earlier request for South Vietnamese ground troops to help break the siege. Officers at South Vietnamese Task Force Headquarters at Tay Ninh were considering the request Saturday night. Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, the task force commander, rejected the first request for ground forces Friday, but ordered fighter-bombers to fly support for the Cambodian defenders.

The city is 35 miles from the Vietnam border—beyond the 21.7-mile limit in which American forces are permitted to operate.

"The situation is extremely grave," a South Vietnamese officer told an AP reproter at Tay Ninh. "The Cambodians may not be able to hold out much longer."

A South Vietnamese radio team inside Kompong Cham reported that a Cambodian battalion moved out of the city Saturday in an attempt to open the road to Phnom Penh in case the defenders were forced to withdraw. The Cambodian troops ran headlong into an enemy force and suffered two killed and 24 wounded. They claimed they killed 11 enemy and captured eight.

Hundreds of civilians streamed out of the city on ox carts, in taxis, aboard motorcycles, bicycles and on foot.

To the east along the Cambodia-Vietnam border, U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division troops encountered steady resistance as they tried to push into jungled base areas more than 100 miles

Grand Jury Is Critical of Raid

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury has rebuked law enforcement agencies involved in a fatal raid on Black Panther party members and its subsequent investigation.

No one was indicted.

The grand jury's 252-page report, issued Friday, says the work of the law officers involved "gives some reasonable basis for public doubt of their efficiency or even of their credibility."

Two Panther leaders, Fred Hampton and Mark Clark, were killed when Negro and white police from the state's attorney's office raided Hampton's apartment Dec. 4 in a search for illegal weapons.

The whole concept of the raid, the jury said, "seems ill-conceived."

The grand jury also was critical of seven Panther members who survived the raid for refusing to testify at its hearings. The report had harsh words for the Black Panther party.

"The Panther tactics and policies help create much of the very tension and conflict they have complained of in this and other cases," the jury reported.

The jury was commissioned to determine whether the civil rights of the persons in Hampton's apartment had been violated.

The grand jury said it was impossible to determine whether there had been a violation of anyone's civil rights without the testimony of the surviving Panther members. They refused to take the witness stand, the survivors said, because the jury was not composed of their peers.

While the Panthers were criticized, the bulk of the report centered on law officers.

Policemen who participated in the raid said the Panthers fired at least 10 to 15 shots at them, the jury found.

Hears Results

Bobby Ruth, head of the Illinois Black Panthers, left, with his attorney, Kermit Coleman, at news conference after a federal grand jury report was released. The jury recommended no indictments noting that the "inconsistencies" of police testimony standing alone is insufficient to establish probable cause to believe there was an intentional violation of federal law. (UPI)

Yet, it said, "only one bullet hole, one shell and one projectile . . . can be identified ballistically as having been fired by the apartment occupants."

The grand jury said policemen fired 82 to 99 shots.

The Police Department's internal investigations division "was so seriously deficient" in probing the behavior of the raiding policemen "that it suggests purposeful malfeasance," the jury said.

The IID director at the time of the inquiry, Capt. Harry Ervanian, testified before the grand jury that the investigation was the worst he has ever seen.

Ervanian agreed with the characterization of the investigation as a "whitewash."

Ervanian and two other high-ranking police officers were demoted Thursday.

The coroner's office also received low marks. Its medical work did not seem to be of high caliber, the jury said.

Furthermore, the report concluded, "the pathologist from the coroner's office misrepresented the autopsy procedures which he followed by stating that he had opened the stomach of Hampton and examined its contents . . . In fact . . . the stomach was untouched."

The jury did not question the need for police raids, however.

"Police did, in fact, seize and remove from public circulation 19 weapons and a large quantity of ammunition," it concluded.

State charges against the seven Panthers arrested in the raid were dropped a week ago. State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan said there was not sufficient evidence to support the charges of attempted murder, armed violence and other crimes.

Gets His Job Back

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battle of the inch is over and the ruling is that Charles E. Smith, 23, measures up to his job as a policeman.

The Civil Service Commission Friday ordered Smith reinstated to the force, from which he was fired last Feb. 3 by Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo for being too short.

The commission indicated in its ruling that there apparently is no foolproof method of measuring an applicant for a police job.

Smith was measured at 5 feet 7¼ inches, 5 feet 6 inches and 5 feet 6¼ inches on three different examinations. The minimum height for a policeman is 5 feet 7 inches.

Find No Opposition To Action

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — No one appeared Friday to oppose the acquisition by Union Electric Co. of St. Louis of 83.3 per cent of the stock shares of Missouri Utilities Co. of Cape Girardeau.

Ray W. Call, president of Missouri Utilities, told the Missouri Public Service Commission he believed the customers of his firm would benefit by the Union Electric control because of more reasonable rates.

He said Union Electric would be more able to develop the industrial potential in the area along the Mississippi River south of St. Louis and so generate a better economic climate.

In reply to a question he said it probably would not mean a reduction in power rates but it might postpone any new rate increase or at least reduce its size.

Call said Union Electric's acquisition of Missouri Utilities shares would have no other effect on Missouri Utilities operations, including electric power, water and natural gas distributions systems.

In the transaction Union Electric would give 1.1 shares of its stock for each share of Missouri Utilities stock acquired. It would involve 804,095 shares of Union Electric stock and 730,995 shares of Missouri Utilities stock.

The proposal also will be submitted to the Illinois Commerce Commission May 19 and to the Securities Exchange Commission. Call said he did not believe the transaction would alter the tax obligations of either firm measurably.

Stage-coach lines had their beginnings in England, prior to 1700. Under the most favorable weather and road conditions, a stage-coach might travel from 60 to 75 miles in a day.

Budget Goes to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate now has the job some legislators say the House flubbed—get the budget for the coming fiscal year back into the black.

Both the House Appropriations director and the Division of Comptroller and Budget agree that the House appropriated $3.8 million more in general revenue than the state expects to collect in the year beginning July 1.

And both agree that a fourth allotment of school money probably will have to be made next year—for the second time in a row—if the schools are to get the $234 million in state aid provided now in the money bills.

Under the law the schools get three allotments a year, in September, December and March. But this year by March there wasn't enough to make the full promised payment. So Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said he would make a fourth payment in May whenever the additional funds become available from the cigarette tax.

That's what will happen next year, conceded appropriations chairman E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D-Overland, and assistant budget director Bernard (Doc) Simcoe, if the state aid stays at $234 million.

The state agencies and institutions have all told the Senate Appropriations Committee their financial troubles and made their pleas for additional funds.

Individual senators have said the legislature can't even go as far as the House tried to go, that somewhere more than $4 million will have to be carved off the bills as they cleared the House Thursday.

The Senate also got most of the other special session bills from the House. The idea is to give the Senate two weeks to do its bit.

Then the representatives will come back and both houses will settle into the final stretch, trying to compromise differences.

Nation's Problems Hit Serious Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The problems of the nation's cities —"our housing situation, the blight, the slums"—are more serious now than they have been, says Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"As a matter of fact, I think the situation is becoming more explosive rather than less explosive," Romney said in an interview with The Associated Press.

The secretary, who was governor of Michigan at the time of the 1967 riot in Detroit, emphasized he did not mean that widespread rioting is more likely now. "Those who initiated the riots in earlier years have become somewhat sophisticated about them and they recognize that such widespread destruction boomerangs," he said.

Romney was interviewed shortly after he helped persuade President Nixon to keep Model Cities' funding intact.

Some questions and answers:

Q. Are the nation's big city slums deepening?

A I think our housing situation, the blight, the slums, represents a more serious problem now than they have at any previous point. I think we failed to turn the tide there yet.

Q. How do you account for this widespread belief you mentioned that the administration is insensitive to the problems of the city?

A. Someone writes it and they just pick it up and write it and voice it and talk about it and pretty soon most people are kind of that viewpoint. . .

Q. Don't you think it would be helpful if there was a coherent statement of the administration's urban policy?

A. Yes.

Q. What happened to that idea?

A. Well, there have been expressions, but they've been piecemeal and not complete and adequate, in my opinion. I think that's an area that should be dealt with more definitely and firmly and specifically.

Q. Has there been a conscious decision made to put greater emphasis on mobility, on putting people where the jobs are?

A. What I've been stressing as much as anything else is that to make it possible for every American family to live within a reasonable distance of their jobs and daily activities.

Q. Do you feel the President is as aware as, say you are, of the seriousness of the problems in the cities?

A. I think he is. In his State of the Union address this year he said, "The violent and decayed central cities of our great metropolitan complexes are the most conspicuous area of failure in American life.' I don't think he could it put it stronger than that.

Q. You said in December that without basic policy reform, the nation is going to have to deal with the very real possibility of revolution. Has the possibility drawn closer since December?

A. Yes. I think the percentage of young people and others who are beginning to wonder whether the needed reforms can be brought about within our present society has increased a bit. And the number who are genuinely concerned and kind of sitting on the fence has increased a great deal. I think it's going to take action more than rhetoric to deal with it.

Q. Are you specifically concerned about this summer in the cities?

A. You betcha. I'm concerned about the situation not only in the summer but in the winter spring and fall. As a matter of fact, I think the situation is becoming more explosive rather than less explosive. That's my opinion. When I say that I don't mean necessarily that there is more likely to be widespread rioting, because those who initiated the riots in earlier years have become somewhat sophisticated about them and they recognize that such widespread destruction boomerangs. That they foul their own nest, that they suffer more than some of the others. So they've changed their attitude.

Q. Do you mean they've changed to a more dangerous type of operation, like urban guerrilla warfare?

A. It's more selective, yes. More selective. And also there's recognition that there is no point in taking risks prematurely and on an inadequate basis.

north- northeast of Saigon and 10 miles inside Cambodia.

Several American light aircraft, including medical evacuation helicopters, were shot down in the area, killing some crewmen and wounding others.

U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers and army helicopter gunships pounded the area to open the way for American troops to explore the cache sites spotted from the air.

An AP reporter there said the caches are in the same area where three American fire bases were attacked on three successive nights last week.

Officers in the field said this was the first time they had encountered serious resistance from organized, regular enemy units. In the opening days of the allied offensive into the base areas, rearguard elements harassed the invading forces, but fell back after fighting scattered delaying actions.

The U.S. Command announced Saturday that the remaining elements of the 4th Infantry Division task force pulled out of the Se San base area of Cambodia, 50 miles west of Pleiku in the central highlands. A third of the force had been withdrawn earlier last week. It was the first termination of a major U.S. drive across the border.

The 4th Division operation, launched in conjunction with South Vietnamese forces, apparently was the least productive of the numerous forays into Cambodia launched May 1. The allied forces reported 184 enemy killed and 826 weapons and 599 tons of rice captured or destroyed. U.S. losses were put at 30 killed and 70 wounded.

In South Vietnam, a unit of the 101st Airborne Division was attacked about three miles north of the A Shau Valley near the Laos border by about 10 or 20 enemy soldiers. Four Americans were killed and 30 wounded, spokesmen reported. Enemy casualties were unknown.

Nine Americans and two South Vietnamese were killed and 11 Americans were wounded in two helicopter crashes not involving enemy activity, the command reported. In one accident, a CH47 Chinook was attempting a landing at Plei Djereng, about 25 miles west of Pleiku "with zero visibility caused by a dust cloud," spokesmen said.

It crashed into a 2½-ton truck. Of 15 persons in the truck, four were killed and 10 injured. One helicopter crewman also was injured.

In southern Laos government forces retook one outpost captured by North Vietnamese troops last week. Informed sources said Tang Vai, 55 miles east of Svannakhet, was recaptured after only light resistance.

Revenue Department Attacked

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — "The patronage-ridden Revenue Department should be put under a merit system," was one of the recommendations of a task force of minority Republicans in the Missouri House of Representatives Friday.

None of the recommendations was entirely new but it was perhaps the first time all had been put in one package.

Others included:

The department should be restructured along business lines and local "fee" offices would be turned over to county or city officials.

A private accounting firm should check the records and the department should establish better procedures to crack down on tax cheaters.

"Present peon wages," around $300 a month average, should be raised to attract and keep more qualified workers.

Business machines should become more integral in the operation of collecting taxes and fees, reducing the number of employes needed.

"The so-called 'fee' office should go not to the wives of favored office-holders," the report said, "but perhaps to local governments which would act as the state's agent and use the fees to augment local taxes."

The report said much of the reorganization could be done by order of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and it said he should act immediately.

ambulance, its equipment and the operator before the ambulance can be put into service, and requires that an ambulance have insurance coverage amounting to $25,000 for injury to any one person, $50,000 for injury arising out of any one incident, and $5,000 for property damage. The insurance package is commonly called 25-50-5.

The ordinance does not require training for ambulance attendants, nor what equipment specifications for the vehicle should be.

The ordinance does state, however, "No persons shall operate an ambulance in a manner not comforming to the laws of the State of Missouri and the Ordinances of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, relating to motor vehicles generally and emergency vehicles particularly."

According to a study by a presidential commission on the emergency medical services, "A recent survey reveals that eight per cent of random samples of ambulance runs fell into the 'severe injury' category; yet the average time saved by speeding and violating other traffic laws was only 2.7 minutes in an average of eight miles. For the remaining 92 per cent of ambulance calls there was no justification for speeding."

Eventually, according to Dr. Glass, the doctors hope to see statewide regulations on ambulance speeds, sirens, equipment, insurance rates, and so on, as well as attendant training.

Dr. Glass said, "I do feel if we accomplish nothing more than outlawing the sirens and the speeding ambulance we will have done a service for the community."

STUDENTS BUILD SCHOOL

CUZCO, Peru (AP) — School children in the mountain village of Chaupisuyo were tired of attending classes in the open. So they went to military authorities at a nearby base and asked for building materials.

Resort City Sets Park Area Aside

ROCKAWAY BEACH, Mo. (AP) — This resort city on the shore of Lake Taneycomo in southern Missouri dedicated a park and recreation area today designed especially for handicapped and retired persons.

It has about 1,500 feet of ramps and sidewalks leading to picnic tables, benches, sunbathing areas, restrooms and a 152-foot covered fishing dock.

The facilities are free.

It was made possible by the donation of about seven acres of land by a Kansas City development firm, the Merriam Co., a $26,000 grant from the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and the work of local citizens.

unless they are expanded soon.

More operating rooms are a must, especially with the influx of any new doctors into the community.

An enlarged emergency room, with proper waiting areas for patients, their relatives, and friends, is sorely needed. More adequate staffing of the emergency room is indicated for the future.

Introduction of any further generalized health plans by the federal government will be impossible to implement with present facilities.

With hospital physical space and service departments severely overtaxed, every effort if being made at Bothwell today to discharge patients as soon as it is safe to do so, he said. In this way, bed turn-over is expedited, and a maximum number of patients can be served.

"The idea is to care for a patient for as long as necessary, but not to unduly prolong his stay," Dr Hopkins said. "The hospital is a place for acute illness, and not a place for hibernation."

Sedalians will vote Tuesday on the $2.6 million hospital expansion bond issue, which requires a two-thirds majority for passage.

Farm Bureau Lends Spport To Chancellor

Pettis County Farm Bureau President Jerry Conaway reports that C. R. Johnston, Missouri Farm Bureau president, has expressed the M.F.B.'s support of the action taken by University of Missouri-Columbia Chancellor John W. Schwada during the recent demonstrations on the U.M.C. campus.

Johnson wrote Schwada of the organization's support after numerous Farm Bureau parents of MU students from Pettis County and across the state expressed concern about their sons' and daughters' welfare, Conaway said.

"We deplore the demonstrations, and we hope that so-called agitators will be dismissed from the campus," Johnston wrote.

Police Report

Mrs. Charles E. Messerly, 400 Dal Whi Mo Court, reported vandals broke two window glasses and a screen in her home Friday night. Damage was estimated at $10.

William McGinley, 318 West 10th, reported the theft of a 40-foot ladder, valued at $40, from 112 West Second, sometime Friday.

Henry Heineman, Jr., 213 West 10th, reported vandals pushed a car out of the driveway at his neighbor's home, 210 West 10th, about 1:40 a.m. Saturday. The car, belonging to Charles Shapley, was completely blocking the street when officers arrived. The found broken whiskey bottles in the street on both sides of the car.

Officers later picked up three subjects for questioning. They were released after it was determined no charges would be filed.

Ronald Curtis, 24, 2222 South Missouri, reported to Sedalia police at 4:24 p.m. Saturday that while his car was parked at the above address between 1 a.m. Saturday and the time he reported the incident, someone cut a tire on his car. The tire was valued at $62.83.

Circuit Court

Steve Carter, 17, 625 West Fourth, was sentenced to two two-year terms in the state penitentury after he entered a plea of guilty to second degree burgulary and stealing in Circuit Court Friday. The terms are to run concurrently.

Carter and two other youths, Danny Hall, 17, 659 East 16th, and David Dennis, 18, 652 East 15th were taken into custody by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax in February following an incident at Whittier School on Feb. 1, 1970. A check for $109.48 issued to Willis Bill Beck, an employe of the school, was stolen by the three youths, report officials.

Magistrate Court

Twelve persons entered guilty pleas for non-moving traffic violations. The court named Henry Watson Fulcher, 405 West Clay; Dale Francis Peck, Windsor; Walter Davis Bell, 301 East Cooper; Annie Beulah Davis, 300 North Washington; Elizabeth Pearl Green, Route 5.

Rosemary Miller, 1100 East Seventh; Paul William White, 103 East 28th; Timmy Cole Mosier, 1920 Summitt; Frankie Ray Vanderpool Jr., 820 West Third; Terry Gene Summers, Smithton; Thomas Dean Hockaday, 906 East Seventh; Hollis Byron Byrd, 1002 North Osage.

Three motorists charged with careless and imprudent driving pleaded guilty and were fined $25 plus costs each. They were James Edward Swope, Hughesville; James Arvid Johnson, 2503 Wing; and Harvey Lyle Means, Route 1.

Bomb Scare Is Reported

The third bomb scare in recent weeks was reported to the Sedalia Democrat by Jim Edwards, Manager of Penney's Department Store.

Edwards stated that at about 4 p.m. he received a phone call at the store. The caller, described as being a male and young, said "There is a bomb in the store" and hung up.

The Sedalia police were notified, and in turn, the Sedalia Fire Department. The two departments evacuated the building and searched for the bomb with no positive results.

Edwards commented that he had no idea who the prankster was or what his motives were.

Chamber to Hold Regular Meeting

The board of directors of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday at First State Savings Association.

Date Correction

It was reported in Friday's Sedalia Democrat that the Flat Creek Baptist Church would hold a memorial service this Sunday. The correct date is May 24.

SELF MEDICATION IS A POTENTIAL DANGER

Even physicians are far from agreement about the practice of self-medication. If everyone went to their doctors at every sign of illness it would be impossible for the medical profession to handle the deluge of patients that would descend upon them. The more seriously ill would suffer most for there would not be enough of the time needed for them.

But, self-medication must be carried out wisely. One good rule is . . . if certain symptoms keep returning, it is time to have your doctor find the cause. When we notice a customer is often buying a particular non prescription remedy we will always suggest that they should see their doctor.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurcte records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Question
I have tried always to have my personal affairs in order. What essential things should I do to be prepared for my death?

Answer
Apart from those business and legal affairs under the supervision of your bank and attorney, only the details involving your funeral service remain. For example:

Do we have a list of those relatives you wish notified?

Have you instructed us concerning the type and approximate cost of your funeral?

Have you given your clergyman your specific wishes concerning religious details?

Is your gravespace arranged and is the marker planned?

Do all of us — mortician, clergyman, cemeterian — have authority from you to proceed according to your plans?

At the McLaughlin Chapel we are trained in the ways of preplanning these things. Please telephone us at 826-8000 if we can be helpful.

Cardinal Sees Church Progress as Essential

MALINES, Belgium (AP) — Leon-Joseph Cardinal Suenens, primate of Belgium and the man some talk of as a future Pope, says the Roman Catholic Church must go forward fast to keep pace with a rapidly evolving world.

"The Church must be true to the past, and the present, and the future," he says. "It is a very difficult situation... but I think we have to go forward, trying to get the people to follow, because the world is evolving in such a quick way that if we are one year late, it's a drama. So I really take a choice for the future — the present going to the future."

But the 65-year-old cardinal smiled at the suggestion he is leader of progressive forces seeking widespread changes in the church of Rome.

"Well, I leave that to you," he aid. "I don't think there is a leader. Just many people thinking along the same lines."

The lines Cardinal Suenens thinks along challenge the one-man rule concept of the papacy, the election of the Pope by cardinals alone, the prominent role of the Roman Curia, and much besides. He sees the current of progress and liberty as irreversible.

"You can't stem it by ignoring it," he says.

The cardinal talked of his hopes for the Church in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press in the second-floor study of his rambling white palace in the ancient Flemish cathedral city of Mechlin, which French-speaking Belgians call Malines.

Speaking of today's worldwide movement toward possible church unity, Cardinal Suenens gestured around him and said: "This is the very room where it all began."

The Malines conversations, as they were called, flickered through two years, then faded with the cardinal's death in 1926. It was, perhaps, too early in the century for the ecumenical movement to be launched.

Now Leon Joseph Suenens, the little seminarian whom Cardinal Mercier once sent to study at the Gregorian University in Rome, is a cardinal himself and, like Mercier, Archbishop of Malines-Brussels. Suenens has reopened and deepened the original contacts.

Few churchmen at the top have made their presence more rapidly felt than Belgium's only cardinal. Pope John XXIII raised Leon-Joseph Suenens to the purple in the consistory of March 1962. Little more than a year later, Suenens was already a reputed contender for the papacy upon John's death. But the new Pope was his old friend, Giovanni Cardinal Montini, Archbishop of Milan, now ruling as Paul VI. Their friendship has since been sometimes strained.

The two had worked closely together at the first session of the Second Vatican Council, when John was still Pope. Suenens obviously saw the Council as a chance to renew the Church and he moved vigorously. Suddenly he was a major church figure. Other progressive prelates were attracted by his ability and rallied around him. Pope Paul, who continued the Council after John's death, often consulted the Belgian.

But at the first synod of bishops called by Pope Paul in 1967, Suenens emerged as the spearhead of liberal forces demanding more reforms than the Pope appeared willing to allow.

Suenen's book, "Co-Responsibility in the Church," set out his ideas: the sense of co-responsibility must be the soul of the apostolic activity of the 20th century, and of the centuries which follow. The Church makes its way toward the future in a living continuity with the past, but this continuity is neither conservatism nor servality; it is fidelity.

Some of Suenen's views have gotten him in trouble with Rome.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, roundly attacked him for using a "disrespectful" tone in expressing himself to a French magazine, inviting him to "correct" his thinking by another public declaration. Suenens did not take up the suggestion.

Cardinal Suenens clearly sees Poe Paul as overworked and carrying too much of the burden alone.

During the interview, the cardinal summed up his attitude this way: "St. Peter, let's do things together. You will have the last word. What we ask is to work together."

The cardinal said the principle of the collegiality of bishops, approved at Vatican II, had not gone nearly far enough. It still needs to increase at every level, he said — the Pope with the bishops; the bishop with his priests, his deacons and the whole Church.

The problem of the Roman Curia, which Suenens once suggested held the Pope prisoner, was one of organization rather than personalities, he said. He conceded there had been recent improvement in some of its departments — "I don't say in every one" — but he thought the fundamental issue remained unsolved: "Is the Curia really an instrument for the Pope alone or is it an instrument for the College of Bishops, with the Pope at the center and the head?"

Cardinal Suenens, at 65, is a man of middle height with a Roman profile, well-combed gray hair, and a disconcertingly steady gaze from behind his squarish spectacles.

Like his Netherlands colleague, Bernard Cardinal Alfrink, Suenens has done away with most of the outward trappings of his office. He may be a prince of the Church and "Your Eminence" in Rome; at home he is plain "Monsieur le Cardinal."

He dressed like any country priest, though he clings to the clerical collar in a land where many have opted for the less distinctive civilian tie.

Cardinal Suenens, only son of a farmer who moved to the capital and became a cafe owner, was born July 16, 1904, in a Brussels maternity clinic run by nuns. He was baptized Joseph-Leon, not Leon-Joseph, the form he prefers.

His father died when he was only 3.

At the College St. Marie in the Brussels suburb of Schaerbeek, the boy whom his friends called Lionel always wanted to become a priest. When only 17, he was picked by Cardinal Mercier to go to the Gregorian Pontifical University in Rome, training ground for much of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

At the end of World War II, while vice-rector of Louvian University, he had a close call with death at Nazi hands. The Germans imprisoned him and he was on a list of 30 hostages being held for execution at the time of Belgium's liberation.

The late Joseph Cardinal Van Roey made Suenens auxiliary bishop and vicar-general of the Malines-Brussels archdiocese. When Van Roey died in 1961, Suenens became apostolic administrator and archbishop. Pope John made him cardinal March 19, 1962. The great Salvator bells of Malines boomed in salute as he took the office he holds today.

New Anger Grips Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tempers are beginning to flare in the Senate debate over whether President Nixon can keep his pledge to get U.S. troops out of Cambodia by June 30.

Votes may come next week on proposals to curb his power to maintain U.S. forces in Cambodia.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and John C. Stennis, the chairmen respectively of the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, clashed angrily Friday as Republican leaders groped for a formula to block the restrictive amendment proposed by Sens. John Sherman Cooper and Frank Church.

Fulbright said Stennis' argument that presidential authority should be maintained meant the Mississippi Democrat didn't believe Nixon's pledge to pull all American troops out of Cambodia by June 30.

"I don't see how any president can call to a day certain, a day when a battle will be over, can assure there won't be reverses," Stennis said.

"He's already done that," charged Fulbright, pointing to the June 30 date.

"He made an estimate," Stennis contended. "Adversity can develop."

"You confirm what I thought," replied Fulbright. "He didn't mean it when he said we would be out by July 1; it could be Dec. 1."

Stennis snapped back: "You're putting words in my mouth which are false. I repudiate them." And he repeated that conditions could arise which could force the President to change his deadline.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott in the meantime reported no agreement had been reached on a single amendment that could be offered in an effort to block the Cooper-Church proposal and retain presidential authority to order U.S. troops into Cambodia to protect American forces in Vietnam—the announced purpose of the current operation.

He said he anticipates that as many as seven or eight Republican senators may offer up to a dozen amendments and that the outcome is in doubt.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said there are enough votes to pass the Cooper-Church amendment, which would bar funds for retaining U.S. ground forces in Cambodia and place limits on U.S. aid and use of air power in that country.

He also said, in response to a question, that opponents are engaging in "a small stall" on the measure. Scott denied this.

In Key Biscayne, Fla., meanwhile, the White House reiterated President Nixon's opposition to any amendment that would restrict his powers "to protect American troops in the field."

Cooper, R-Ky., told the Senate the purpose of his amendment is to tell the President "we respect your power to defend our forces and protect their lives. But you cannot use that power to enter another war in another country without the consent of Congress."

But he conceded "there are forces and events not under the control of the President of the United States. I hope they won't happen."

Fashions Have A Rich Look

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The fall collection by Bill Blass for Maurice Rentner has a rich, lush look—sable hats, beautifully tailored wools, gold boots, evening velvets and extravagant jewelry.

Prices range from about $325 to $2,500. Raincoats are less. So far, there's no hope of a boutique collection from Blass.

"To me, it isn't valid. To achieve that look, you have to use the most expensive fabrics. You can't translate it," he said.

Blass, who sat on a railing to narrate the show at the Plaza Hotel, said he most enjoyed doing the tailored day clothes. One dashing look was a country plaid cape over belted tunic and pants, tucked into over-the-knee boots by David Evins. Hats by Adolfo included bandage turbans and broad-brimmed felts.

Evening clothes ran the gamut from kimonos complete with Japanese wigs by Lupe to split level mini-midi chiffons. A Persian print panne velvet was worn with red snakeskin boots and wild gold necklace by William de Lillo.

One particularly good series was in dark green: cape, midi-dress trimmed in sable, coat, green satin blouse over green velvet skirt-over green boots.

Q — An article in the Sedalia Democrat May 12 stated that 25 per cent of admissions to Bothwell Hospital are from out of town. I believe the average admissions from out of town is 66 and two-thirds per cent and do not think the people of Sedalia should support a hospital for out-of-towners, unless arrangements are made to charge out-of-town patients more than Sedalians. What are the true facts? — A.S.

A. — The article stated that nearly a quarter of all admissions are from "out of town," but should have read "out of county." The actual breakdown as reported by Hospital Administrator Don Feeback is: Sedalia, 50 per cent; Pettis County (not including Sedalia), 27 per cent; Other counties, 23 per cent.

The majority of patients at Bothwell have Blue Cross or Medicare benefits. It is illegal to charge patients under these plans a higher rate than any other patient. Feeback said the money which would come in from the few patients who could be charged a higher rate as some suggest, would not amount to much. He also mentioned that the only two hospitals in Missouri which have an out-of-town charge find it impractical.

Q. — After Federal tax returns have been filed with the Internal Revenue service, is it legal for an I.R.S. agent to show your tax return to a private citizen, not connected with any government agency? — J. W.

A. Lacey Belt of the Sedalia office of I.R.S. told Hotline that federal law specifically forbids any I.R.S. agent from disclosing the contents of an individual tax return to a private citizen.

Q. — Will room rates at Bothwell Hospital continue to go up after the bond issue is passed and do patients in the halls pay the same rate as patients with rooms? — B. R.

A. — Assistant hospital administrator Ray Jiedel says room rates increase only when salary scales and inflation demand it. The bond issue will not affect room rates. Patients in the halls pay only a minimum service rate, Jiedel explained.

Ziegfeld's Widow Dies At Age 84

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Billie Burke, dead at 84, considered her "most important role" her 18-year marriage to master showman Florenz Ziegfeld.

When she met Ziegfeld in 1914 she was a sensation on Broadway and the London stage. Ziegfeld, who died in 1932, once described his red-haired wife as "one of the 10 most beautiful women of all time."

Upon his death, she turned to movies where she was acclaimed as an enchanting, madcap comedienne. She was active in films for nearly three decades.

Miss Burke, whose home was in suburban Brentwood, died Thursday of natural causes. Her family announced her death Friday. She had been in ill health for some time.

She may be best remembered for her portrayal of "the good witch of the North" in the late Judy Garland's classic star-making film, "The Wizard of Oz."

Often she was the wealthy, fluttery matron who didn't really know where the money came from and had no concept of adversity. Her performances were refreshing to Depression-era audiences.

She had been inactive since 1960.

Miss Burke, who married Ziegfeld at the peak of his career as the creator of the "Ziegfeld Follies," never seemed to mind her husband's extravagance.

"He spent with a flourish, just like he did everything else," she said. "But he had impeccable taste. Very few showmen of today have the good taste Flo had." Ziegfeld, however, died owing a fortune in debts.

Asks Farmers to Take Lesson

WASHINGTON (AP)— House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., says farmers should take a cue from protesters and seek a "confrontation" with the public over the state of the nation's agriculture.

But Albert stopped short of recommending farmers turn to violence and mass marches through city streets.

Albert's views were in the first newsletter issued here this week by a newly formed National Educational Institute for Agriculture.

The problem, he said, is that the consuming public fails to realize "that while farm operating costs have doubled and tripled, farm prices still lag at 20-year-old levels."

Many Americans, faced with rising food prices, Albert said, conclude that farmers are raking in huge profits.

"Getting them to understand otherwise is perhaps the major facet of the farm problem," Albert said.

"And here the silent minority might well borrow a chapter from the tactics of confrontation so effectively used over the past decade by other groups and interests—a confrontation, in this case, of facts to counter the growing fiction about American Agriculture," he said.

But, Albert added, "destructive and disruptive" tactics will not succeed. "Neither will threats of chaos linked with extreme demands," he said. "But an aggressive, persistent and systematic confrontation could work if enough farmers, farm spokesmen, armed with the facts would undertake the task."

Albert said such a confrontation should "graphically illustrate" present farm conditions and enable consumers, public officials and the news media to understand what is really at stake.

"A confrontation by farmers is long overdue," Albert said. "There is no doubt that as a group they are deeply troubled and frustrated over the current negative attitude toward agriculture and the public's failure to recognize their contribution."

The institute was formed in March for the purpose of improving "urban understanding of agricultural issues" by speaking out on behalf of farmers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has officially admitted that at least another "small rise" in wheat stockpiles is in the offing next year.

Officials said in a summary of a wheat situation report that the carryover a year from now is likely to increase from the 900 million bushels now expected in the nation's stockpile on July 1, the beginning of the 1970-71 marketing year.

The carryover increase was signalled earlier in the week after the department forecast a 1970 wheat crop of almost 1.4 billion bushels. This would be slightly more than the present rate of use.

Thus, the report said, if wheat exports do not rise from the present level—estimated at 600 million bushels for the year ending June 30—and use of the grain for animal feed declines, the 1971 carryover would be larger.

Wheat used for livestock feed during 1969-70 was estimated at 200 million bushels. However, officials said, wheat feeding next year "will encounter large prospective feed grain supplies" next fall.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A farm industry spokesman says a proposed 6 per cent railroad rate increase now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission is "unjustified, unneeded, inflationary and unfair" in its effect on the nation's agriculture.

Edwin M. Wheeler, president of the Fertilizer Institute, said in a statement that railroads have not proved a rate increase would improve service or even maintain present freight service to the industry.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM SEDALIA'S MAYOR:

Dear Fellow Sedalians:

Each of us will have an opportunity to demonstrate our faith in the progress and future of Sedalia when we go to the polls on May 19.

Bothwell Hospital is one of the most vital services in our community. We cannot afford to let it become obsolete, nor should we ever be satisfied with providing anything less than the best possible health care for all our people.

We can be justly proud of our hospital and its fine staff. Through the years, it has established an outstanding reputation. It is for this reason that I urge all Sedalians to give serious consideration to the bond issue, and on May 19th, let's give the hospital a vote of confidence.

Ethel Merman Shooting For Broadway Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's one and only big brass band, Ethel Merman, is all set to break the long-run musical record.

"That's mainly why I'm back," proclaims the star whose intuitive sagacity about being in the right show at the right time ranks only a little lower than her calliope pipes as a show world wonder.

The Merm is currently at the St. James Theater in "Hello, Dolly!" where a standing ovation has become a nightly ritual.

"If we didn't get it suddenly, we'd sure be upset," she remarks with typical directness. Sham humility never has afflicted the ex-secretary from Astoria who rocketed into the entertainment firmament in 1930 with "Girl Crazy" and became a permanently potent box-office draw.

"I'm lucky No. 7," she says, referring to her accession as Dolly Gallagher Levi, wily matchmaker of Little Old New York, following such distinguished predecessors as Carol Channing—who began the dynasty on Jan. 16, 1964—Ginger Rogers and Pearl Bailey, among others.

Come early September—the exact date depends on possible minor adjustments in the summertime schedule—"Hello, Dolly!" can pass the 2,717-performance longevity mark set by that other fabulous musical dame, "My Fair Lady." Only one major musical ever played longer in the English-speaking world, the London production of "Oliver" with 2,811 showings.

Miss Merman's contract takes her into November, for "I couldn't play just through 2,718 and say 'bye-bye'—I couldn't do that." She expresses hearty admiration for producer David Merrick, for whom she previously worked in "Gypsy," her all-time favorite.

"Listen," she says, anticipating any possible adverse opinion, "sure he has heart. You must judge people as you find them. Until someone does something wrong to me, that person is okay with me."

During most of her career, stagers have allowed Merman to find her own way into characterization. "They never had to tell me how to read, just where to enter and exit."

Doing what comes naturally looms large in an analysis of the Merman theatrical mystique:

"I can sense things. Sure, there's a lot of luck to it, too. I have approval of the book of any show I do. I look for good lines and I know what will sound good coming out of me."

Miss Merman is a bit heftier than a while back, but the poise, the verve and voice are sure as ever. The lady who heeded George Gershwin's advice to never take a singing lesson, acknowledges unanimous critical cheers and those nightly bravos with: "At least I don't have to prove I've still got the voice. And I still breathe wherever I have to."

Since appearing three years ago in a limited Lincoln Center reprise of "Annie Get Your Gun," she has kept in thespic trim with cross-country stints in another of her most noted shows, "Call Me Madam"—"which we updated into the Johnson administration."

About her bounding on-stage energy—"Well, I haven't done the 'Dolly' laundry yet this week."

About applause—"All I think when it's happening is, what do I do next?"

No star ever pleased everybody, of course, and realist Merman concedes: "Some people think I'm too brassy. Well, it's been a long, brassy experience for me."

Out of the spotlight, Miss Merman is a homebody, close to her parents, awaiting a summer visit from the grandchildren, unpossessively keeping track of her own son in California. After four marriages and four divorces, however, she feels no further connubial urge.

"I play the field," she says. "I have a nice group of friends and I divide myself between them and have fun. That's all. No, nothing serious with any man. I don't think that's in the cards for me."

One thing really ruffles her cool, and that's being listed as 61 years old—a circumstance that demonstrates the peril of lying.

"I brought the whole thing on myself," the star explains to straighten out the record. "When I got to Broadway I wanted to be thought older than I was, so I told everybody I was born in 1909.

"But I'll show you my baptismal certificate from the Church of the Redeemer in Astoria. The year was actually 1912, Jan. 16. I'm 58, and I'm not ashamed of that at all." Pause. "What bugs me are a few people calling me the 'old lady of the theater.'"

To see her is to know otherwise, emphaticaly.

Lucky Number Seven

Ethel Merman follows six predecessors in the name role of "Hello, Dolly!" on Broadway at present (center). She's been a box office draw since 1930: the pictures here, clockwise from top left, show her in 1953, 1964, 1959, 1967, 1934, 1959, 1966, 1954, 1938, 1970, 1947 and 1969. If she has her way, "Hello, Dolly!" could be her last musical. But not the end of show business for her. "I'd like to do a straight play," she says. "Something different." (AP)

Search Of Dorms Concluded

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Authorities say a search of Kent State University's 3,316 dormitory rooms after the campus was closed May 4 following the shooting deaths of four students turned up a shotgun, a damaged pistol and many knives.

Nonstudents had occupied some of the rooms.

Some sources claim there was sniper fire before National Guardsmen opened fire during the campus antiwar demonstration in which the four died. It has not been determined whether the four played any role in the protest.

Portage County Prosecutor Ronald Kane, displaying the items Friday, said they were taken during the dormitory search by the State Patrol. He said the "facts will speak for themselves."

Exhibited for newsmen in the campus gymnasium were a .20-gauge single shot shotgun and a damaged weapon described as a .25-caliber pistol, scores of knives ranging from machetes to penknives, five air pistols, four slingshots, 10 blank-firing starters' pistols, five marijuana plants growing in pint-size milk cartons and a laundry bag containing pornographic pictures.

Quantities of pills and capsules also were displayed. Officials said the drugs ranged from halucinogens to vitamin pills and antibiotics.

Also confiscated were a baton twirler's torch baton and carrying case, a bottle labeled benzine, the burned-out stubs of a highway flare, and a rock wrapped in red cloth.

Florence Henderson's Talent Plainly Evident

NEW YORK (AP) — While there may not be an enormous amount of suspense for the audience in "The Brady Bunch," the ABC series has been a real-life cliff-hanger this season for one of its stars, Florence Henderson.

Miss Henderson, a petite blonde with a big, pure soprano voice, made her debut in September in her first television series with the Hollywood brand.

That in itself seemed almost an anticlimax, since Florence has been popping up on the tube with frequency since the golden days when she served briefly as NBC's "Today Girl" during Dave Garroway's tenure and was a member of Jack Paar's small inner circle of favorite guests.

Television served her well as a showcase for her talents and carried her on to Broadway—almost two years in the title role of the musical "Fanny"—and on to the road as star of national companies and into big, special summer productions.

Like just about every other well-known performer, she also was involved in the making of a pilot show for a TV situation comedy.

Miss Henderson knocked off the pilot after working through tests for the six children who were to play important roles. "The Brady Bunch," complete with laugh track, is the adventures of a widow with three daughters who marries a widower with three boys.

After she did the pilot bit, she went on to star in her first movie, an adaptation of the musical, "Song of Norway," which was shot mainly on location in the land of fjords.

But unlike 99 per cent of situation comedy pilots, this one found a berth in a network schedule. Florence scurried home, picked up her four young children and, with a lot of help from her husband, Broadway producer and manager Ira Bernstein, rented a house in the Hollywood Hills and went to work.

Then, a preliminary batch of shows completed, it was back to New York to wait and see how the series went down. It was, frankly, touch and go. At the 11th hour, "The Brady Bunch" survived ABC's drastic overhaul of its schedule. Then it was back to Hollywood for another batch of shows, followed by another waiting period to see if the series would be renewed for a second season.

"It really has been a pretty hectic year," the performer admitted. "It was pretty rough for the family and it has been difficult for the career. You just can't call up people the last minute and say, 'Hey, I'm available.'"

Talent Tells

Florence Henderson's twin talents — a real feeling for comedy plus a glorious voice — practically insure her employment. But she's had some anxious moments this year about the TV series she started, "The Brady Bunch." So far, so good: the series has survived. Meanwhile, Florence has been starring in her first movie, "Song of Norway," an adaptation of the musical. (AP)

Ann Landers

'Sterile Cuckoo' Father Of Child

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and had a very good job as a secretary in a college until I got pregnant. Due to the morning, afternoon and evening sickness I had to quit work. I am five months along and don't feel (or look) well enough to get another position.

When I told my boyfriend I was pregnant, he said he'd do anything to help — except marry me. Last night he announced that he intends to keep his word and help me financially but he can prove in court that the baby belongs to someone else. I asked him how he came to such a ridiculous conclusion. He replied, "Because I am sterile."

I happen to know this is a dirty lie because I didn't even look at anyone else during the year we went together. If he is sterile, he got that way recently. In fact, I wouldn't put it past him to get himself sterilized to beat the paternity rap.

Shall I go to a lawyer and prove the child is his and make him pay? Or shall I trust him to keep his word? Court cases like this are usually a mess, especially if the guy decides to have three "friends" stand up for him and say they know firsthand the girl is a tramp. Please advise me. — Trouble In Streator

Dear Trouble: A lawyer cannot help you prove the child is his. In fact a doctor can't even do this. Blood tests can prove that a man did NOT father a child, but such tests cannot prove he did.

Your boyfriend sounds cuckoo. Whether or not he is a sterile cuckoo is another matter. I suggest you see a lawyer — not to file a paternity suit but to get something down on paper regarding financial assistance from the heel.

Dear Ann Landers: You'll never print this but I have to write it anyway. The woman who married the homosexual and regretted it does not speak for every woman. I am married to a homosexual and I'm sure I made the right decision.

We have a lovely home, four children, and fewer problems than most of our straight friends. We go with the nicest people in town and I can tell you for a fact that not one of these men is faithful to his wife. If your husband swings, what difference does it make if he's swinging with the boys or girls? If a man has something going for him his wife can count on being alone a few nights a week — and there isn't a cockeyed thing she can do about it.

Marriage means problems. This is normal. I admit my husband and I have had our share but our problems are no worse than anyone else's — just different. — Hayward, Calif.

Dear Hayward: They're different all right, and so are some of your ideas on marriage. Different from mine, for example. Thank you for writing.

Confidential to Countdown: If the best thing you can say about the girl is, "She has her weight under control now and she holds her liquor well" the future is not very promising. Ask yourself how she will look to you in five years if her weight gets out of control and she doesn't hold her liquor so well? The odds lean heavily in that direction and the possibilities for a poor marriage are endless.

How far should a teen-age couple go? Can necking be safe? When does it become too hot to handle? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking And Petting — What Are The Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pepsi Executives Meet With Sedalia Newsmen

By GINGER MOORE
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

James Sommerall, president and chairman of the board of the PepsiCo Company, and actress and Pepsi board member Joan Crawford met the press Friday with the president of the Sedalia Pepsi plant, Julian H. Bagby.

Sommerall answered questions on progress of work by the company to find a disposable bottle which would not add to the ecology problem, and on the work done by the Pepsi Company with the U.S. Jaycees on the "Do Something" campaign.

Pepsi has already tested, on a limited basis, the use of a plastic bottle in Las Vegas, said Sommerall. These bottles would be cheaper, safer and would be more easily disposed of. The bottles are considerably lighter and smaller and if they are returned, would be cheaper in the long run.

The average life of a Pepsi bottle is about 23 trips, according to Bagby. The plastic bottle could also do this and would cost about four to five cents as opposed to eight or nine cents for glass bottles.

Also in connection with the new bottles the Pepsi company is working with the National Keep America Clean group and other anti-litter campaign groups to educate the public on proper disposal of the bottles.

The U.S. Jaycees and the Pepsi company have recently been cited by President Richard Nixon for their efforts in the "Do Something," campaign in which youths are encouraged to put their efforts to good use.

Miss Crawford answered questions ranging from the mini versus maxi skirt lengths ("If you've got 'em show 'em") to what do you think of nudity ("at home it's fine"). About changing morals on screen Miss Crawford said, "Who wants to have an affair under the lights? It's just about run its course though, the viewing of sex, not sex."

She said she very much enjoyed television and was looking forward to doing more. When asked about the selling of MGM properties she said, "I don't want anything, I don't live in the past." Miss Crawford said she thoroughly enjoyed her visit to Sedalia and that at the luncheon everyone looked as if "they'd been dressed from Neiman-Marcus."

Bagby answered questions about the local plant, stating that there were approximately 45 employees and that the company covered a 10 county area. The Pepsi company has production facilities in 116 countries.

The press conference was concluded with a reception for press members.

BUSINESS NEWS

William E. Green, Route 1, an employee of Pittsburgh-Corning, was installed as president of the west central chapter of credit unions at the May meeting at Bothwell Hotel. He and the new officars of the organization were installed by Ray Kelley, supervisor of credit unions' office of the state division of finance.

Other officers include Mrs. Dale Blackwell, Warrensburg, first vice president; Lanny Crouch, 705 West Fifth, an employee of Rival Manufacturing Co., second vice president; Thomas R. Charrett, Whiteman Air Force Base, secretary-treasurer; and Clara Markley, Warrensburg, registrar.

Members of the executive committee elected were James E. Anderson, Route 1, a Town and Country Shoes employee; Marguerite E. Scott, and Charles R. Wheeler, both of W.A.F.B.

Henry L. Twyman, 1413 South Prospect, was presented a plaque made up of specially minted commemorative coins set in an automative design, by the Gates Rubber Co., Denver, for "exceptional customer service."

Twyman is employed at Cook's Service Station, 818 South Limit. The rubber company sponsors a nation-wide contest to reward service station personnel who show outstanding service in carrying out their jobs.

The Fitzwilliam Volkswagen dealership, 620 West Main, will relocate on the southeast corner of Main and Highway 65, R. A. Fitzwilliam said Friday.

The need for expansion led to the decision to move into larger, more modern facilities, Fitzwilliam said. Site preparation is already underway, though actual construction will not begin until next spring. The facility should be complete sometime in 1971.

In a related development, the citizens zoning and planning commission met Thursday night and drew up an ordinance to rezone the new location for highway business. The ordinance will come before the city council for approval Monday night.

Fitzwilliam has been at the present location eight years. The old building will be leased out after the dealership moves.

Class officers for the 1970-71 school year were elected recently at Smith-Cotton High School. Officers for the senior class are: Steve Gerlecz, president; James Webb, vice-president; Rayanna Hall, secretary-treasurer; David Arnest, reporter; Jeri Iuchs, sergeant-at-arms; Candy Estes, queen; Joyce Reid and Ann Norris, attendants.

Junior class officers are: Kathy Garner, president; John Mahoney, vice-president; Dawn DeHaven, secretary; Gayle Maples, treasurer; and Kathy Dawson, reporter.

Freshman class officers are: Jamie Shumaker, president; Thomas Mefford, vice-president; Mary Jo Holden, secretary-treasurer; David Baker, reporter; and John Mullis, sergeant-at-arms.

The game of soccer or association football has been played in Britian for centuries, probably since before the Norman conquest.

Garry Anders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anders, 620 South Massachusetts, a junior at Smith-Cotton, was presented the John Phillip Sousa Band Award at the Annual Spring Concert Thursday night in the S-C auditorium. Garry plays the trumpet in the Senior High Band, Orchestra, Stage Band, and Brass Sextet. The award was presented by Robert Cummings, instrumental instructor at S-C.

Unemployment Claims Are Up in City

Job openings, applications for work and placements all decreased in April, according to the Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

Officials at the office said the transportation strike was a key factor in the number of unemployment insurance claims paid. They totalled $18,699 more than the same period last year.

Applications for work dropped by 32 last month, job openings fell by 72 and placements were off 16 compared to the previous month.

Jo Anne Worley Seeking New Fields

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jo Anne Worley, the big, boisterous, good-looking loudmouth on "Laugh-In," is the latest drop-out from the Rowan & Martin television series.

Emulating Goldie Hawn, who won an Oscar for a supporting role in her first movie, "Cactus Flower," and England's Judy Carne, the sock-it-to-me girl who has returned to the stage, Miss Worley reasons: "The show has been so good to me and for me, that I'm now in a position to do other things."

Her own TV series is being planned at Warner Bros. for next year. She'll guest star on Andy Williams' shows and others, match wits regularly on "Hollywood Squares" and this fall appear with Woody Allen, Tom Smothers and Jonathan Winters on an NBC Saturday children's series, "Hot Dog."

For the month of July the singer-comedienne is booked at the Sands Hotel, Las Vegas. She has had movie offers "but so far nothing really yummy." She may make a return appearance or two on "Laugh-In" next season—"like visiting the family."

Besides general clowning at full vocal throttle on "Laugh-In", Miss Worley has been its specialist in "chicken jokes." She thinks calling hogs, cows and chickens as an Indiana farm girl helped develop her powerful voice.

Besides—"When you're out on a farm you don't have neighbors, right? So when you're growing up your parents aren't always going 'Sh! Sh! Quiet!' You can go out and scream and holler and yell as much as you want to. And if you want to call somebody you really have to project. My whole family screams."

The middle of five children—her parents are now divorced and remarried—Jo Anne Worley ("rhymes with whirly") grew up on a farm near Lowell, Ind. She earned Christmas money by scavenging corn missed by the mechanical harvester, and selling the ears to a granary.

In high school she saved tips and pay earned as a truck stop waitress near her home to enroll, after graduation, at a summer theater in Nyack, N.Y. She'd seen the ad in Theater Arts Magazine in the school library.

"My father said, 'You're going to pay THEM?' I had no training but a lot of guts. I wanted to see what show business was. I was an apprentice, paid them for room and board. I swept, painted scenery, made props—and played one of the men in 'Mr. Roberts' and one of the teachers in 'Picnic.'"

The experience brought her a drama scholarship to Midwestern University, Wichita Falls, Tex. Afterward came the Pasadena Playhouse, the Billy Barnes Revue, night clubs, TV guest spots and, three years ago, an audition for the then-aborning "Laugh-In."

The corn-fed girl grew into a big woman, now early-thirtyish, brunette, with dark-chocolate eyes. "I'm 5-feet-8½, but with hair and heels a good 6 feet. I'm 135 pounds and 40-28-40. Big but well-proportioned."

Still unmarried, Miss Worley says: "I keep trying. I think it's the business I'm in, show business. I don't meet eligible men. They're either already married—somebody's already glommed 'em off—or they'd like to do my hair.

"The only eligible men left are divorced men, and they're usually burned and bitter."

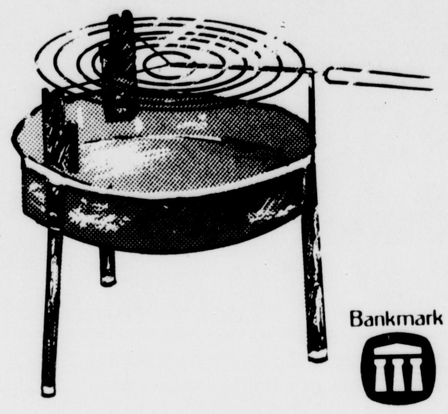

She has a current steady date, "a divine gentleman," actor and composer Roger Perry, but she says there are no immediate prospects of marriage.

She enjoys cooking—"being from a farm, very basic things like bread, cookies, pies, meat and potatoes. And fudge. We made fudge every day."

"If you vocalize you let it go—the energy that is needed to do something. If you hang in there for a while you're bound to have some ability. You learn your craft."

Peace and Quiet

In contrast to violent confrontation between student demonstrators and construction workers, there was communication between members of the two groups in lower Manhattan late this week. Sitting together at a construction site near N.Y.U. during the lunch hour, they discussed the ideas and sympathies which had previously led to fighting. It was mutually agreed that violence was no answer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alcoholic or drug-induced impairment of pilot judgment figured in 11 light-plane crashes in which 23 persons died, according to a new survey by the National Transportation Safety Board.

The immediate causes of the crashes, according to the report, included failure to obtain and maintain flying speed after takeoff, uncontrolled descent, and visual flying into adverse weather by pilots unrated to fly by instruments.

But in all the cited cases, according to the report, the pilots' blood contained sufficient alcohol to cause befuddlement, and in one case was found to contain barbiturates as well.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to sell 16 military jets to Argentina and has agreed in principal to the sale of 50 other jets to Brazil, Chile and Colombia.

The State Department made the announcement Friday and added it is seeking to counteract what it called the increasing dependence of Latin American countries on European suppliers of military hardware.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Information Agency announced today five U.S. cultural centers have ceased operations in India at the request of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

The centers were located in Bangalore, Hyderabad, Lucknow, Patna and Trivandrum.

The Indian government asked Feb. 18 that the United States and all other countries close down cultural centers in cities where consulates are not maintained.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A memorial portrait of Dwight D. Eisenhower hangs in the hallway outside the office of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird in what, from now on, will be known as the Eisenhower Corridor.

The painting, by the late Thomas E. Stephens, a friend of the Eisenhower family, depicts the former president and World War II hero in the uniform of Army Chief of Staff.

During a Friday dedication ceremony, attended by Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, the late president's widow, Laird said: "No man of his time was so trusted and so loved by so many people."

Election Change Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has ordered into operation a new Civil Rights plan aimed at giving minority groups a better chance of getting elected to local boards charged with administering federal farm programs.

The Agriculture Department announced the plan on Friday. It involves nearly 73,000 "community committeemen" elected annually to help oversee county operations of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Officials said the major change is the method used in nominating candidates for ASCS community positions. Last year there were 24,294 such committees, each with three members.

The community committeemen in turn elect county ASC committees which directly administer federal farm programs, including acreage allotments, price supports and direct payments to farmers.

Previously, the community candidates were nominated by incumbent members prior to their annual expiration of office.

At least six candidates and no more than 10 were nominated by the incumbents. Regulations also said in communities where minorities numbered 10 per cent of the population at least one from the group had to be named as a candidate.

A spokesman for the agency said, however, that in some cases the minority member chosen by the incumbent committeemen did not represent the choice of the minority voters.

As a recourse, the official said, the ASCS allowed dissidents to nominate another candidate—or several, if the limit was not exceeded—by use of petitions.

Civil Rights critics have charged that this sytem resulted frequently in dividing the minority votes so badly that the top three at the ballot box turned out to be whites.

Now, the Agriculture Department says, the petition method will be given precedence. Nominations will be shut off after six candidates are named by petition.

Also, the department said, at least one minority member must be on the slate of candidates in areas where minorities total eight per cent or more. A spokesman said he did not know why the requirement was lowered from 10 per cent as previous.

Officials said they had no estimate on how many of the 24,294 community committees are in areas of 8 per cent or more minority groups.

However, a spokesman said, last year under the 10 per cent rule about 500 counties were in the minority group category.

With an average of eight community committees per county, this would mean approximately 4,000 local boards with about 12,000 members representing areas of 10 per cent minorities or larger.

At last count, an ASCS official said, the system of community committees included nationally only 501 members of minorities. These included Negro 161; Spanish-American 157; Indian 128; and Oriental 55.

The new rule does not guarantee minority groups to be on ASCS committees, only that they must be represented or slates of candidates where minorities represent 8 per cent or more of the local population.

Program Finds Support From Sen. Mansfield

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield Friday defended the Reserve Officers Training Corps program as one that provides "a significant and far reaching civilian influence in the military services."

Mansfield said in a Senate speech that ROTC has become "a convenient target for the frustration which has been engendered by the tragic and unending involvement in Indochina. . .

"Whatever the frustration with respect to the war in Indochina, the burning of ROTC installations is unexcusable and is destructive not only of property but of the rights of other students. . .

"The students who choose the ROTC path serve their country and their fellow students very well," he said. "The option to follow it by way of ROTC should be preserved. It is a valuable ingredient in retaining a civilian controlled military force in this nation."

Underground is Literary Goldmine

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — An ever-growing flood of manuscripts smuggled from the Soviet Union testifies to the vitality of a Russian literary underground, despite all efforts by the Communist regime to suppress it.

Out of the U.S.S.R. comes novels, poems political pamphlets and tracts, some disclosing information which ordinarily would be available only to the Soviet secret police.

Much of this stream of dissidence finds its way to the Frankfurt office of Michel Slavinsky, a manuscript editor for the Russian-language publishing house dalled Posev—Sowing. The presses of Posev produced works by Nobel Prize winner Boris Pasternak before he received international acclaim, and by Alexander Solzhenitsyn, considered by many to be Russia's greatest living writer.

Slavinsky, French-born son of a czarist naval officer, says he expects that the Soviet crackdown on Solzhenitsyn, author of "Cancer Ward" and "The First Circle," to inspire an even greater output of underground works by defiant Russian writers.

As proof that the writers have joined battle with the regime Slavinsky points to the growing number of "samizdat"—self-publication — works being produced in the U.S.S.R. These reach wide audiences through a simple device. The originator of the pamphlet makes four copies to send to four friends. Each is asked to make four copies to send to four others, a process by which hundreds of thousands can be reached eventually.

Underground manuscripts get to the West in a number of ways. Some simply are mailed by way of neutral countries. Others are carried out by travelers. Some are on microfilm, some on sound tapes.

One underground periodical comes out at regular intervals and is considered by many the most important of its kind. Called "Chronicles of Current Events," it began publication two years and a dozen issues ago.

Since then Chronicles has brought to light many aspects of Soviet dissent. It has detailed Russian criticism of the invasion of Czechoslovakia. It carried material on the confinement of dissident writers to asylums. It even carried textual extracts of KGB interrogations, which caused some in the West to speculate that Chronicles had contacts within the secret police organization.

Posev publishes much of what Chronicles produces.

"Ten years ago, the Soviets tried to tell such writers they were working for nothing because no Soviet citizen would read what they wrote," says Slavinsky. "Five years ago, the officials said the stuff was laughable and called them outsiders and lunatics."

Now, he says, Soviet officials take the writers seriously and call them dangerous tools of the anti-Communist NTS—League of Russian Solidarists—which is based in West Germany. Slavinsky admits that he and some other Posev editors are NTS members, but says Posev is independent of it and all outside organizations.

Posev, he says, manages to earn enough to divert part of its money to printing digests of its two periodicals, a political monthly called Posev and a literary quarterly called Grani—Aspects. Both are mailed at random to the Soviet Union and Slavinsky says up to 70 per cent of the digests, copies numbering in the thousands, get through because postal employes cannot open all the mail.

Reports Killings Planned

SAIGON (AP) — A research study says the killing of Hue citizens by Communist-led troops in the 1968 Tet offensive was planned and systematic, rather than random slaughter.

The study report says the killing occurred in three stages during the 26-day battle for Hue. It started with the elimination of persons on a blacklist and ended in efforts by the retreating forces to "leave no witnesses."

These findings are reported by Douglas Pike, U.S. government political analyst and author who is widely regarded as a top Western expert on the Viet Cong. His report, titled, "The Viet Cong Strategy of Terror," says evidence indicates that virtually all known victims of the bloodbath were slain by some 150 local Viet Cong cadre, rather than North Vietnamese troops. He says it is not known where the execution orders originated.

Pike says 2,810 bodies have been exhumed from the series of mass and single graves at nearly 20 locations south and southeast of the old imperial capital. In addition, 1,946 persons are listed as missing. Many may be in graves not yet discovered or exhumed.

"Virtually no Communist killing was due to rage, frustration or panic during the Communist withdrawal at the end," Pike writes.

This explanation has been offered by some observers but does not hold up under scrunity, he says, adding:

"Quite the contrary, to trace back any single killing is to discover that almost without exception it was the result of a decision rational and justifiable in the Communist mind. In fact, most killings were, from the Communist calculation, imperative."

Attacked By Owls

EDINBORO, Pa. (AP) — For three days, two seemingly lethargic young owls perched on trees over the entrance gate of Edinboro College.

Then, suddenly, they attacked three coeds sitting on a bench under the trees and clawed them about the head. The coeds were treated and released from the college health center.

"I've never heard of owls attacking anybody," said Dr. John Morris, a physician on the campus.

Lake Superior is the largest body of fresh water in the world. It is fed by more than 200 rivers.

Swan Family

If spring is here, can baby brother — or sister — be far behind? A mother swan at the Philadelphia Zoo Wednesday snuggled two newly arrived cygnets close to her while waiting for the third egg to hatch as father waits patiently behind. (UPI)

Electric Co-ops Seeking Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-seven senators asked President Nixon Thursday to force the Budget Bureau to release $20 million to the Rural Electrification Administration for loans to rural electric cooperatives.

"Because of the present shortage of loan funds," they said, "many rural electric systems throughout the United States are being forced to reduce their four-day work week."

The result, they said, "will be that residents of rural areas are not going to get the type of electric service to which they have been accustomed and to which they are entitled."

Among those signing the letter to Nixon were Sens. Fred R. Harris, J.W. Fulbright, Thomas F. Eagleton, and Stuart Symington.

Black and White Marriages Meet With Wide Disapproval

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

Once they've weathered the initial shock and swallowed their hangups, the question most parents ask when their daughter announces she's going to marry a black man is: "But what about the children?"

It's a hesitant question, of course, steeped in skepticism, veiled in fear. It reflects both the anguished self-appraisal of "Where did we go wrong?" and the concern, "What will the neighbors think?"

The world is complicated enough, the elders argue. Marriage has enough hurdles. Why risk one more?

"Because our similarities outweighed our differences."—Dr. Robert Murray, black geneticst, Washington.

"Because we knew we were in love and that the biggest problems would be ones other people made for us."—Kenneth Jackson, black patrolman, Detroit.

"Because, ideally, isn't this the way the world should be?"—Jacqueline Parrish, a white housewife, Boston.

Fifteen couples in four cities—New York, Washington, Detroit and Boston—indicated in recent Associated Press interviews that, in most of the country, they find little acceptance of interracial marriage, especially among what they call "the white middle class."

Almost all of them have experienced the anger and frustration of being refused at restaurants, the bitter helplessness of not having a personal check accepted or, perhaps most disheartening, the moments when the white woman next door won't let her children play with those who are "part colored."

Some of the couples interviewed purposely don't tell their employers or business associates about their family arrangements for fear of not being promoted, being fired, or, as one woman said, "just because there are some things you don't tell, to make life easier."

Still, the couples wrestle with hope for their children's world, envisioning one free of hate, frustration, envy, prejudice, neglect, despair. They are optimistic; they don't feel the barriers are insurmoutable.

Along with the vows to love, honor, cherish and obey, they accept the probabilities of housing difficulty, travel limitations, inadequate restaurant service, uncashed checks, family pressures, and friendships which sometimes wane.

Many of the couples, though optimistic about their own marriage, said they feel a growing polarization between the races, a divisive force which could kindle more violence, perhaps even separatism.

Most said they live in integrated neighborhoods but that they "think black." This, they said, means they've overcome color barriers, that to "think white" means to think prejudice.

One black man who is about to become a father for the first time said he wants only sons "because they're easier to arm."

Some of the white wives, who are married to young black militant types, said they fear for their husbands' lives in any racial confrontation. Some concede they fear for their own as well.

But not, they said, for the lives of their children. They seem to feel the young will lead this country down the road of racial understanding towards racial peace. They said interracially married parents are still paying the dues, but one day their children will roam free.

Bob and Peachy Murray of Washington have been married 13 years and have three attractive children of their own. Colin, 12, is in junior high and plays the piano. Bobby, 10, plays the flute, swims almost every night and hopes to be in the Junior Olympics. Suzanne, 8, is in the third grade and plays the clarinet.

Last year, the Murrays adopted a baby daughter whom they've been told is "mixed breed"—a harsh term to describe the little girl who is almost as light skinned as her Caucasian mother and whose brothers and sister brag, "she's integrated, just like us."

"I really don't think the kids will have many problems they can't handle," said Dr. Murray, an assistant professor at Washington's Howard University who grew up in Newburgh, N.Y.

"They choose with which race they want to identify," Dr. Murray said. "One week the boys will have a white girl friend, the next week a black one."

Peachy Murray, one of 10 children whose father is a Methodist minister in Houghton, N.Y., says her parents didn't approve of the marriage and refused to attend the wedding.

"They've mellowed some and they adore the children," Mrs. Murray said as she brushed her long dark hair off her face. "But they can't understand how this is God's will. The children know this, but they can't understand why, if my parents love them, they couldn't accept Daddy."

The Murrays live in an integrated neighborhood in the northwest section of the capital and said, yes, both their black and white friends accept their marriage.

"Of course we circulate in an academic community," Dr. Murray said. "Even if they disapprove of us, they think they're too sophisticated to say so."

The Murrays say they don't condone interracial marriage for everyone, certainly, and agree that couples who marry to defy society or their parents or who harbor a secret desire to be social workers are going to have problems.

They say that as in any marriage, it helps if the educational and economic backgrounds are similar, and then they remind you that those marriages don't always work out either.

"Mixed marriage is a mystery to most people," he continued. "It's a dark closet full of ghosts. The fact is, a mixed marriage is like any marriage."

Another Washington couple, David and Alice Littlefield, say they feel the pressure of what they call "a silent taboo" against interracial marriage in both black and white communities.

Alice Littlefield, a tall black woman who seems most comfortable when playing with one of her children, said some of her young black friends at work disapprove of a racially mixed marriage.

"It's shocking for whites to realize black people are prejudiced, too," Mrs. Littlefield said as she jostled 2-year-old Melissa on her lap. "The black pride feelings among the younger blacks account for this."

Her husband, David, a librarian at the Library of Congress, said he's from "old New England Puritan stock" and the reaction of his parents to their marriage six years ago was "mostly shock."

Mrs. Littlefield said their three children, David, 5, Christopher, 4, and Melissa attend an integrated day care center and are aware but not bothered by color differences.

"We just want to bring them up as people. We're teaching them love, not prejudice," she said.

Public scrutiny, stares, harassment, housing difficulties and family pressures vary little from city to city. There's little doubt that for integrated couples, life in the cities is much easier than in suburbs, small towns or villages.

Most of the couples interviewed agreed that parents are guilty of teaching their children prejudice. Many said they feel their children's goal should be to lead this country down a road of racial understanding towards racial peace.

Mixed Match

When black and white marry, love has won out over fear. For Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murray of Washington, pictured here, "our similarities outweighed our differences." But recent Associated Press interviews with couples in major cities indicate that inmost of the country there is little acceptance of interracial marriage, especially among what they call "the white middle class."

BATHS DISCOVERED

UPLYME, England (AP) — An octagonal Roman plunge bath and a complex of hot and cold rooms were unearthed on a farm near here on the Dorset-Devon border.

The pool, which has a mosaic bottom, was found by members of the Devon Archaeological Society, and is the only one of its kind known in Britain. A coin found in the mortar dates the building to between AD 323-337.

Funds for College Are Hard To Find

By PETER WEAVER

With rising tuition costs, inflation and increased taxes, most families are hard-pressed finding funds to send their kids to college next fall.

At a state college, tuition, room and board will average $1,200 a year and at a private college it will average at least $2,400. This doesn't include all the extras such as books, recreation and transportation. That can add another $600 to the annual bill.

Financial aid officers at any given college will try to put together an "aid package" for your student if he or she qualifies. These packages can combine money you are able to contribute with scholarships, grants, loans and even student jobs.

But the competition for this college-controlled money, especially the scholarships, can be fierce. If your student's grades are just so-so, your chances diminish.

There are other sources, however, and these are often overlooked because they are spread out over hundreds of grants, scholarships, loans and fellowships offered by thousands of foundations, industrial associations, union, clubs, religious and ethnic organizations.

"We think there might be from $50 to $100 million worth of funds that go unclaimed from year to year because students and parents don't realize they might have a family background that is tailor-made for a specific scholarship."

So says Len Sausen, executive director of Scholarship Search Corp., a little-known company which has all the particulars on some 115,000 scholarships, grants and the like stashed away in the "memory banks" of its computer.

For $20, S.S.C., located at 342 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y., claims its computer will digest all your student's academic, family, religious, ethnic and miscellaneous background (for instance, there are scholarships exclusively for golf caddies). Then the computer prints a list containing all the scholarships your student is qualified to receive.

"Around 85 per cent of these scholarships and other funds are not related to grades," Sausen says. For example, one S.S.C. client, a Missouri high school student, wanted to go into printing. He had average grades. The computer found one national printing trust fund, a union fund and a half-dozen others that, when combined, will pay expenses for four years of college.

In another case, a New Jersey junior college student with only a C average got a combination of grants which permitted a transfer to a four-year college with most basic expenses paid.

Dr. Howard Egeth, a professor at Johns Hopkins University, who has compiled another imposing list of hard-to-find scholarships and grants, claims colleges are "sometimes reluctant to divulge information on scholarships or grants they don't control. If the money is unclaimed, they don't want alumni to know unused funds are sitting around." Egeth, using data processing procedures, hopes to load all his scholarship information into a tabulated scholarship "locator" book which would sell for less than $5.

There are a number of books already out on this subject. The basic volume, a must for college money hunters, is "Financial Aid for Higher Education" which you can get for $1 from: Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. This book tells you whether you can qualify for the various federal and state education funds. It lists many other sources of information. One of the best scholarship source books for the money is "Need a Lift," available for 25 cents at most American Legion Posts.

Banks, credit unions and savings and loans can provide government-insured student loans with easy terms (7 per cent interest, up to 10 years delayed payment). These funds are limited, though, and are sometimes hard to get. If you are turned down by your own bank, credit union or S & L, shop around your town, state and even out of state. Any lending institution where you have a connection or introduction through your job, family or friends is a good prospect.

This Week in Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices over the past week fell sharply but then made a strong comeback.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 17.43 to 702.22. The Dow had not gained as much since April 8, 1968 when it closed 18.61 points ahead.

The surge followed Thursday's performance when the Dow average skidded to 684.79 after having fallen below the 700 level on Wednesday for the first time in nearly seven years.

The drop came after a more gradual slide that saw the paper value of common stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange decline by $139 billion from $692 billion in the period from December, 1968 to end of April.

Investors, confronted with the biggest market losses since World War II, were completely demoralized, many analysts said.

Some brokers were equally pessimistic. "My customers keep asking me when the sell-off is going to end," said one. "I tell them the truth. I tell them I don't know."

Many factors appeared to contribute to the demoralization gripping the financial community. These included the U.S. involvement in Cambodia, the prospect of intensified conflict in the Middle East and continued unrest among the nation's youth.

On the bright side, the government reported Monday that wholesale prices in April held stable for the first time in 18 months. The drop was due mainly to a decline in food prices.

Not so encouraging to inflation fighters was the news that Unites States Steel Corp., the industry leader, was increasing its basic steel price by 4.7 per cent. The products involved account for at least 30 per cent of total industry shipments and are used in such consumer products as automobiles and refrigerators.

Bethlehem, the industry's second largest producer, had announced a similar increase last month.

Industry observers believed that, in view of the moves by the two biggest companies, the rest of the industry would follow.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that business inventories in March rose slightly in February while sales declined. The slump in sales was the sharpest decline—$1.07 billion— since a $1.24 billion drop last November.

The automobile industry reported a 22.9 per cent decline in car sales on a daily rate basis in the first 10 days of May. This represented the sharpest drop in daily sales for a reporting period since October, 1967, when there was a Ford Motor Co. strike

Dale, a 1968 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Dale, 2001 West 11th. A sophomore, he received the Chamber of Commerce marksmanship trophy for outstanding marksman in Military Science II.

Terry Siron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Siron, Route 4, and a student at William Jewell College, won first place in the junior division debate recently at a state tournament at Cape Girardeau. He and Ben Morse, a junior from Excelsior Springs, won all three debates at the Pi Kappa Delta regional debate at Spearfish, S.D.

Siron was chosen as sophomore representative to the student senate, the student governing body, for the coming year.

Pressing Prisoner Petition

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A tall, grey-eyed young Atlanta dentist wishes the American people would care. About "I Care."

"There are 1,500 brave men over there, in North Vietnamese prisons, kept in cages and underground caves fit only for pigs," says Dr. John Linder with an indignant shake of his head.

The 26-year-old dentist is trying to stir up indignation in others—millions of others—to bring them "out of apathy into commitment" by getting them to write letters to Hanoi, or sign "I Care" petitions.

The petition reads simply: "I care about the inhumane treatment our men are receiving as prisoners in Southeast Asia. You have my support in your efforts to bring relief to them."

Eventually, these petitions will be sent to Texas multimillionaire Ross Perot, who is organizing a nationwide truck pickup to send millions of them to Hanoi.

Thus far, Linder has 10,000 petitions which he admits is below expectations, but 500-600 are coming in every few days. And the "I Care" movement, started three months ago, already has spread to Minneapolis, St. Louis and Dayton, Ohio.

"I Care" seeks the release of the names of all prisoners, more humane treatment for them and inspection of prisons by the International Red Cross.

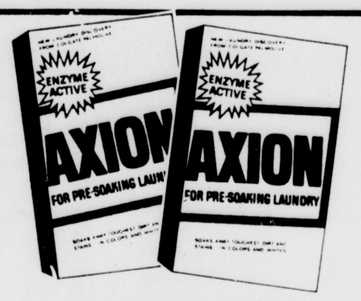

"Public support is the only voice to which Hanoi will listen," Linder said in an interview in his small modern paneled office.

Every concession granted thus far concerning American prisoners has been in response to massive public opinion, said Linder.

Prepares for U.S.O. Tour

By MARY PROCTOR
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Bill Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long, 2200 East 12th, is a young man with one eye on a future in musical show business and the other eye on what he calls "the security of teaching," as he graduates from the University of Missouri-Kansas City next month.

A 1965 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, Bill has been a veteran of the stage since school days, and at present is looking forward to a 10-week tour of the Orient this summer, with the university Swinging Choraliers.

The group is composed of 10 to 14 U.M.K.C. students who have entertained American troops overseas, Kansas City conventions and civic clubs and in different parts of the U.S. for the past four years.

On June 10 the Choraliers will leave for an appearance at "Expo 70" in Tokyo, and concerts with the U.S.O. in Hawaii, Korea, Okinawa, Taiwan, Guam and the Philippines.

In 1968, while entertaining with the USO in Europe, the group received an invitation to appear in the Berlin Folk Festival with their "Best of Broadway" repertoire, which includes dance numbers, and vocal and instrumental numbers from favorite musical stage productions.

Long is studying for a degree in music education. He is also teaching experimental classes in music, drama, and dance at the Jewish Community Center in Kansas City.

While in high school he had roles in "Flower Drum Song" and "South Pacific," appeared with the school orchestra and band, and found time to play bassoon in the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra. He was also organist at Wesley Methodist Church. He was a member of the Madrigal Singers, both at Smith-Cotton and U.M.K.C.

He appeared on "Campus Talent — USA" in 1967 and the following year went to Los Angeles to compete for scholarships offered by the Bell Telephone Co. While there, he sang on a television special at Christmastime with Marilyn Maye.

A consistent winner of I ratings in state vocal and instrumental contests, Bill also won first place honors at the State Fair in 1963, 1964 and 1965.

While awaiting his draft call after graduation, Long will entertain at Kansas City's Playboy Club, and do television commercials for Kansas City firms.

Singing Sedalian

Bill Long, second from left, is shown when he appeared with the U.M.K.C. Swinging Choraliers at the Berlin Folk Festival in 1968, as the group toured Europe with the U.S.O. This summer, Long, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long, live at 2200 East 12th, will appear with the college group at "Expo '70" in Tokyo, as well as several other concert appearances in the Far East in June.

At Training School

COLUMBIA — Five Missouri Division of Welfare case workers from Pettis and neighboring counties are attending a three-week training course at the Public Welfare Training Center at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

They are: Roma June Walker, Pettis County; Linda Lee Loyd and Pamela K. Simpson, Saline County; Merelle J. Munn, Lafayette County; and Tony Kelley, Cooper County.

See No Soviet-Sino Alignment For Asia

LONDON (AP) — Soviet authorities privately are ruling out any possibility of active military cooperation with Red China against the Americans in Indochina, some Asian and European diplomats reported today.

Informal Chinese efforts have been suggesting a reconciliation with the Russians to meet the challenge of President Nixon's intervention in Cambodia.

These diplomats said they have been told by senior Soviet colleagues any renewed Russian-Chinese cooperation would require a Chinese initiative. None has been sighted, and Moscow has no proposals to offer.

The informants have been in touch with high Soviet officials. Their informal exchanges have been reported to their home governments. The account they offered of Soviet thinking have been checked and cross-checked, examined against Moscow's actions and pronouncements and seem to have an authoritative ring.

The Soviet Union's policy, according to the informants, was summarized thus:

—The Kremlin is ready to provide all military aid for North Vietnam, and other left-wing Indochinese forces, short of manpower. This contrasts with unofficial Chinese talk of enlisting volunteers for service in Indochinese battle zones if they are needed.

—The Kremlin is resolved to avoid any direct confrontation with the Americans in, or over, Indochina. This ties in with a Western belief that Moscow would not mind watching the Chinese and Americans slugging it out in the region.

—The Kremlin is ready to go on providing the North Vietnamese with all the arms and equipment needed to replace the losses sustained during the American - South Vietnamese sweep through Cambodia.

Soviet circumspection over the Indochina crisis has been reflected in official actions and pronouncements.

The government-in-exile of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk, based in Peking, has yet to be recognized by the Russians. China and several other Asian Communist states have done so.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, while denouncing the U.S. thrust into Cambodia, did not go beyond threatening appropriate countermeasures. Their nature has yet to emerge.

BUSINESS NEWS

Hale Harmon, representative in the Sedalia area for United Farm Agency, Inc., reports that his company has just announced the recording of its 150,000th real estate sale.

Hale's firm, currently ranking as the nation's top advertiser of rural and suburban real estate, was founded in 1925 as a one-man operation in Kansas City, Missouri by the late Roscoe L. Chamberlain.

Mr. Harmon became United representative for the Sedalia area in December of 1968.

Jesse W. Taylor, 610 Southwood Drive, local representative for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, has recently completed a comprehensive course in mass marketing sales.

Mr. Taylor is associated with the G. Bert Doane Agency, general agency for Mutual and United at Main and 65 Highway.

43 Seniors to Graduate From Smithton's School

Graduation for 43 seniors at Smithton High School will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school auditorium.

Dr. Lyle B. Beaver, professor of physical education and recreation, and coordinator of recreation education at Central Missouri State College, will deliver the commencement address. He is also a member of state and national associations for health, physical education and recreation.

Wendell M. Ware, Smithton superintendent of schools, will introduce the speaker. Invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. Ron Hoenninger of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Sedalia.

Miss Kathryn Payne will play music for the processional and recessional, and a saxophone quartet, Dennis Jaeger, John McCutchen, Dwight DeWitt and Ben Embree, will perform a musical number, and Jaqulyn Gieschen will sing the theme from the motion picture "Romeo and Juliet."

Graduating seniors will be presented by Ben Walden, principal of the high school, and John Sneed, Jr., president of the board of education will confer the diplomas.

Baccalaureate exercises will be at 8 p.m. this evening, with the Rev. James Kane delivering the address. The Rev. John Steele will give the invocation and benediction, and the girl's glee club will sing "I May Never Pass This Way Again," accompanied by Miss Payne.

Awards night is set for Monday at 8 p.m. The Rev. Jerry Moon will give the invocation and benediction.

Finds Riot Cause In American Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Harvard psychiatrist says the emotional emptiness of the American home has set off a series of reactions in students that has contributed to campus violence.

Dr. A. M. Nicholi II of Harvard Medical School told the American Psychiatric Association Friday that parents today spend little time with their children and punish them by withdrawing what little affection they have offered.

This gives rise to "repeated feelings of rejection and resentment," Nicholi said.

He added that refusal of parents, college administrators and government leaders to listen to students "and affirm their worth as human beings" complicates the problem.

When the student goes to college and confronts a college administration and government hierarchy that is also remote and disinterested, Nicholi said, he experiences intense frustration and hostility.

The psychiatrist said the alienation produced by this type of leader "adds to the inner turmoil produced by the real social and political issues, issues which in themselves are sufficient to make the sensitive young person irrational."

Nicholi based his analysis on a study of the student strike and violence at Harvard in April 1969, including interviews with administrators, faculty, student leaders and reports on disorders at other campuses.

Nicholi said a partial answer may be "a renewed concern with some of the most basic premises of human relations, premises known some 2,000 years ago, rediscovered by modern psychiatry, and expressed most simply in terms of patience, compassion and love."

He warned that discontent and turmoil among the nation's youth will intensify "until faculty see teaching, not publishing, as their main task; until administrators focus their attention on students and not on bodies external to the university; and until government leaders visibly respond to young people, not as troublesome 'bums', but as the immediate heirs to this nation's future."

Nicholi suggested dividing the role of the college president into two positions—one responsible for students and faculty and the other for alumni, government and outside activities.

"Unless the role of the college president undergoes immediate and drastic change," he said, "our institutions of higher learning as they now stand will cease to exist."

The first scientific census of modern times was that taken in New France in 1666.

Gals Are Real 'Operators'

The patience of a saint, a degree in psychology, the coordination of a tightrope walker, and the speed of lightning are some of the many requirements for a position as a telephone operator.

Speed, accuracy and personality are of the utmost importance in the handling of some 7500 calls daily by only 15 or 20 operators. Chief operator, Mrs. Genevieve Watson, is responsible for the scheduling and operation of the traffic department of the Sedalia office of Southwestern Bell Telephone. "We handle long distance and directory assistance calls for some 20 surrounding towns," she said.

"In order to handle these calls quickly and accurately we must plan a week in advance approximately how many long distance calls will be made within a certain hour's time." This type of planning is what makes Mrs. Watson's job a challenge. Second-guessing the calls can be quite a job at times. "We plan for days like Mother's Day and holidays, but when a storm occurs, such as we had recently in Texas, it can be extremely difficult to get to all the calls as quickly as we would like to," she says.

Girls who apply for positions as telephone operators are given extensive interviews and testing. "An aptitude test is given," says Mrs. Watson, "to check the general aptitude of the girls and of course checking of references and personal interviews tell a lot about the girls."

Of the approximately 60 operators the office employs about 20 of them are on duty at a time. Shifts are arranged according to seniority and all operators work some night shifts.

After being employed a prospective operator is given instruction and training under a service operator. A training call-board is used during this time and the girls do not handle actual calls. After this training the girls will go on the regular board, but work under the continued supervision of the service operator until both the service operator and the new operator feel she is ready to "go it alone."

The girls are continually checked for their quality and quantity of performance. A constant check is kept on the speed with which the calls are answered and the number of calls handled. The goal of the operators is to answer all calls within a 6 second time period.

Direct distance dialing has cut down on the number of calls handled by the girls and therefore the company hasn't hired any new operators recently, however, they expect the number of calls handled to increase as the population of the towns served increases.

The four directory assistance operators handle about 3500 calls daily and again serve approximately 20 area towns.

There are two group chief operators who work directly under Mrs. Watson and who are responsible for the daily operation of the board. Miss Charlotte Nash and Mrs. Lois Bohon are her two assistants. Miss Nash told of some of the daily activities of the operator.

"Generally the calls are routine," she said, "but we handle approximately 10 to 15 emergency calls daily." These calls include calls for ambulances, to police, fire department and doctors. The operators are trained to handle emergency calls so as to provide the quickest possible aid.

"The girls enjoy playing detective, by trying to locate a party known to be in a certain city, if the calling party is friendly and courteous," she said.

The job must not be too taxing as there are a number of mothers employed including one mother of seven whose daughter also is an operator.

Mrs. Watson says that the most important part of the training is to remind the girls that "the customer is always right, even if he is wrong."

Checking the Board

Mrs. Genevieve Watson, chief operator, watches some of her operators at work handling the some 7500 calls which come in daily. The board which can accommodate up to 35 operators usually has approximately 20 operators. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Information, please?

The new title of directory assistance hasn't changed the work of the information operators except that perhaps they don't get as many silly calls asking for ridiculous information. The girls handle about 3500 calls daily for the Sedalia and surrounding area. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Job's Daughters Host Officials

Honors Guests

The Bethel No. 15 of Job's Daughters honored their mothers and national officers at a banquet Wednesday evening. Shown left to right are: front row, Mrs. Lauren Miner, Miss Becky Miner, honored queen; Mrs. Ina Erith, supreme guardian, Vancouver, Canada; Mrs. Bertha Welch, Mrs. Florence Gerwiner, grand guardian, St. Louis; back row, Mrs. Howard Gwinn, Miss Ruth Ann Gwinn, senior princess; Roy Fleming, associate guardian and past grand guardian; Mrs. Ann Brown, past grand guardian and past guardian of Bethel 15; Mayor Jerry Jones; Miss Beth Schroeder, junior princess and Mrs. Ann Schroeder.

The annual Job's Daughters Mother and Daughter banquet for Bethel No. 15, was held Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple, and for the first time in the history of Bethel 15 a Supreme Guardian paid a visit to Sedalia. Mrs. Ina Erith, Vancouver, Canada, International Supreme Guardian, spoke briefly. Other special guests were Mrs. Florence Gerwiner, Grand Guardian of Missouri, M.M.J.B., and Guardian of Bethel 49, St. Louis; and Roy Flemming, Associate Grand Guardian of Missouri, Associate Guardian of Bethel No. 19, St. Louis, and Mayor Jerry Jones of Sedalia.

The program was opened by Miss Becky Miner, honored queen, who welcomed the mothers and guests. The invocation was given by Miss Cathy Sprinkle and a poem, "A Tribute to All Mothers," was read by Miss Ruth Ann Gwinn, senior princess.

A response was given by Mrs. Howard Gwinn.

Miss Beth Schroeder, junior princess, paid tribute to Mrs. Bertha Welch who has served for some time as Guardian of No. 15, and presented her with a gift.

Mrs. Welch, in responding, told how she had been happy to be mother to all of the girls.

Mayor Jerry Jones welcomed the distinguished guests and commented on mother and child relationships.

Other guests introduced were: Ruth Aiken, past grand guardian of Missouri, past grand Bethel Guardian and past guardian of Bethel No. 37; Josephine Harvey, past grand guardian of Missouri, past grand bethel guardian and guardian of Bethel No. 29; Lela Myers, past grand guardian of Missouri, guardian of Bethel No. 26, and sponsor of the Kansas City Line officers club; Ann Brown, past grand guardian of Missouri, past grand Bethel guardian and past guardian of Bethel No. 15; Beverly Schmitt, grand librarian, guardian of Bethel No. 54, past honored queen of Bethel No. 54; Mildred Klassing, guardian of Bethel No. 19; Nancy Toner, vice guardian of Missouri, guardian of Bethel No. 7; past guardian Bethel No. 38, and past honored queen of Bethel No. 7; Charles Chaney, vice associate grand guardian of Missouri and past guardian of Bethel No. 29; and Francis Rudd, associate guardian of Bethel No. 15, and past grand guardian.

The back of the speaker's table was decorated with a large pink heart outlined with artificial deep pink roses, a bouquet of pink roses filled a basket on the table and white candles were in holders of many layers of pink net on which was a rose. On all the tables were rose corsages as favors and little pink baskets holding mints.

The banquet was followed by inspection and the drill was performed by Bethel No. 26 from Raytown.

The evening closed with a reception with Mrs. Ann Brown as chairman. The table was covered with a lace cloth over lime and centered with an arrangement of dogwood. On either side were two branch crystal candleholders with dogwood candles.

New Policies On Weddings, Engagements

Wedding pictures and stories should be turned in on the Thursday preceding the wedding, if possible. No wedding stories or pictures will be accepted more than two weeks after the event. Pictures of brides only will be published.

Engagement pictures will be published on Sunday only and must be submitted by noon Thursday preceding.

In order to better serve our readers with more timely society news, the following policy will be followed:

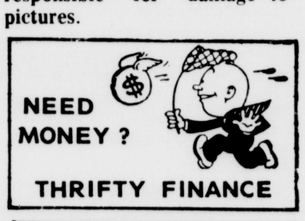

Showers, receptions and rehearsal dinners must be turned in by 3:30 p.m. the day after they occur, and will not be included in the wedding story.

Forms for engagement announcements and weddings are available at The Democrat office.

Pictures may be picked up at The Democrat office on the Monday following publication, but none will be returned by mail unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Miss Shirley Mae Guier And Ernest Dierker Wed

The United Methodist Church, Sweet Springs, was the scene of the double ring wedding of Miss Shirley Mae Guier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Guier, Sweet Springs, and Ernest Wayne Dierker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dierker, Sweet Springs.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John Gregory before an altar decorated with gladioli, mums and candelabra holding white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a latapeau and Venise lace trimmed A-line empire silhouette gown with a sabrina neckline, long full sleeves and complimented with a chapel train flowing from the shoulders and accented with a bow. She wore a fingertip veil of nylon tulle which fell from a headpiece of daisies and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Randall Fisher was matron of honor and Miss Barbara Schlue was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of yellow eyelet and carried colonial bouquets of white daisies.

The mother of the bride wore a violet knit dress ensemble with white accessories and the groom's mother wore an aqua blue knit dress with white accessories. They wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. The serving table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and decorated with yellow rose buds.

Serving at the reception were Miss Jill Rains and Miss Nancy Werner.

For the wedding trip to Southern Missouri the bride chose a pink knit dress with white accessories. She wore a yellow mum corsage.

The couple will reside in Warrensburg where they are attending Central Missouri State College.

Rainbow Installation Held in Knob Noster

Joy Yvonne Saul was installed as worthy advisor of Knob Noster Assembly No. 73, Order of Rainbow for Girls, at public installation services in the multi-purpose room of the Knob Noster Elementary school building last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Darrold F. Saul Sr., past mother advisor, welcomed the guests and the Bible ceremony was given by Mrs. Jerry Reis.

Miss Pam Faulconer was the installing worthy advisor. She was assisted by Carmen Warner, installing chaplain; Sharon Saults, installing marshal; Bonnie Baker, installing recorder; and Mrs. Merle Matthews, installing musician.

Other officers installed were worthy associate advisor, Louise Trelow; Charity, Cathy Galloway; Hope, Metta Otto; Faith, Donna Gibson; treasurer, Bonnie Baker.

Appointed officers were: Chaplain, Pamela Reis; drill leader, Carmen Warner; Love, Conny Jennings; Religion, Theresa Lockard; Nature, Lori Suttles; Immortality, Debbie Judd; Fidelity, Betty Ann Ernest; Patriotism, Rhonda Duffer; Service, Kanitra Harrison; musician, Betty Bawden; confidential observer, Lyonna Harris; outer observer, Karen Williams; and choir director, Wyonna Harris.

The presentation of the U.S. Flag was by Everett Smith, Wayne Whiteside, and Pat Squires, members of the DeMolay Order.

Miss Saul's term of office is dedicated to "Love"; her flowers are pink and white carnations; her colors, pink, white, and silver; and her Scripture is Mark 12:30-31-33 and John 15:13.

Miss Julie Johnson, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Larry Johnson, carried the crown on a white satin pillow and Miss Faulconer placed it on Miss Saul's head, as Bob Rodgers sang, "Daddy's Little Girl."

Miss Saul introduced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrold F. Saul Sr., and her brother, Darrold Jr.; and her aunt, Miss Lora T. Bott of Chicago, Ill. She presented corsages and gifts to the installing officers and others who assisted. These gifts were presented for her by Miss Lisa Johnson.

Miss Saul received a bouquet of pink and white carnations from Charles Covey, honorary Rainbow Dad, and other gifts.

Mrs. Saul presented a gavel to Miss Saul, and a silver charm to Miss Warner, who was past worthy advisor.

Mrs. Reis, member of the Rainbow Advisory Board, presented the past worthy advisor's pin to Miss Bonnie Baker, and she also presented bars to Misses Carmen Warner, Bonnie Baker, Metta Otto, Louise Trelow, Pamela Reis, Betty Ann Ernest, Cathy Galloway, Donna Gibson, and Holly Leak.

Mrs. John Cecilia, mother advisor, presented past advisor's gavel to Miss Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Saul were installed as members of the advisory board.

Miss Deeta Webster sang, "I Wish You Love", and at the close of the service she sang, "The Impossible Dream" to the new officers. The services were closed with prayer by Miss Bott.

Refreshments were served by Misses Jo Pountain and Sue Willis, from a table covered with a white cloth embroidered with pink roses. On the table were two cakes, one decorated with the Rainbow emblem and pot of gold, and the words, "Forever the Rainbow, Joy Yvonne Saul, Worthy Advisor." The other cake was pink and white, decorated with pink carnations and "Love", and her name.

Acknowledge Courtesies

Women, because they're women, are extended certain courtesies by men in our society. Such things as opening doors, lighting cigarettes, giving us the right of way on the road, are done for us. The truly feminine woman will never take any of these considerations for granted. She will always acknowledge courtesy with a nod of the head, a smile or a thank-you.

League Discusses Voting Age

The units of Sedalia's Provisional League of Women Voters this week took a thorough look at election procedures and lowering of the voting age in Missouri. Mrs. Bill McLaughlin, Miss Anna Marie Morseman and Miss Florence Morseman presented the programs and found the groups ready to consider the facts and to ask questions about the present election procedures of local, state and national elections.

In learning about the study subjects, a history of candidate selection was studied. The types of primaries and the different methods of selecting presidential candidates were heard. The leaguers expressed surprise that state voting procedures varied in such degrees. The study of lowering the voting age produced strong opinions in several of the meetings and resulted in the last unit meetings of the year being one of the most controversial.

Social Calendar

Information to be used in the social calendar must be turned in to the women's editor at least four days in advance of the event. Only the organization's name, time and meeting place will be used.

Hazel Hepburn Becomes Bride of Kenneth Neill

The Rev. W.P. Arnold officiated at the May 9 wedding of Miss Hazel Marie Hepburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hepburn, 1403 East 13th, and Kenneth Hugh Neill, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Neill, 1202 South Brown.

The double ring ceremony was performed before the altar of the East Sedalia Baptist Church which was decorated with bouquets of white chrysanthemums and yellow fugi mums.

The bride's mother was seated to the music of "Love is Blue" and the bridal attendants walked down the aisle to the theme from "Romeo and Juliet."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire style gown with u-shaped neckline and bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. The bodice was of white bridal satin accented with seed pearls and the skirt was of peach satin overlayed with layers of white organza, and trimmed with reembroidered lace.

Her elbow-length veil was of peach bridal illusion secured with white organza roses. Her bridal bouquet was a basket of mixed flowers and trimmed in white satin and her only jewelry was a pearl and gold pendant, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. William Bishop serves as matron of honor and Miss Martha Roberts and Mrs. Frank Yountz were bridesmaids. Their dresses were empire styled with scooped neckline, puff sleeves with ruffles at the wrist. The gowns were of printed chiffon in a peach, yellow and pink flower print on a mint green background accented with a mint green bow. Their headpieces were yellow pompom numbs with yellow and white ribbons which were laced through their hair. They carried bouquets of yellow fugi mums tied with yellow ribbons.

James Kretzer was best man and groomsmen were Michael Owen and Paul Stuart. Serving as ushers were William Bishop and Barry Neill, brother of the groom.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The serving table was covered with a white lace tablecloth over yellow and trimmed with smilax and yellow and white pompom mums. The cake which centered the table was trimmed with yellow roses, white dovers and wedding bells. It was topped with doves in a heart shaped frame.

Serving at the reception were Miss Patricia Marsh and Mrs. Vicky Lona and Mrs. Cecil Maples. Mrs. Michael Owen was in charge of the guest book.

The couple will reside at 915½ West Fourth.

ANCIENT AUSTRALIAN RELICS

MELBOURNE (AP) — Australia's oldest known aboriginal relics are being found in a peatmoss bog near Millicent on the Victoria-South Australia border.

Already four boomerangs, a few short pieces of spears and of spear throwers have been dug up by brothers Jim and John Van Schaik, operators of a peat-moss mining business.

The Curator of Anthropology at the Adelaide Museum, Robert Edwards, said the peat bog was a major archaeological discovery, and had the same perserving properties as bogs in Europe.

Jim Van Schaik said that the boomerang was found some months ago, but when the peat was cut away, the bommerang "shrivelled up."

All later discoveries have been sent to the Adelaide Museum in the blocks of peat.

Yolanda Padilla Marries Charles F. Weneke

Miss Yolanda Linda Padilla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Padilla, San Jose, Calif. and Charles Frederick Werneke, son of Mrs. Thelma Werneke, Houstonia and the late Walter Werneke, were married recently at the First Church of the Nazarene, San Jose, Calif.

The bride wore a full-length rose lace gown with a watteau train. She was attended by her sister, Miss Caroline Padilla and Miss Alexandria Majia.

Attending the wedding from Missouri were Mrs. Werneke and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Houchen, Sedalia.

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I always think there are much better ways than demonstrations to get your point across."—Tricia Nixon, President Nixon's oldest daughter, in a conversation with reporters.

"I think it was nice of her to accommodate us on such short notice. However, my sense of futility is as great as ever."—Ann Holmes, president of the Finch College student body, after a meeting with Tricia Nixon at the White House.

"You don't have to be a military expert to conclude that something is very, very wrong if after 16 years of promises, after 41,000 American dead and 300,000 American wounded and maimed, we are still looking for something called victory. This war is madness, pure and simple."—Mrs. Medgar Evers at the Women's National Democratic Club.

"He was not a radical student. He was not affiliated with any political groups. He was never in any demonstrations. He was just too sensitive."—Mother of 23-year-old George Winne Jr., who set himself afire and died as a protest against war.

"I think the President is doing a pretty good job with all the problems we're having."—Vicki Lynn Cole, the 13-year-old whose "Bring Us Together" sign inspired the slogan of the Nixon administration.

"This is a time for women to hold positions of policy-making. It is a time for women who bear children to decide if they want their children to die in a foreign land."—Angie Brooks, president of the United Nations General Assembly, proposing a "pax materna," a declaration of "peace between mothers."

Don't Be Hippy

To reduce upper hips and waist, try this simple exercise: Lie on your back, arms extended on floor, shoulders level. Palms turned up. Bend knees up over your chest. Keeping your knees together, roll them over the floor as close to your right elbow as possible. Roll your knees back to your chest. Hold. Then bring knees over to your left elbow. Roll knees back to chest. Hold. Do this as often as you can, on a daily basis, for 21 days. The results will be enlightening.

Miss Connie Sue Brauer Marries Larry Grotzinger

Miss Connie Sue Brauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell C. Brauer, Route 1 and Larry Dewayne Grotzinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. William Grotzinger, Route 2, were united in marriage May 9 by the Rev. Marvin G. Albright.

The double ring ceremony was performed at the United Church of Chirst before an altar decorated with bouquets of daisies with light olive green trim and candelabra with light olive green trim.

Miss Lola Brauer, accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard, sang "More" and the Rev. Albright and Miss Brauer sang the "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown made by her grandmother, Mrs. Lena Brauer. The empire style gown was of white organza over white satin. The full length train fell from her shoulders and the gown was appliqued with dozens of seed pearls and re-embroidered lace. Her white illusion veil was secured by a large lace and seed pearl headpiece and she carried a colonial style bouquet of daisies.

Miss Barbara Grotzinger, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Miss Laura Paxton was bridesmaid. Their gowns were of light green organza over olive satin. They carried colonial bouquets of daisies.

Best man was Kenneth Siron and groomsman was Gary Grotzinger, brother of the groom. Jerry Brauer, brother of the bride, and Richard Hinshaw were ushers and Greg Rear, son of Major and Mrs. Bob Rear, was alcolyte boy.

The mother of the bride wore a pink knit two piece dress with matching coat and the groom's mother wore a sky blue double knit dress. They had matching corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with a lace tablecloth with green underlay and set with double crystal candle holders with matching crystal punch bowl and serving pieces. Miniature pomporms surrounded the wedding cake which was decorated with touches of green and the traditional miniature bride and groom on top.

For a wedding trip to Branson, the bride chose a yellow linen dress trimmed with daisies and matching coat.

The couple will reside in Sedalia where the groom is employed at Parkhurst Manufacturing Company and the bride with Missouri State Bank.

Broom for Patio

When it is time to scrub the patio or garage, it is a good investment to get a supersized, commercial-type broom. It is necessary to buy this from a janitorial supply house but it is worth the trouble because it is wide enough to cover a considerable surface with each stroke. Like all brushes it should be swished through hot soap suds to keep the bristles clean.

Pool Heater

If you're planning a backyard swimming pool, don't forget to include a heater. It will almost double the swimming season for you, since you can use it earlier in the spring and later in the fall.

Necessary Expansion

The Bothwell Hospital bond issue, which will go before the voters Tuesday, is of vital importance to every Sedalian.

Voters are asked to approve the sale of $2,600,000 of bonds to finance a necessary expansion of the hospital. This will require two-thirds majority vote for passage.

No one will deny that the additional 62 cents per $100 assessed valuation required to retire the bonds is a lot of money. However, as everyone well knows, medical care in the United States today costs a lot of money, and is becoming more expensive yearly.

Average medical costs nationally have increased more than 50 per cent the last five years, a trend that has been felt at Bothwell Hospital. Yet the average cost per patient day at Bothwell Hospital of $53.71 is still considerably below the average of $63.30 for hospitals its size.

Still, facilities at the hospital are burdened to the limit. Those patients who have found themselves languishing in hospital corridors instead of rooms, who have waited hours for laboratory or X-ray services, or who have faced many of the other exasperating inconveniences associated with an over-crowded hospital know personally what the problems are.

Improvements envisioned in the bond issue proposal will not solve all of Bothwell Hospital's problems, but they will meet the most pressing ones. Planning experts say the expenditure of $2.6 million now will satisfy the hospital's major needs for the next 10 years.

No one is for second-rate health care. The only question is, do Sedalians want to consolidate and build on the great strides Bothwell Hospital has made in the last few years, or stagnate and continue to watch our medical demands outstrip our facilities.

An affirmative vote Tuesday will insure that Sedalia has the hospital facilities to serve every segment of its population in the years to come.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Miscalculation on Soviet Reaction

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is directing the Cambodian operation with one eye on Cambodia and the other on the Kremlin.

His decision to send U.S. ground forces into Cambodia, he told his cabinet, was intended as much to establish "credibility" with the Soviets as to knock out the communist sanctuaries.

Jack Anderson

He noted that Hanoi had disregarded his warnings and had continued to build up the sanctuaries. He wanted to demonstrate to Moscow as well as Hanoi that he was prepared to back up his warnings with action.

For if he showed weakness in Southeast Asia, he confided to the Cabinet, the Kremlin might conclude that he would be weak, too, in the Middle East. He also felt that "decisive" and "unpredictable" moves would keep the Soviets off balance.

The President, therefore, is watching the diplomatic dispatches from Moscow as closely as the battle reports from Cambodia. In their preliminary moves at least, the Soviets haven't reacted at all as he had anticipated.

—Message To Moscow—

Immediately after the Cambodian action, the President sent word to the Soviets that they should consider carefully their over-all relationship with the U.S. before seeking a propaganda advantage from the Cambodian affair.

He believed the Kremlin would put Soviet-American cooperation, say insiders, ahead of short-range propaganda benefits. Instead, Premier Alexei Kosygin called a dramatic press conference, his first in five years, to denounce the Cambodian affair.

He believed the Kremlin would put Soviet-American Cooperation, say insiders, ahead of short-range propaganda benefits. Instead, Premier Alexei Kosygin called a dramatic press conference, his first in five years, to denounce the Cambodian incursion.

The Nixon administration also dropped sly hints, intended for Kremlin ears, that Russia had as much to gain as the U.S. from blocking the expansion of Chinese influence into Cambodia. It was pointed out that the Chinese had organized the coalition to restore Prince Sihanouk to power; indeed, that Sihanouk's statements were written for him in Peking.

But instead of widening the Chinese-Russian breach, the Cambodian move had precisely the opposite effect. At the personal intervention of Mao Tse-tung, the Chinese and Russians virtually abandoned their feud and joined in a united stand against the U.S.

Old Mao, who had been under withering Soviet attack before the Cambodian developments, sought out Soviet diplomat V. G. Gankovsky to urge the resumption of Sino-Soviet talks. The chief Soviet negotiator, Deputy Foreign Minister V. V. Kuznetsov, immediately returned to Peking.

The White House is now watching anxiously to see whether Soviets will use Cambodia as an excuse to sabotage the SALT talks, which are intended to head off an escalation of the costly strategic arms race. President Nixon, having made a public prediction that a Soviet-American agreement would come out of the talks, is now uneasy about it.

—Homosexual Hunt—

It has been two decades since the late Senator Joe McCarthy began hounding homosexuals out of government. Now the campaign has apparently been quietly reopened.

During the interim, the government has denied security clearance to homosexuals who might be susceptible to blackmail. This wouldn't affect an announced homosexual who made no secret of his deviation and, therefore, couldn't be blackmailed because of it.

Such a man, Otto Ulrich, Jr., has held a secret-level clearance for nearly three years as a translator with the Bionetics Research Laboratories near Washington. In his application for a clearance, he stated frankly that he was a member of the local chapter of the Mattachine Society, an organization principally of homosexuals.

Not until last year did the government make an issue of his sex life. He was summoned to a secret hearing at the Pentagon last July and was asked a series of shockingly vulgar questions about his private life.

He refused to answer them, charging that they had nothing to do with his eligibility. The hearing board, however, accused him of "criminal conduct and sexual perversion." It charged that he is "not reliable or trustworthy."

Pentagon officials admitted that Ulrich was not charged with susceptibility to blackmail and that he has never been arrested. They noted, however, that certain homosexual acts are illegal in a number of states. At the same time, they acknowledged that pre-marital heterosexual behavior, which is also illegal in many states, is not a cause for action.

After the formal charges were brought against him, Ulrich was sent the same set of vulgar, graphic questions that he had refused to answer at the hearing. Again he refused. As a consequence, the Pentagon has suspended his security clearance.

The case is regarded as a precedent for a new crackdown on homosexuals.

—Arab Tensions—

The flare-up of fighting in the Middle East caught the Arab military coalition shaken by disagreement and disunity. The worst dissension is found on the so-called eastern front where tensions have erupted between the military forces of Iraq, Jordan and Syria.

The Iraquis, for instance, have accused Syrian authorities of mistreating Iraqui forces stationed in Syria. Arab defense ministers and military chiefs met secretly in Cairo earlier this month to iron out the trouble but wound up more divided than ever.

Guest Editorial

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Looking at Themselves. — The latest Gallup Poll of public opinion seems to confirm what most of us have guessed all along. The country as a whole now shows a leaning towards conservatism. Youth as a whole shows a bent towards liberalism. Whereas some 60 percent of all Americans labeling themselves apparently think of themselves as conservatives, those in their 20's chose the liberal label by some 51 percent.

It is no surprise to find youthful adults leaning slightly to liberalism, this being ever youth's choice. Yet it is surprising to find 49 percent of those in their 20's calling themselves conservative. Since most folks tend to grow more conservative with age, does not this latter figure indicate a serious and fundamental weakness in liberalism's political outlook?

Of course, public opinion is notably flightly. Today a party's, a man's or an ideology's rating is gleefully tomorrow it can be gloomily low. That old clock pendulum of action and reaction keeps on aswinging. There was the tremendous burst of liberal legislation in America during the mid-1960's, only to be followed by what appears to be, at many points, a swing in the other direction.

And so, for the time being at least, there are mounting signs of a conservative trend.

Thought for Today

For he finds fault with them when he says: "The days will come, says the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah." — Hebrews 8:8.

Think of your own faults the first part of the night when you are awake, and the faults of others the latter part of the night when you are asleep. — Ancient Chinese proverb.

A committee of the American Council on Education concludes that the turmoil on the nation's campuses has been greatly exaggerated. Only 22 per cent of college campuses had violent or disruptive protests in 1968-1969, it reports.

A Nation in Crisis

Yale Attuned to Human Heartache

(America is in a time of unrelieved crises. The raging controversy over the tactics in Southeast Asia, the rise of student sympathy for the Black Panthers, and the intensity of criticism directed at the President and Vice-President are studied in events and speeches. This is the first of three columns in which Rev. Poling will look at the ferment within Yale University, the increasing antagonism toward the White House and the clergy, and the political alliance being formed between the University and the Church—both in a state of dishevelment and alarm.)

By DAVID POLING

In less than a month's time, Stewart Alsop told his Newsweek audience that Yale Divinity School was a hotbed of draft-dodgers, and Vice-President Agnew told his national audience that Yale President Kingman Brewster was a hothead who should be canned by the trustees for his unstable campus leadership. Both statements were half true.

For centuries the Divinity School at Yale has been a community of free inquiry, discussion and, at times, radical action. In almost any decade some professor or dean is under fire for his unpopular lectures or support of some unpopular cause. Being nondenominational and nervy, Yale Divinity has attracted the nonconformists from every branch of Christian faith. But the broad center of the school's life has been both solid and distinguished. Its scholarship is world-renowned, and its history indicates that it will take more than a couple of draft-dodgers and a Newsweek columnist to derail its destiny.

When Kingman Brewster said that he was "skeptical" about the Black Panthers getting a fair trial anywhere in the United States, he offered a personal opinion shared by many in his university. On that, he may be all wet. On the other hand, he was prepared to allow the discussion and rally to take top priority in the New Haven community, backed all the more by faculty, administration and students after the Vice-President's suggestion that he be fired.

What must be clearly understood by those outside New Haven and the Yale experience is that this place has always been tuned to the human heartache. Yale fought successfully for the rights of African slaves marooned in their post-Revolutionary harbor. Yale Divinity students supported Indian missionaries on the American frontier and sent graduates to China and India. During the Civil War, slaves were hustled north by courier and cash from New Haven.

In their own back yard they have had continuing dialogue with the poor, the black and the broken. The Yale Hope Mission was staffed entirely by students and faculty to give assistance and comfort to alcoholics and derelicts. The Prison Group worked for more than a decade in the New Haven county jail, teaching prisoners and providing counsel for their families. The fantastic advance of urban renewal in New Haven would never have been accomplished without the co-operation of town and gown. Brewster understands the climate of Yale and New Haven. He is not put off by the intimidating statements of the Vice-President or the threatening slogans of the Black Panthers.

This may be too much tension for a free society. It surely seems to be too much freedom of speech and assembly for those who see New Haven through the eyes of Spiro T. Agnew. But Yale is not in Greenwich Village. And it has 200 years on Berkeley, and 100 years on West Point. When freedom is exercised, thoughtfully and regularly, the walls do not come tumbling down and, in the end, only the critics are burned up.

One of the worst side effects of notrumpitis is that the man with the disease always expects that his partner is suffering from it also. Hence, he goes out of his way to take his partner out of no-trump into his own suit.

Today's hand shows a sad result of this. There is nothing wrong with South's opening spade bid. He only has 11 high-card points but they represent three quick tricks. In addition his six-card trump suit includes the 10 and nine to back up the ace and king so that he can rebid his suit happily.

North has 13 high-card points; 4-3-3-3 distribution and stoppers in all the suits. His two no-trump response is eminently correct.

We can't say the same for South's rebid to three spades. Not that we criticize it severely but rather that we would be inclined to raise our partner to three no-trump. We don't have a singleton, we don't have a secondary suit that we might want to ruff in dummy and we do have a hand that will probably take the same number of tricks at no-trump as at spades.

Furthermore, we have no reason to want the lead to come up to our hand. Give our partner king-jack-small in any suit and the lead to him may well produce a trick that a lead through him would not.

In any event, South's rebid to three spades didn't really hurt him because North went on to three no-trump. South should surely let him play there.

South was really punished at four spades. With East holding the king of clubs he fell one short of his game contract. At three no-trump there were nine tricks in top cards.

The Pigeon

"Do you have a big net?"
Rocky asked one day,
A pigeon he was chasing
Was getting away,
"Or a big metal tub?"
Well, neither had I,
Each time he got near it
The pigeon would fly,
Along it would strut
On the street but then,
When Rocky got close
It would take off again;
Up on the school roof,
Or housetop nearby
It seems to say "Rocky,
"You can run but can't fly,"
All over the neighborhood
That pigeon he chased,
Up streets and down alleys
Young Rocky raced,
Till at last he gave up
And went home without it,
He just couldn't catch it,
There was no doubt about it;
So sure of itself
It had quite an air,
Unafraid of the cars
That kept going by there,
It knew where to stand
So it wouldn't get hit,
The first car passing over
Bothered it not a bit,
The second car slowed
And went over it neat,
So it just kept on pecking
At something to eat;
People and cars
Kept going by,
It flew only from Rocky,
I'm not certain why,
No, I'm really not certain
What caused the rub,
Less it was scared of a net
Or a big metal tub,
It didn't want to be captured,
It was gay as could be,
That strutting young pigeon
Wanted just to be free.

Letter to the Editor

MRS. DONALD BARNES (Chairman of Committee for City Jail Improvement, Church Women United of Sedalia.) — In 1969 the people of Pettis County built a new County Jail at a cost of $150,000. This jail is now finished and in use.

Pettis County, with a population of 40,000 (this includes Sedalia) should according to regulation have a jail housing a minimum of twenty prisoners. We have a new jail which will house thirty-two.

The deplorable condition of the old County and City jails was the reason the jail bond issue passed. The people of Sedalia and Pettis County were led to believe that the city and county could and would share the new jail facilities. The following quotation is taken from an article which appeared in the Sedalia Democrat in June, 1968.

"Judge E.L. 'Red' Birdsong reaffirmed the Sheriff's statement as to the acquisition of land on which the jail is to be built: 'the county jail belongs not only to the county but also to the city, in as much as Sedalia is a part of the county. The county and the city can and will work together on their jail and prisoner problems."

Evidently the people of Pettis County and Sedalia were not the only ones who believed that new jail facilities would be shared. The following is a quotation from your editorial published Aug. 30, 1968.

"Surely the inadequacies of the city and county smelly clinks can be replaced by something better if the two government units with the support of the public would collaborate."

You ended this editorial with the following:

"Is joint use of a suitable jail impossible because of a plethora of legal gibberish relating to such ventures. Then let's untangle it and do something about the recommendations of the current Board of Visitors and as a tribute to the many disappointed grand jurors long buried in Crown Hill. Either that or call in the Humane Society for action."

The public did give the leaders of Pettis County their support and the bond issue did pass. Yet we find the City Jail, which is in an unbelievable state of disrepair, still in use. The plumbing is worn out and filthy; the walls of the cells are rusted through; and the concrete floors rough and unswept; no matresses or blankets are provided; there are no decent facilities for showers (the jail has no hot water); and there are no separate facilities for women. The jail as it stands today is an ideal breeding place for disease. Surely as a Christian community we do not want our prisoners maintained in such demoralizing and degrading conditions.

Two years ago the Pettis County Board of Visitors toured and completely condemned the City Jail. Recently this paper again published a new report of the Board of Visitors. It stated that conditions at the City Jail were essentially unchanged, and that the City Jail remained in "deplorable condition".

The people of Sedalia and Pettis County have bought and paid for a decent, adequate jail. Sedalia has too many other needs such as Hospital Expansion; Junior College permanent facilities; a new City Hall; a new downtown Fire Station, etc. without duplicating the facilities the County Jail already provides.

Let the two law enforcement agencies involved, the County Court and City Officials get together, negotiate terms and arrive at a workable settlement.

Are we, the public, to believe that the jail-sharing issue is closed, or can we hope that the public officials will keep faith with the people, and that negotiations to share jail facilities will be resumed.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q) I'm buying a house this summer. What records should I keep?

A) Your records should show the purchase price of the house and any improvements you make to it that would affect your cost basis. This information will be necessary to determine whether you have any gain to report when it comes time to sell.

Each year you should keep a record of the property taxes and interest paid on mortgage loans. These can be deducted on your income tax return if you itemize.

More information can be found in Publication 530, Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowners. Send a post card to your IRS district office for a free copy.

Statistics Reveal Genuine Economic Slowdown Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newest government statistics paint a picture of gloom, a full-fledged economic slowdown not at the crisis stage but still troublesome.

Despite the uncontradicted negative figures indicating lower profits and higher prices, the Nixon administration remains publicly convinced its policies are working and business will start upward sometime between June and December.

"We're traveling a narrow path between recession and inflation," Arthur F. Burns, the Federal Reserve Board chairman, told Congress Thursday.

Although not an official member of the administration, Burns was President Nixon's chief domestic adviser until January and now is as responsible as any other individual for the health of the money and credit systems.

These were the developments Thursday, a day heavy with economic news:

—The Commerce Department said prices during January, February and March rose at an annual rate of 5¼ per cent, a quarter of a point higher than its earlier estimate. With the recent 6 per cent federal pay raise figured in, the increase was 6¼ per cent, highest since the Korean war.

At the same time, actual production dropped 3 per cent, the largest since the 1960 recession, instead of the 1½ per cent listed in preliminary figures.

—Output of the nation's factories dropped almost one-half of one per cent during April to 170.4 per cent of the 1957-59 benchmark. It reversed a similar March increase and continued a general slide that began last August.

—The stock market dropped 9.05 points, bringing the bellwether Dow-Jones industrial average to 684.79, the lowest in more than seven years.

The market has slid almost 40 points since April 28, when President Nixon assured a group of visiting businessmen, "Frankly, if I had any money, I'd be buying stocks right now." Asked Thursday at a news briefing if Nixon still stood by that, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler smiled, took a sip of coffee, and went on to the next question.

—Personal income gained a record $17.8 billion during April, due entirely to the Social Security ar ' federal pay increases. Private wages and salaries declined $1.5 billion, at an annual rate after seasonal adjustment.

—To the surprise of almost no one, corporate profits dipped $6¼ billion to an annual rate of $85 billion during the first quarter. As a result, corporations' tax liability fell $3¼ billion, giving strength to administration fears the current fiscal year—ending next month—may produce a budget deficit.

—The balance of payments took a sharp turn for the worse in the first quarter, with all international transactions, showing a deficit of $1.73 billion after a $532 million surplus in the October-December quarter last year.

Government economists said the figures weren't unexpected. Treasury Undersecretary Charles E. Walker said the figures "would not indicate to me that the picture was any different from yesterday before the figures came out."

And Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, speaking in Utah, said he saw signs "that the worst may be over."

The Spanish and the Portuguese introduced sugar cane to the Western Hemisphere in the 16th century.

Big City Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has submitted a $7.8 billion expense budget for New York City in the next fiscal year, an outlay larger than any state budget and second only to the federal government.

The proposal, which is subject to approval by the City Council and the Board of Estimate, represents an increase of $1.1 billion over the $6.7 billion budget for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Despite the increase, only $69 million would be available for improvements in city services while the remainder would be applied to fixed costs, the mayor said.

Brings High Price

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP) — An 1872 steam locomotive and tender that chugged through such movies as "How the West Was Won," "Annie Get Your Gun" and "The Return of Jessie James" sold for $65,000 at an auction of old MGM picture props.

The purchaser Thursday was an attorney who declined to give his name or that of the client he said he was representing.

In its premovie days, an auction spokesman said, the locomotive's train passengers included President U.S. Grant and Gen. William Tecumseah Sherman.

Preakness' Personality

Personality hits the finish line just ahead of My Dad George, on the rail, to win the 95th running of the Preakness Stakes Saturday at Pimlico Race Course, Md. The first-place finish was worth $151,300 to the colt, ridden by Edward Belmonte. (UPI)

Junior Olympics Meet Is Scheduled for June 6

The A.A.U. sanctioned Preliminary Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet for boys and girls will be held at Jennie Jaynes Stadium June 6, according to Paul Klover, chairman for the greater Sedalia area.

Individuals within a 50-mile radius of Sedalia are encouraged to compete in this meet. Invitiations have been sent to all surrounding track coaches.

Sponsored locally by S & M Athletic Goods, the meet is designed to promote physical fitness among pre-Olympic age youngsters. This meet is part of the Sedalia recreation summer program to be conducted by Smith-Cotton Track coach Gary Pepin.

S-C coaches Coach Paul Schwartz, Max Fields, Jim Dinsdale, and Knob Noster coach Cecil Long, will assist coach Pepin, who will be in charge of the preliminary and Missouri sub-district meet at Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

Entries for this meet can be obtained from S & M Athletic Goods, 2113 West Broadway, or by contacting Fields or Pepin.

Ribbons will be awarded to the first, second, third, fourth and fifth place winners in individual events and participation certificates will be presented to all boys and girls entering the meet.

Winners of the first three places at Sedalia will qualify to compete with other preliminary winners from St. Joseph, Columbia, Joplin and Kansas City at the Missouri sub-district meet to be held at Jennie Jaynes Stadium, June 20.

The first four place winners in the Missouri state meet will then qualify to compete in the Missouri Valley District, Kansas University Memorial Stadium at Lawrence, June 27.

Entry forms must be submitted before 5 p.m. June 1, to be eligible to participate in the track and field events.

May 1 will be the date of age determination.

Flood vs. Baseball Contest to Begin

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Flood vs. Baseball.

That's the way the battle lines are drawn for Tuesday's opening of the trial in which Flood, former outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals, will challenge the sport's reserve system and attempt to prove that baseball is a monopoly operating in restraint of trade.

Flood's suit will be heard here in Federal Court before Judge Irving "Ben" Cooper. But it is likely to wind up in a higher court, possibly the U.S. Supreme Court, before it is finally resolved and all the repercussions known.

At issue is what is popularly known as the reserve clause—actually a set of rules—that binds a player to the team that signs him until he is traded, sold or released with or without his knowledge and-or approval.

Flood's case is both important—and unique—because it will be the first in which the merits of the reserve system will be argued. There have been past suits which challenged the rules but they wound up dealing with the issue of the court's jurisdiction.

Judge Cooper already has ruled that "the trial must encompass the factual issues raised respecting the reserve system, hailed as a blessing by proponents, condemned as destructive by antagonists."

The antagonists in this case are Flood, the plaintiff; his attorneys, including former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, now a candidate for governor in New York, and the Major League Players Association headed by Marvin Miller.

The proponents in this case are the defendants—Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, the American and National league presidents, the 24 major league clubs and the defendants' attorneys, Mark F. Hughes, representing the majors, and Paul Porter, representing the commissioner.

It is considered likely that various members of the baseball community, players and management, will appear during the trial, and it is considered "highly unlikely" by as knowledgeable a person as Miller that the entire trial won't be played out the full route.

Surprise at 'Indy'

Personality Captures Preakness While Dust Commander Loses Out

BALTIMORE (AP) — Personaltiy rushed through on the outside and edged My Dad George Saturday at Pimlico and won the $203,800 Preakness Stakes. Kentucky Derby winner Dust Commander finished out of the money.

Personality, owned by Mrs. Ethel B. Jacobs and ridden by Eddie Belmonte, got home by a neck over My Dad George, Raymond M. Curtis' Derby runnerup.

Sonny Werblin's Silent Screen was third, three lengths back of My Dad George and two lengths in front of Mrs. Jacobs' High Echelon.

Robert E. Lehmann's Dust Commander, a five-length winner in the Derby, finished ninth in a field of 14 3-year-olds. His defeat means that racing for the 22nd straight year will not have a winner of the Triple Crown. Citation was the last to win the Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes in 1948.

Belmonte guided Personality over the 1 3-16 miles on a fast track in one minute, 54 1-5 seconds to pick up first money of $151,300 from the gross purse in this richest triple crown race ever. It was the first time the Triple Crown event has topped the $200,000 mark.

The entry of Personality and High Echelon who had finished third in the Derby, was sent off as the fourth favorite by a crowd of 42,474 and returned $11, $4.40 and $3.20.

My Dad George, ridden by Ray Broussard, returned $3.20 and $2.60, while Silent Screen, the 1969 2-year-old champion who has been unable to regain his form this year, was $3.80 to show.

Personality is by Hail to Reason out of Affectionately and is trained by Mrs. Jacobs' son, John. The trainer's father, the late Hirsch Jacobs, who became a legend as the winningest trainer ever and also a top breeder, had considered Personality the epitome of breeding.

Personality's victory in the Preakness atoned for his eighth place finish in the Derby. In the Louisville race, Belmonte said Personality jumped a mud puddle and went off stride, causing his dismal placing.

"When I was ready to let him go he went," said Belmonte after the Preakness.

"He was running pretty good. I was in perfect position. Silent Screen was moving out and forced me a little wide. But I was hitting him pretty good and he was running."

World-Wide Sports in Brief

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Favorite Al Unser wheeled his Colt-Ford into the pole position for the 54th 500-mile race May 30 at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in a rain-abbreviated but sizzling session of 10-mile time trials Saturday.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Lee Trevino surged into sole control of the lead in the Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament Saturday with a third-round 69 while Dale Douglass bolted into contention with a remarkable, course-record 63.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Dynamic Mel Gray staged one of the greatest one-man performances in Big Eight track history Saturday, but the Missouri football star could lift his Tigers no higher than fourth place as potent Kansas streaked to its fourth straight outdoor title.

VILLANOVA, Pa. (AP) — Trailing by 30 yards starting the last lap, Villanova's Marti Liquori passed fading Olympic champion Kid Keino midway through the stretch to win the 1,500-meter race at the second annual Martin Luther King Games Saturday at Villanova Stadium.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Kansas City Central won its sixth straight Missouri Class L track championship Saturday in Memorial Stadium. The title was something of a gift from runnerup Kirkwood.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma's David Weaver stopped Colorado on six hits Saturday and received home run support from Mike Swenton and Chris Rickey as the Sooners posted a 5-1 Big Eight Conference baseball victory over the Buffaloes.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma won every match it played for the second year in a row to capture an unprecedented fifth straight Big Eight tennis championship Saturday.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Southeast Missouri took first place in eight of the 17 events and won the MIAA track championship Saturday with 96 1/2 points.

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP) — Emporia State defeated Kansas Wesleyan 3-0 in a 10-inning game for the District 10 NAIA Baseball championship Saturday.

Emporia State defeated College of Emporia 4-1 earlier Saturday to get into the finals, and Kansas Wesleyan beat Rocky Mountain champion Fort Hays State 11-5 in 11 innings.

BULLETIN

Paul Klover was the only entry from Smith-Cotton to place in the Class L State Track Meet at Columbia Saturday. Klover took third in the 440 yard dash with a time of 49.4 seconds. He was edged out by Randle of Kansas City Central (49.2) and Smith of St. Louis Soldan (49.3). The finish was close and there was some disagreement over its outcome.

Ernie Banks Holds Many Roles Besides 'Hitter'

CHICAGO (AP) — Elder statesman, co-captain, inspirational leader, garbage sweeper, grounds keeper and philosopher. All of these things and more is Ernie Banks.

Banks, the 39-year-old ageless heart of the Chicago Cubs hit his 500th home run last Tuesday against the Atlanta Braves.

Banks became the ninth man to reach the coveted plateau and with the same swing he also drove in his 1,600th run to become the 12th man in baseball annals to turn the trick.

When Banks hit his homer the Cubs trailed 2-1. They trailed throughout the game although Ol' Ernie also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Then his teammates, realizing Ernie wanted No. 500 to go along with a victory, rallied to the cause, and the Cubs won 4-3.

Then the media stepped in. Radio interviews, television interviews, tape interviews, newspaper interviews.

Ernie put up with them all. The Patient Man refused no one. More than an hour later, he started the long trip to the Cub dressing room.

Banks stopped and signed autographs. Then he grabbed a broom from one of the members of the cleanup crew and helped sweep empty beer cups and peanut shells into a corner.

On the field he grabbed the hose from a member of the ground crew and sprinkled the home plate area.

Finally he was back in the dressing room. Most of his teammates were gone.

Unlike most super stars who rush to leave after such an ordeal, Banks sat back to enjoy his great moment with four lingering members of the press.

"Oh, I'll call my wife and tell her to get the kids ready and we'll all go out and have a nice quiet dinner somewhere," said Banks.

"It wasn't until 1957 or 1958 I began to loosen up," said Banks, a $25,000 bargain picked up by the Cubs from the Kansas City Monarchs in 1953.

"Yes, I was once worried about my career reaching an end. That was in 1963 when I ran into eye trouble. Mr. Wrigley (Cub owner P.K. Wrigley) had me come back from St. Louis to have my eyes examined. I started then to think I might be reaching the end of the line.

"But things worked out. In 1966 I didn't hit my weight in spring training and got off to a bad start. Then during the All-Star break I went up to Wisconsin with some friends and the family and relaxed. I got loose and finished strong," added Banks.

"With the help of the good Lord I'd like to play 20 years. That means three mor years. Can I do it? I'll try.

Athletes Are Reminded Of Course Requirements

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Big Eight faculty representatives have reminded athletes at conference schools that any incomplete in course work will have to be made up before they are eligible for competition.

The question arose, Commissioner Wayne Duke said Saturday, in light of recent cases in which students at home universities have decided not to finish course work this spring as an anti-war protest.

"No formal action was taken," Duke said. "We simply reaffirmed our policy that incomplete work must be made up before classes begin in the fall semester or the athlete is not eligible."

Big Eight officials, who concluded four days of meetings here Saturday morning, also changed the conference formula for allocating expense money for football bowl games, approved experimenting with three basketball officials and brought transfer rules into closer conformity with NCAA regulations.

Under the new expense formula, schools taking teams to the Orange, Cotton and Sugar bowls will receive $150,000 plus $25 per mile one-way air travel expense. Teams going to the Gator bowl will get $100,000 and those to the Sun, Liberty and Astro-Bluebonnett bowls $75,000 plus the air travel money.

Schools that spend more than the allowable will not receive any additional money and those who do not spend their allotment may keep the surplus, Duke said.

"The commissioner said all 12 games in the Big Eight basketball tournament in Kansas City in December will be worked by three officials. However, Duke said use of three referees could not be implemented for regular season games in 1970-71 because studies would have to be made.

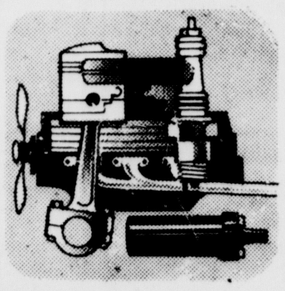

Students transferring from four-year colleges outside the Big Eight no longer will lose a year of varsity competition, but will continue to have to wait one year to establish residency.

No infractions cases were considered at the meetings, Duke said.

Safe At Second

St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop Milt Ramirez (41) has the ball fly out of his glove as Chicago Cubs' Jimmy McMath (24) slides into second with a stolen base in the third inning of the Cards-Cubs game Saturday at Busch Stadium. Ramirez was charged with an error on the play, and the Cubs went on to defeat the Cardinals 3-2. Umpire William Burkhart calls the play. (UPI)

Kansas Takes Big Eight Track; Field Competition

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Mel Gray tied the Big Eight record by speeding to a 9.3-second victory in the 100-yard dash and accounted for 33½ points for Missouri but powerful Kansas ran away with the team championship today in the 63rd conference track meet.

Gray, who set a record of 20.4 seconds in the preliminaries Friday, also won that event with a time of 20.7 Saturday. In addition, he placed fourth in the triple jump and ran a leg on Missouri's 440-yard relay team which took third.

With 14 of 17 events completed, Kansas had its fourth straight team championship wrapped up with 119 points. Kansas State was second with 75 and Nebraska third with 72.

Earl Salb of Kansas broke the meet shotput record with a toss of 65 feet, 6½ inches and Marcus Walker of Colorado cracked the 120-yard high hurdles mark with a time of :13.7.

St. Paul's College Downs State Fair Roadrunners

Rallying for nine runs in the last two innings, St. Paul's College defeated the State Fair Road Runners, 10-7 in a single game Wednesday at Liberty Park.

A five run burst with two outs in the ninth inning brought victory for the Blue Jays who ended their rain-shortened season with a 3-3 season record.

A scoreless ball game until the bottom of the fifth, State Fair scored three times on a single by Pirtle and an error by St. Paul's.

After St. Paul's scored an unearned run, the Road Runners added three more runs in the seventh to end that inning with a score of 6-1, State Fair.

A two run hit by State Fair's Robertson was the big hit of the day. St. Paul's rallied for four runs in the eighth with the help of four walks and three hits.

Sedalia scored to make it 7-5 into the ninth. After putting two Blue Jay's out in the ninth, State Fair was almost assured a victory, but the Blue Jay's scored a run on the error and pinched a single by Gary Klingsborn, putting runners on second and third.

With two outs, Dave Dankenbring lined a double over the center fielder's head who scored the tying and leading runs. Mike Albers and Terry Herzberg followed with RBI's for a 10-7 lead.

Herzberg retired the Road Runners, one-twp-three in the ninth for the victory.

Dave Nash started for Sedalia and pitched until the sixth inning when Dave Pirtle took over. Coon and Fox followed Pirtle to the mound.

Pall Sievkeking started for St. Paul's and was releived in the eighth by Herzberg.

Coon took the loss and Herzberg collected the win.

Mike Robertson was the big hitter for State Fair, going three for five with two RBI's. Pirtle and Dodd each had two hits for Sedalia. Dankenbring lead St. Paul's two for two with three RBI's while Herzberg went two for four.

Kansas Whips Iowa State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Keith Lieppmann's two-run single in the 10th inning lifted Kansas past Iowa State 2-1 Saturday and stalled the Cyclones' drive for the Big Eight baseball championship.

Iowa State, now 11-4 in the conference, needs only to win one of three games scheduled next week against Nebraska to claim its first Big Eight diamond crown in 13 years.

Lieppmann, whose throwing error led to an unearned Iowa State run in the top of the 10th to break a scoreless tie, redeemed himself with a bases-loaded single in the last half of the inning.

Charles Van Dyne Tournament is Set

The seventh annual Charles M. Van Dyne Golf Tournament will be held Saturday at the Sedalia Country Club.

The proceeds of the tourney will go to the University of Missouri athletic department for use as golf scholarships.

Many past winners will participate in this year's competition. They include Jim Sid Rollins of Columbia; Scott Bess also of Columbia and Bill Stewart of Springfield.

Last year's champion, Mike DeLozier is currently living in San Jose, Calif., and will be unable to defend his title.

Again this year, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will participate in the event.

Last year Gov. Hearnes was tied for first with Ben Morris of St. Louis in the Citation Flight, but was defeated on the first hole of the playoff.

Glen Oatman of Kansas City will return to defend his senior division title.

Scott Bess, last year's Missouri State Amateur Champion and the 1968 Van Dyne winner, will represent the University golf team, along with Bennie Thomas of Rolla.

Wrestler Attempts Defense of Title

Danny Little Bear

Natureboy Kirby

Danny Little Bear will defend his Central States wrestling championship here Tuesday night, meeting a challenge from powerful Harley Race, a young, 240-pound Iowan aspiring to pro ring stardom.

The action will headline a four-event Convention Hall program scheduled to get under way at 8:30.

The title pairing came about as a result of Race's recent disparaging remarks over a Sedalia radio station in which he questioned the Indian's wrestling ability and his willingness to meet all comers.

Race's contention that Little Bear has been avoiding him deliberately prompted the champion to offer to put the crown on the line against the youthful aggressor.

Race is a power wrestler with good speed, but little regard for the rules. His conduct last week cost him disqualification in a match with Rufus R. Jones. Special Referee Pat O'Connor slapped Race with the disqualification after he repeatedly ignored O'Connor's warnings.

Natureboy Kirby will attempt to overpower the 280-pound Jones in Tuesday's semifinal. Kirby, a rugged ring performer, is a partner of Race's and will be trying to atone in part for Harley's disqualification loss last week.

Making his first appearance in Sedalia in the special event will be Scandor Akbar, regarded as one of the strongest men in the game. A 265-pounder, Akbar will be put to the test by veteran Ronnie Etchison.

Cubs-Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP- — Two-out doubles by Cleo James and pitcher Ken Holtzman in the fifth inning ended Chicago's scoreless streak at 22 innings and the Cubs went on to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2 Saturday.

The fifth inning run snapped a scoreless deadlock and Jim Hickman's two run double in the eighth enabled the Cubs to withstand a ninth inning St. Louis rally.

The Cub. beaten 4-0 by New York Wednesday on Gary Gentry's one hitter and nipped 1-0 by the Cards Friday night, managed only one hit until the fifth. St. Louis southpaw Steve Carlton retired Hickman and Jack Hiatt on fly balls, but James, batting .143 at the start of the game, doubled into the left field corner. Holtzman, a .273 hitter, then drove in his fourth run of the season with a liner between third baseman Mike Shannon and the bag.

After Carlton, 4-4 ,was lifted for a pinch hitter, the Cubs increased their lead to 3-0 in the eighth on two walks and Hickman's two-out double off reliever Jerry Johnson.

Twins-Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Home runs by Tony Oliva, Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew and Brant Alyea powered the Minnesota Twins to an 11-7 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Saturday.

Oliva and Killebrew smacked successive homers off Gene Brabender in the third inning as the Twins scored four runs for a 5-0 lead. Carew hit a two-run homer in the fourth and Llyea connected with one on in a four-run sixth that nailed Dave Boswell's first victory in six decisions.

Royals-White Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Carolos Mat cracked a three-run homer and Tommy John held Kansas City to three hits as the Chicago White Sox swept to their fourth straight victory, a 6-1 triumph over the Royals Saturday.

John, 3-6 collected his third triumph in his last four starts, giving the Royals a run in the first as Ellie Rodriguez clouted his first homer of the year.

Tigers-Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy White's tie-breaking single keyed a five run New York eighth inning and the Yankees went on to defeat Detroit 7-4 Saturday, extending the Tigers losing streak to five games.

The Tigers, on the strength of Jim Northrup's run-scoring single in the second and two-run homer in the fourth, led 3-2 before the Yankees exploded.

Red Sox-Indians

BOSTON (AP) — Car Yastzemski broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning, cracking a three-run homer, one of the longest ever hit in Fenway Park as the Boston Red Sox snapped a five-game losing streak with a 6-2 victory over the Cleveland Indinas Saturday.

With a 2-1 count, Yastrzemski drilled a shot which cleared the center field wall to the right of the flagpole. The ball carried at least 450 feet.

Expos-Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Matty Alou crashed a ninth-inning single off the scoreboard in right field, lifting the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over Montreal Saturday.

Alou's game-winning hit scored Freddy Patek from second. Patek had reached on a forceout, attempting to sacrifice Bill Mazeroski, who had walked and moved to second on a wild pickoff attempt by loser Claude Raymond.

The Pirates had tied it at 3-3 in the seventh when Patek scored on a passed ball after opening the inning with a walk and moving to third on Alou's single.

GARDEN HOSES CAN BE FIXED

By MR. FIX

Garden hoses would last a lot longer if people would let them. But folks persist on dragging them over rough concrete, driving over them, leaving the water turned on at the faucet while turning off the nozzle, crimping them to stop the water momentarily, crimping them accidentally because someone didn't make certain it was unwound properly, and doing all sorts of things that torture a hose designed for nothing more than carrying water.

Even just leaving the hose alone could destroy it. If you leave a hose out in the hot sun with water in it, the water can start to boil—and a garden hose wasn't intended for boiling water.

Fortunately a hose is not difficult to repair so it isn't necessary to throw a damaged hose away and start with a new one.

Cut out the damaged section and either measure the opening or take the piece with you to the hardware store. Hoses come in different diameters and you will have to know the right size to get the proper mending equipment.

You can get a conventional coupling with male and female ends and in effect make two small hoses out of one big one. Unless there is some special reason for doing that, get a solid mender that restores the hose to one piece. This is cheaper.

Rubber and plastic hoses take different style menders and couplings although you may find a few described as suitable for both.

The mender for the rubber hose is usually a short tube or nipple with claw-like metal flange around the middle. The tube is inserted in both ends of the hose and the metal prongs pounded down. Some menders are nothing more than the brass tube held in place with separate hose clamps.

For a plastic hose the mender consists of the metal tube and threaded screw clamps that go over the hose and then are tightened, the threads biting into the hose and holding it tight against the tube.

New couplings for rubber hoses consist of the coupling parts mounted on tubes inserted into the hose ends. The prongs are then pounded down or a clamp is used.

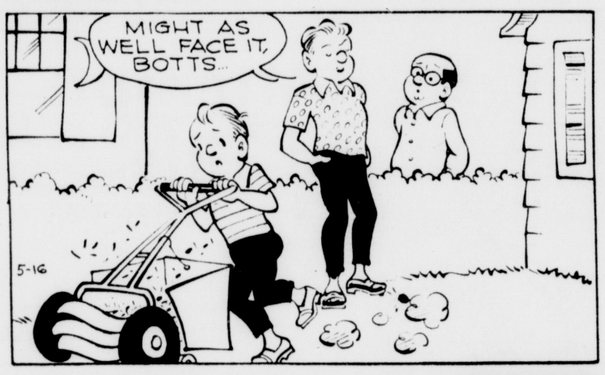

The coupling parts for a plastic hose are a little more complicated. The coupling tube is slipped over the hose and not into it. With the sleeve over the hose a bushing is placed inside the hose at the end. The bushing is threaded and, when turned with a special key, seats itself inside the hose and exerts pressure on the wall of the hose against the metal sleeve.

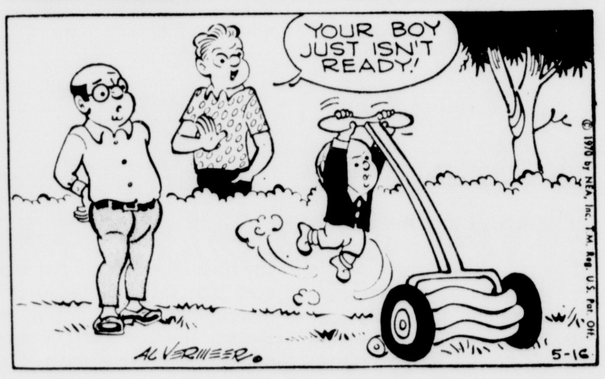

Couplings often need replacing because they get smashed by someone driving over them, or the threads get damaged by being dragged over rough surfaces.

Women Candidates For General Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — With female complaints that it's a man's world heard all the way to the Pentagon, President Nixon has nominated two 28-year veterans to be the Army's first women generals.

Only the U.S. Senate now stands between the eagle that signifies the nominees' colonel rank and the single star of a brigadier general. It is a promotion that until three years ago wasn't even authorized and until Friday had never actually been made.

Col. Elizabeth P. Hoisington, director of the Women's Army Corps, and Col. Anna Mae Hays, chief of the Army Nurse Corps, were not anxious to attribute their promotions to the spreading and increasingly hot public campaigns to improve the relative position of American women in business, government and other areas outside the home.

"We've always gotten our due from the Army," said Col. Hoisington, of Newton, Kan. She is 51 and single. She described herself as "an Army brat." Her father was a colonel and her three brothers all went to West Point.

"The Army is my first love," the country's top WAC said. She said more and more women are being named colonels, "paving the way for others to follow" her and Col. Hays' promotions.

Col. Hays, a 50-year-old widow, when asked about the women's so-called dirge for liberation, said "let's not talk about that."

Within the ranks of the women's liberation movement, the nominations drew mixed reaction.

"The President did promise that he was going to recognize women and this is certainly a step forward," said Rep. Florence Dwyer, R-N.J., who joined three other congresswomen last July in critizing the lack of women in top government posts.

Named by Nixon

Cols. Elizabeth P. Hoisington, left, and Anna Mae Hayes, at the Pentagon shortly after President Nixon nominated the two ladies to become the first women generals in U.S. history. Col. Hoisington is a native of Newton, Kan., and director of the Women's Army Corps. Col. Hayes, born in Buffalo, N.Y., is chief of Army Nurses. (UPI)

"I applaud this step," she said, "but there are certainly many other fields where he could do the same thing."

From New York came these reactions:

Ti-Grace Atkinson, a member of the New York Feminists, criticized the action as "promoting women into the worst kind of male obscenity—into war."

"It's not significant from the point of view of women, but rather in what it says of the administration," she said. "It's a rather sad reflection on the state of government that this is where they show themselves."

Dolores Alexander, executive director of the National Organization for Women (NOW), said she would have preferred a woman Supreme Court justice before a general.

"But if they're going to have a policy-making voice and if it means they would want to make peace, fine," she said. "I'm happy to see women in high policy-making posts of any kind."

Evaluate May Day Observance

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak Communist leaders say their elaborately staged welcome for Kremlin leaders last week and recent celebrations prove that there is popular support for their policies and for the Soviet Union.

The claim was made Friday night in a statement by the presidium of the party after a meeting to evaluate "the course of the glorious May Days."

"The most characteristic feature of the celebrations was that they became a demonstration of spontaneous support of the internationalist policy of our party, support of the alliance with the Soviet Union," the statement said.

It declared that "the warm reception for the Soviet delegation" headed by Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin "and the whole course and character of the May celebrations in our country are irreversible proof of the strength and vitality of Czechoslovak-Soviet friendship."

It was regarded as unusual to draw such conclusions from parades and ceremonies staged in the typical Communist manner.

Western diplomats specuated whether the Czechoslovak leaders were merely propagandizing for local consumption or whether they felt a need to convince Moscow of Prague's loyalty.

There is speculation here that Brezhnev is still less than satisfied with Communist party leader Gustav Husak's performance at converting Czechoslovakia into an obedient ally in the wake of the 1968 Soviet invasion.

Prisoners Are Happy With Show

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Johnny Cash, the singer noted for his songs about the woes of convicts, found a receptive audience at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth Friday.

"This is the only show I've ever seen where all the men came out," an inmate said after the entertainer performed before a crowd of almost 2,000.

"They won't come to every show but they love this guy. He's special."

The empathy Cash felt for the men who have run afoul of the law was apparent.

"We put on a show about three weeks ago for President Nixon," Cash told his audience. "We're going to try a little harder for you."

He sang his hit song, "Folsom River Blues" with the word "Leavenworth" substituted for Folsom. The crowd responded enthusiastically.

Between songs, Cash talked to the men. "We're proud to be here," he said. "We really are."

"We ain't," yelled back a laughing prisoner.

The show, with about 20 entertainers including Cash, lasted more than an hour. The bleachers had been filled three hours before it began.

Earlier in the day the troupe performed at the Kansas Penitentiary at nearby Lansing and its adjacent women's farm.

When Cash launched into his current hit, "What is Truth?" the federal prisoners broke into sustained applause, apparently displaying an affinity for the young generation.

He signed autographs and shook hands with many men before leaving. Warden Robert I. Moseley presented him with a plaque, a trophy and two oil paintings—all made for him by convicts.

After the show an older prisoner made his way through the crowd to shake the singer's hand. "God bless you, Johnny Cash," the inmate said.

Cash, obviously moved, could only nod his head in reply.

When the troupe left the penitentiary there was a crowd gathered outside the walls to see the singer, who contrary to widespread belief has never served time.

The crowd hadn't been able to see Cash perform because this was the inmates' day.

People In The News

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Chief Justice Earl Warren says many of the nation's problems today can be traced to neglect of the ideal of equality and a failure to enforce the Constitution's guarantee of civil rights.

"We have had many crises in prior years, but none within the memory of living Americans which compares with this one," Warren told a civil rights luncheon Friday.

"Our problems have grown in size and intensity with the result that we are now torn by distress, frustration and dissent," he said. Contributing factors, he said, include war, unemployment, inflation, a deteriorating environment and "an atmosphere of oppression."

NEW YORK (AP) — Tiny Tim's wife, the former Vicki May Budinger, suffered a miscarriage in a Houston hospital Friday, a spokesman for the entertainer announced.

The singer's publicity man, Bud Westman, said "Miss Vicki" was 18 weeks pregnant when taken to Methodist Hospital. "We have nothing to release on this," a hospital spokesman said.

The long-haired falsetto singer married Miss Vicki in a televised ceremony last December, when she was 17.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's physician says the actress will be hospitalized three days for what he describes as minor gynecologic surgery.

Dr. Rex Kennamer said Miss Taylor will enter Cedars of Lebanon Hospital next week. His brief announcement Friday did not specify the day.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, who suffered a mild heart attack Wednesday night, is expected to recover fully, his physicians say.

Dodd, who observed his 63d birthday Friday with a piece of cake in his hospital room, said he still is in the running for renomination.

An aide said damage to Dodd's heart was minor and quoted the Democrat, who faces three younger challengers, as saying, "We're running."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been cited by a church organization for "creating an atmosphere for a return to the spiritual, moral and ethical values of the Founding Fathers."

Religious Heritage of America, Inc., which announced the citation Friday, describes itself as an interfaith, nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving the nation's Judeo-Christian heritage.

Also to be honored during the group's annual conference June 18 in Washington are Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the Greek Orthodox Church of North and South America, as clergyman of the year; and Agnes May Moynihan, a leading Roman Catholic laywoman, as churchwoman of the year.

Have New Films

Fourteen new films available through the Boonslick Library from May 18 to June 18 are: "African All," "Andy and the Lion," "Artist's Proof," "Breath of Spring," "The Columbia," "The Dinosaur Age," "Frederick, Douglass-Profile in Courage."

"Engagement: Romance and Realtiy," "I'm No Fool Having Fun," "Mother Deer and her Twins," "Peaceful Ones," "Puss In Boots," "Rivers of Time," "West Indies."

The film are 16 millimeter and are free of charge to groups and organizations in Pettis County.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR CURTIS W. TARR,

Director of Selective Service

What services besides the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard can a man serve in to satisfy his selective service obligation? —Van Hartson, Grand Rapids, Mich.

● In addition to the foregoing, service in the National Guard, other military reserve components as well as Environmental Science Services Administration or the Public Health Service will also satisfy one's military obligation.

FOR MARLIN PERKINS of tv's "Wild Kingdom"

When you are out hunting wild animals, what kind of protection do you have in case of attack?—Sadie Holmon, Tuscumbia, Ala.

● We never personally carry firearms, but occasionally the wardens with whom we are working carry rifles or side arms. Most of the work we do puts us into situations where guns would not be allowed or where they would not really offer the protection you might think. In every instance, we are careful.

FOR JEANE DIXON

Why do zodiac signs vary as to the first and last days. For instance, the 19th of February could be either Aquarius or Pisces. Which sign would it actually be under?—Mary Parsons, Knoxville, Pa.

● All astrologers must use an arbitrary set of dates because in some years the sun does not always change signs on the same day and may change signs the day before or the day after, depending on the year. The reason for this is that the earth's orbit is not an exact number of days long, so the calendar must be adjusted—or corrected—from time to time. Hence "Leap Year."

FOR PHIL RIZZUTO,

How did you acquire your nickname, "The Scooter"?—Don DeLuca, Trenton, N.J.

● I was nicknamed "The Scooter" by players in the Queens Alliance League in New York City when I was playing amateur ball. It was because I "scooted" after ground balls.

FOR JIM NABORS

What is the name of your special theme song on your TV show? —Mrs. M. Larmore, Largo, Fla.

● "Tomorrow Never Comes."

FOR DR. JAMES T. GRACE,

director Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y.

How long has insulin been in use? Who discovered it and how is it obtained?—A. W., Las Vegas, Nev.

● Two young men at the University of Toronto, Dr. Frederick G. Banting and Charles H. Best, made the discovery in 1921. Insulin, a hormone produced by the cells of the pancreas, regulates the body's use of sugar. The diabetic person's pancreatic gland does not produce enough insulin, therefore he is given insulin produced from the pancreas of the ox, pig, or sheep.

FOR DR. RICHARD P. CONDIE,

Director, Mormon Tabernacle Choir

I enjoy hearing your records and seeing you on such television programs as the Inauguration Concert in Washington. Since these are commercial enterprises, I wonder if the singers are paid?—Mrs. E. M. Erickson, St. Paul, Minn.

● The 375 members of the Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle Choir receive no pay for all their hours of travel, rehearsal, and performances. Like Mormon missionaries, they donate their time willingly.

FOR JULIUS HOROWITZ, Welfare Consultant and author

● It robs the recipients of all human dignity and makes welfare seem like a punishment.

What in the World!

From Glacier to Glass Imagine drinking something thousands of years old! The glaciers you can see during an SS. Arcadia cruise to Alaska are mere remnents of an ice advance which began 4,000 years ago. And one special feature on the San Francisco-Alaska runs this summer will be chunks of Mendenhall Glacier in the cold drinks. Melting glacier is pure and potable as the driven snow—which it once was, in fact. Of course, these ice cubes just may not melt. They last four times longer than the refrigerator kind. What do they taste like? The first experimenter reported to FAMILY WEEKLY: "a very natural flavor."

Don't Trust Anyone Under 30 Korea is one country where ladies are not trying to hang on to their youth. A proper bride-to-be moves into her future in-law's home before the wedding, according to Elizabeth Post, author of "The Wonderful World of Weddings," so she can learn from her fiancé's mother his preferences in the household arts. The mother-in-law has priority in running things, and the oldest daughter-in-law has seniority over the most recent bride—who's given little authority. Getting older is something to look forward to in Korea.

How to Take a Temp Most parents leave the thermometer under the child's tongue for four or five minutes. But the Army Nurse Corps, in caring for feverish youngsters has found that insufficient, according to the Journal of Pediatrics. True temperature was registered in only a quarter of a group of 40 children, seven to 12, in the first four minutes; 47 percent had an accurate reading after six minutes. Ten minutes was needed for 90-percent accuracy. Question: How do you get a child to hold the thermometer that long?

Nonmovement Exercise When is an exercise not an exercise? Geminesse is about to introduce a unique form of antifatigue "exercise," in which no outward motions are visible. Instead of actually "pushing," for instance, you think pushing—which causes inner tensing (contracting and relaxing) of any muscle involved, and tones it, but adds no muscle bulge. The inflated plastic Body Belle "exerciser" is used simply as a stabilizer, to help pinpoint and intensify the nonaction. The model here is doing the first exercise in the six-minute-a-day Body Fitness program. She is "thinking pushing"

Don't Let Your Child Become a Fatty!

Mom may be using tempting foods to offset kids' emotional problems

By LOIS L. LINDAUER
Director of the Diet Workshop

MUCH like its proverbial counterpart, the road to obesity is paved with good intentions; and often these good intentions originate in the family kitchen.

A conscientious mother will invest time, energy, and imagination in the preparation of meals for her children, hoping to spark their appetites with nutritious foods that will build and safeguard their health. But even so worthy a purpose can be cancelled out by a Circe-of-the-skillet who urges too many goodies upon the members of her household.

In the matter of overfeeding, a mother can develop a stumbling block. The tendency to stuff her children with food from the time they are in the high chair gets such a firm grip on her that she finds it impossible to break the routine. She can always produce a reason for the overload.

"The children are away from home all day. I have to see to it that they get a good dinner," is a familiar explanation. Hence, the "compensatory meal"—to make up in food for what the kids may have missed in attention—comes to the table in many courses, followed by a calorie-laden dessert.

If Mom repeats this procedure for a dozen years or more, she will have on her hands fat teen-agers, often with skin problems, who may suffer socially and emotionally because of overweight. Ironically, Mom may not recognize her own contribution to this state of affairs. Confronted by an unhappy daughter with two chins and a crying jag because she can't find a fashionable dress to fit her, Mother will admonish:

"Just look at yourself! You don't even have a waistline any more! And it's all because of the junk you eat at school" Thus a vastly confusing switchover takes place. A child who had been praised and rewarded for being a good eater in her childhood is now made to feel that she has become a glutton.

And is Dad of much help in the situation? Does he turn to Mother and say, "I think we should start the streamlining right now." Regrettably, Father is seldom that objective. He beams at his daughter, who is still his "little girl," and remarks, "She looks okay to me just as she is." Hence Dad, guilty of myopic daughter-worship, becomes a partner in the creation of a fatty.

Mothers throughout the world have been faced with family problems which they sought to resolve by way of their cooking talent. My neighbor comes to mind. She moved into our town with her 12-year-old Julie, who was finding it difficult to cultivate a circle of friends. Rolling up her sleeves, and rolling out the cookie dough, she started a "stop off at our house after school" routine, which proved effective in establishing her daughter as a member of a group.

First two, then three, then half-a-dozen classmates came home with Julie for cocoa and cookies or brownies or homemade cream puffs or other delicacies which, my neighbor was only too happy to provide. Eventually other mothers shared the hostessing and exercised their own baking skills or brought in products of the local pastry shop. In time, the after-school social gathering became an eating ritual, and the youngsters began to gain a lot of extra weight.

My neighbor, having created this situation, was the first to recognize its penalties. She started to put out fruit, low-calorie macaroons and skim milk freezes for the young people who accompanied Julie home once or twice a week. Strangely, there were no complaints from the girls themselves, for apparently the success of the after-school get-together was due more to its social than its gastronomical aspects.

When a child has been disappointed, or buffeted in one way or another by a world which does not always handle him with care, his mother may try to compensate with whatever talent she can muster.

A case in point: Our nephew could not fit driver-training into his high-school program. With all his friends —even the girls—already signed up, this postponement of an opportunity to slide behind the wheel was to him a major calamity. The boy's resentment was strong, but not quite as much so as it might have been had he not expected his Dad to teach him.

But Dad, for his own reasons, considered a six-month postponement of driver-training all to the good; and Mother found herself in that threadbare spot often reserved exclusively for mothers, right in the middle. So she thought of ways to prove to young Bob that his parents were not being unreasonable and that they understood his frustration. She began baking chocolate cakes, filled the freezer with ice-cream, whipped up thick shakes for him at any hour, and made frequent inquiries about the adequacy of his allowance.

All of this overindulgence may or may not have helped to improve Bob's disposition, but if repeated even once in a while, our nephew will associate food with panacea and resort to gustatory comforts whenever the going gets choppy.

A father glows with pride when his neighbor remarks: "That's quite a boy you have there!" If the man next door is referring to a child's good manners, pleasing personality, neat appearance, or intellectual superiority, this is reason for a parent to take a bow. But, if by "quite a boy" the neighbor means quite a mountain of flesh, there is no cause to celebrate. The demand for professional football players is generally filled by those magnificent men who were born to be big, not by those who have had bigness thrust upon them by fathers with visions of the glories of having an athletic son.

A departure from sensible menu-planning is seldom an occasional spree that happens only once in a fortnight . . . it is the trip taken by those who automatically and chronically travel the cooking route with pounds of butter and pints of cream in tow. It is often the desire to please, to impress, or to enhance their image as gourmet cook and unparalleled pastry chef that makes women impervious to what they are doing to the family silhouettes.

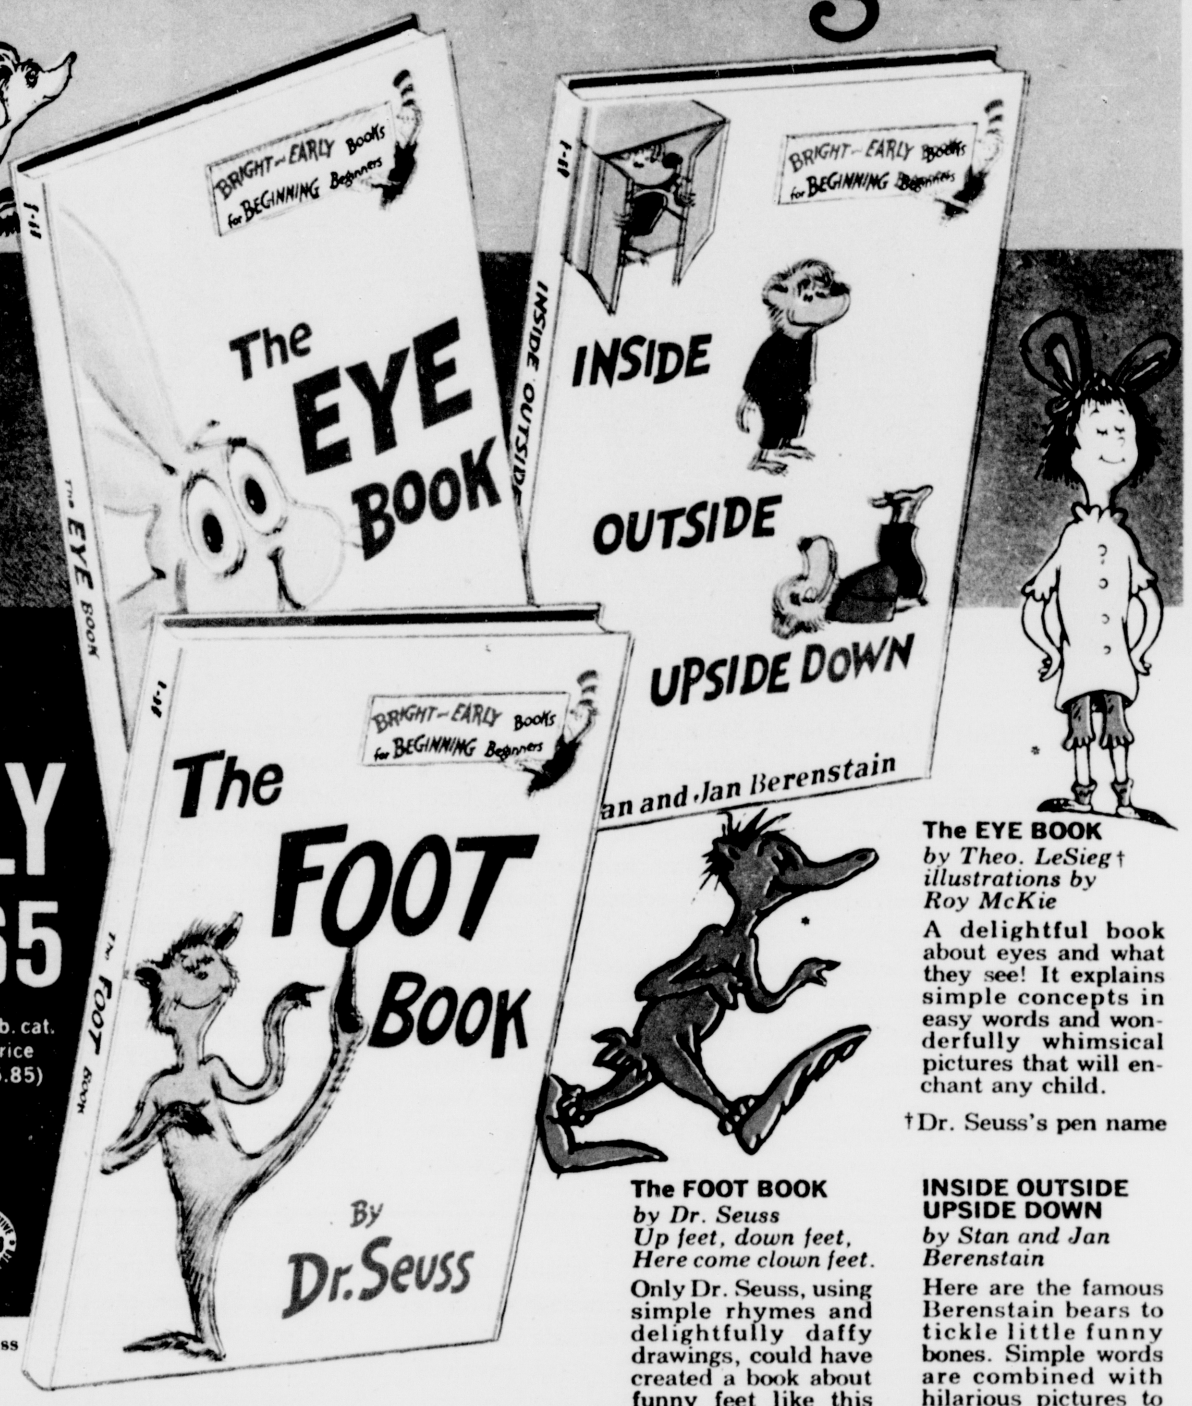

There are countless ways in which someone in the family, deliberately, innocently, or sometimes through indifference, contributes to the building of a fatty. Though the treacheries and dangers of too much weight are no longer debatable, in many households at least one heedless person may choose to ignore the self-evident truth that the creeping-up process of extra flesh starts with the addition of a single extra pound.

Success in achieving slim and healthful young bodies depends not only upon individual will-power and discipline but upon parental vigilance and total family cooperation. ◆

The FOOT BOOK
by Dr. Seuss
Up feet, down feet, Here come clown feet.
Only Dr. Seuss, using simple rhymes and delightfully daffy drawings, could have created a book about funny feet like this for tots. Your youngster will love it.

INSIDE OUTSIDE UPSIDE DOWN
by Stan and Jan Berenstain
Here are the famous Berenstain bears to tickle little funny bones. Simple words are combined with hilarious pictures to make your youngest child giggle with joy.

What fun to be able to read books all by yourself—when you're only three (or perhaps just two and a half)! Lots of little kids are doing it these days, with a wonderful new kind of book created by Dr. Seuss and his friends.

They're called BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS, and they're filled with big, bright illustrations and funny little rhyming words. Children love them. And with their help, "beginning" beginners—from two-year-old tots to six-year-old first-graders—take to reading as happily as ducklings take to water!

These BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS tell about the things that are delightfully familiar to your child: his feet and the marvels they can perform... his eyes and the fun of seeing...the ideas of "inside, outside, and upside down" that a young child finds so fascinating.

Dr. Seuss and his fellow authors have polished these marvelous stories until they sparkle with the simplest words in the language. But the sprightly, brightly-colored illustrations are the real key. Youngsters can't resist them ...and as they pore over the illustrations they begin to put the words and pictures together. With just a little help from Mom or Dad, a child soon discovers he's actually reading on his own!

The three BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS shown here are the starter books in the BEGINNING READERS' PROGRAM. They cost $5.85 at the publisher's catalog price. But you may have all three for only $1.65 as an introduction. They'll get your "beginning" beginner off to a happy start in reading. And then it's an easy glide right into reading regular BEGINNER BOOKS... they begin where BRIGHT AND EARLY BOOKS leave off!

As a member of the program, your child will receive a BEGINNER BOOK each month, and you will be billed only $1.65 plus delivery instead of the publisher's catalog price of $1.95. After accepting four monthly selections, you may cancel membership at any time.

Enjoy this 10-day treat FREE!

See for yourself how Dr. Seuss and his friends can charm your child into reading! You must be delighted, or you may return the three books within 10 days and owe nothing. Just fill out and mail the order form, today.

FAMILY WEEKLY EXCLUSIVE

A U.S. ENVOY'S

"I Was Kidnapped

Sean and Rebecca Holly's marriage has been a love story, and Sean's safe release the happy ending.

By SEAN HOLLY
As told to
Terry Schaertel

Editor's Note: United States diplomats and their families have been increasingly endangered during the current epidemic of tactical kidnapping by Latin American extremists. Officials privately voice concern that terrorists all over the world may utilize the holding of envoys to bring pressure upon hated local governments.

As of this writing, there have been three kidnappings or attempted kidnappings of Americans since the first of the year. Since 1968, in Guatemala alone, two U.S. military attachés and an ambassador have been slain. Then on April 5, the kidnapped West German ambassador, Count Karl von Spreti, was murdered by members of FAR (Fuerzas Armadas Rebeldes—armed Communist terrorists) because the Guatemalan government refused their ransom demands for the freeing of 22 political prisoners and payment of $700,000 to the FAR. A few weeks earlier, on March 6, members of this same group seized Sean Holly, 41, labor attaché at the American Embassy in Guatemala City. For 39 hours, he was held hostage, in equal danger of murder. Only because Guatemala did agree to the ransom terms—release of three FAR comrades—was our diplomat released unharmed. FAMILY WEEKLY sent a staff writer to Washington, where Mr. Holly was on leave, for this exclusive interview—Sean Holly's own harrowing story, as he relived it:

THE KIDNAP. I had just left a restaurant and was heading back to the Embassy in heavy lunchtime traffic when a car crowded me off the road. I opened my window to yell at the careless driver. Next thing I knew, a fellow grabbed my door and demanded, "Salga, Salga" (get out): It was then that I saw the submachine gun. (The same one, I was reminded later, that had killed Ambassador John Gordon Mein in 1968 because he tried to escape from his abductors.)

Immediately, I did as I was told. The ignition was still on, my jacket and pipe left behind in my car.

My captors told me to remove my prescription sunglasses—I'm very nearsighted—and replaced them with regular dark glasses stuffed with cotton. A very effective blindfold unnoticed as we drove past police check points to the first of three hideouts in the hills.

HOSTAGE. There, the rebels were very solicitous of my comfort. They wanted to keep the merchandise in good shape. It was bitterly cold. They gave me blankets and shared their food with me. I'd been a pipe smoker since I was 18, and I missed it now. They offered me their cigarettes, but I can't stand cigarettes.

They pointed out repeatedly that if I tried to escape, they'd kill me. I assured them I knew better than to try to be James Bond. They had nothing against me personally, I was just a symbol of the United States—which they were against. But if their friends were not set free as they demanded, I was dead, and we all knew it. If they got word that the government was not cooperating, they would say sorry, friend, and pull the trigger.

At that point, however, it was too soon to worry. The ordeal had just begun. In fact, it was possible that it wasn't even a news item yet. Looking back on it, I think one aspect struck me as almost funny. Everyone at the first house was milling around, talking, asking questions. Nothing orderly. Following no systematic plan. That's a typical Latin situation. You think you're going to Place A, but they're going to Place B, but haven't told you—and that goes on and on. The irony was, I remember thinking, Here I've been kidnapped, and they haven't got the damn thing arranged as to who is to notify whom!

When they decided to move me, for security reasons, to another cabin, they put me on a horse. I was blindfolded, and made to wear a big hat to camouflage my gringo crewcut and features. I had the blankets wrapped around me.

"Don't try to run away," they warned me, needlessly.

How could I have? I'm no rider. I kept being thrown back and forward as the horse jolted up and down the hills. I was too chilled and uncomfortable, too busy trying to hang onto the blankets and not fall off the horse, to think of escaping. I had no idea where we were going, though I suspect they were leading me in circles to confuse me.

At last we stopped, and they took me into a hut made of woven palm fronds and mud. They made no attempt to harass me. In fact, we chatted in Spanish, even discussed political philosophies. The guerrillas told me they were university students. They believe the only way to achieve social and economic change is through violent revolution. They are against free elections, as offering no real difference in the candidates. They are pleased with Guatemala's recent election of a law-and-order president, however, because they think his policies will be repressive and that this will alienate the people and win them more converts. They don't have much support now.

FAR members are sort of Marxist, like our own young radicals in the States, with a very simplistic view of the world. They think in stereotypes of Wall Street, big corporations, policemen as "pigs."

I didn't really get worried until the second day. By Saturday afternoon and evening, things were getting sticky. Negotiations had bogged down. Time was getting short. The guerrillas were jittery. They had not received word that their comrades had been released, and we all knew I'd have to pay with my life if they weren't let go soon.

To my amazement, I accepted this dire possibility.

Nothing in life really prepares you for a situation like this. What did I think about?

WAITING TO BE SHOT. Mostly I thought about my wife Becky. We'd met when I was a student at Fordham University in New York, and she was secretary to the Dean. She was pretty, and tiny—still is, only 5′ 2″, 108 pounds. I'd just passed my Foreign Service Exam, though I still had thoughts of going into teaching, like my grandparents in Ireland. Meeting Becky decided me. I wanted to get married. I didn't want to spend the additional years and money needed for teaching, when I could have a diplomatic job right away. I proposed on our third date. The best move I ever made in my life was marrying that girl.

And the Foreign Service is the career for me. I'd be bored catching the Long Island Rail Road every day. My father was a trade unionist, a labor organizer. I grew up in it. I believe in it. If you want to help a country become free, democratic, you help them build free, democratic trade unions.

And I thought about my children. I'm a very fortunate man. I have a wife who loves me, five gorgeous children, all smart—more than that, good kids. I'm very fond of them. There's Leo who's 12, wears his hair too long, I think, but I try to put up with it. Then Moira, 11; Mairead—that's Irish for Margaret—nine; Christopher, seven; and Kevin, who'll be six in June. They've all picked up the language of whatever country we're in, and made friends.

The things I did not think of, in what I believed might well be my last hours on earth, might surprise you. I did not, for instance, think of Last Rites. Of course, I preferred to die of old age, surrounded by innumerable grandchildren, but . . . I had made my peace with God and was ready to go. Well, not ready, and certainly not willing, but that's how it is. Heaven? I don't know, I hope so. I didn't give it much more thought than that.

I never thought about money, nor wished I'd made a better will, or taken out more insurance. I did not have regrets. I didn't think of all the things I might have done, or would do, if I was spared. I didn't berate myself for not taking the bus that day or choosing a different restaurant.

I did pray, sort of talked informally to God, which is the best way to pray. But mostly I thought about my wife. I knew she'd be all right. Becky really has a very strong faith.

Now the guerrillas were getting very edgy. It was hard to sleep. They'd cock the machine gun at every little noise. And always that penetrating cold. I'd try to keep my mind occupied by counting the chinks in the mud walls. I looked at my watch a lot, you might say passing the time by looking at the time, and that began to annoy one of my guards.

Then they all got really annoyed because Saturday was the solar eclipse—which eclipsed their public relations. (We had all been listening to the radio for news bulletins reporting any progress toward my release.) The door was wide open and the light was right in my eyes. I developed a tremendous headache, partly from going without my glasses for so long.

It got to be that my major thoughts were, "when are they going to make up their minds . . . let's get this business over with. . . ."

The children, grouped around their mother: (top row) Moira, 11; Leo, 12; Mairead, 9; (front) Christopher, 7, and Kevin, who will be 6 in June.

RELEASE AND REUNION. Then suddenly a message came that "del Cid," the man whose freedom the guerrillas were getting so uptight about (he hadn't been in jail, after all, so the government couldn't grant him release), was given political asylum by the Costa Rican Embassy. The terms had now been fully met and at last the FAR could keep their part of the bargain and bring me back.

About 5:30 Sunday morning, they took me to a working-class neighborhood of Guatemala City and woke up a young priest, Father Aldana, and explained the conditions. I gave my word of honor that I would not call anyone for an hour. If I did, they said, they'd kill me and my family. We synchronized watches.

An hour and seven minutes later, I phoned my house. Friends and people from the Embassy had been standing watch around the clock. An aide came and got me. I stopped home just long enough to kiss Becky and hug the kids—who weren't at all shy about telling me that I smelled like Hogan's Goat. (I was still in the clothes I had on Friday morning, unshaven, unwashed.) I've gotten a more enthusiastic welcome coming in from a field trip.

It's a tribute to Becky that she kept the kids from being hysterical about my seizure. She'd told them, "Remember when Mr. Fuentes Mohr (the foreign minister—his wife came and was very helpful and comforting to Becky while I was gone) was kidnapped and then released when they let the two political prisoners go . . . well, Daddy will be home soon, too."

I had to go straight to the Ambassador and brought Becky with me in her bathrobe. There followed a busy day of reunions, press conferences, cleaning up, naps, food,—and a three-hour debriefing. The Episcopal Bishop of Guatemala, a good friend of mine, stopped by on his way to New York and offered to let my mother know that he'd seen me, safe and well.

I was at work at 8 a.m. the next day, and I haven't stopped since. So I'm still all wound up. The week before the kidnapping the national elections were held in Guatemala. That meant staying up most of the night, compiling reports, so I was exhausted when we started this whole business anyway.

UNDERCOVER FLIGHT FROM GUATEMALA. It was a foregone conclusion I could no longer be very effective as a labor officer in this post. After all, you can't go down and talk with a bunch of banana cutters when there are guards with guns hanging around. And who would want to share a car pool or a meal with a man who may be a target? And my family would be in danger again if one of the guerrillas was caught while I was still on the scene.

It was on March 8 that the rebels freed me. On the 11th, the seven of us left the country. We had to leave most everything behind and tell almost no one—certainly not the children. We packed just a few things. The kids thought we were going on a picnic—until they saw the police back-up automobiles. Then they sensed the secrecy, the urgency. The full impact of the danger hit them.

THE FUTURE. It's getting to all of us, now that we're safe, and it's over. Becky had been so great during the ordeal. She kept a list of callers to send them thank you notes. Now she can't face it. Leo, my oldest son, wants to settle down and stop this nomadic existence. He especially doesn't want to go to Spain—which is a possibility as the next assignment. (I'll have to keep out of Latin America for several years; these groups are all loosely connected.) Now we feel the tension and terror of having lived in a powder keg.

I'm looking forward to having a free moment to sit down with Leo and talk it over. My own father always had good communications with us, and never gave us his opinion unless we asked for it. I'm trying to raise my kids the same way.

The Foreign Service means everything to me. Becky has said to me, "As long as you're happy in your work, we are with you."

I'm very fortunate; not all wives are like that. Leo probably is afraid Spain would be another Guatemala, and besides, he wants to live in one place now. I want to have the time to talk it over with him.

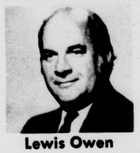

Now I'm going to visit my wife's brother in Nevada, put the kids back in school, relax, rest—and get out of the limelight.

Then Becky and I will have some privacy to think about the next assignment. I look forward to getting a moment's peace just to be with my family again . . . and stop running.

Then I'll look forward to the next challenge. ◆

How Wall Street Doubles My Money Every Three Years

Lewis Owen tells you how! He goes over his own portfolio with you—stock by stock. Shows you exactly how he made his money double and double and double again . . . How you can apply his winning rules to your investments!

Lewis Owen

If You Answer YES to Any of these Questions—Then Lewis Owen Says You Need His Rules for Becoming a Consistent Stock Market Winner:

- Do you think the best way to buy stock is by "getting in at the bottom"—just before it starts rising again?
- Would you feel better holding ten shares of a $10 stock than one of a $100 stock?
- Would you hesitate to buy a stock that closed at 35 this week that you could have picked up for 25 a week earlier?
- Do you think you "break even" if you buy a stock at 25, watch it climb to 45, and then drop back to 25 again?
- Is a stock more attractive to you because it consistently pays high dividends?
- Do you still think that buying on margin is a dangerous game—especially for the small investor?
- Do you believe that, through good and bad markets, you'll come out better by investing in "blue chip" stocks?

Lewis Owen says you're DEAD WRONG if you answer YES to any of the questions above! That may seem crazy! It may shock you—because it seems to go against all the "traditional" rules of investing.

But with the phenomenal profit record Owen racked-up in the market—you owe it to yourself to investigate his solid reasons for saying so!

How Owen Makes His Money Grow a Crazy 30% a Year!

In 1962 Lewis Owen was a big guy on Madison Avenue, but still a "little guy" on Wall Street. But today has SEXTUPLED his money! Through bull and bear markets, the value of his holdings has increased about 30% a year—doubling his money approximately every three years!

How did he do it? By figuring out the real strengths and weaknesses of the small investor—and working out a set of realistic guidelines for himself. Not the worn-out guidelines in the usual stock market primers!

And in his amazing new book—HOW WALL STREET DOUBLES MY MONEY EVERY THREE YEARS: The No-Nonsense Guide to Stock Market Profit—he spells out his proven methods of success for you in detail. And shows why they really work!

Owen lays down exact rules for you to follow! Using his own personal portfolio as an example—he shows you what stocks to buy . . . and when to buy them! What to sell . . . and when to sell them!

He shows you what kind of "inside" information to listen to and what to ignore! How to hedge your winnings! How to ride on winners, through bull and bear markets alike! He even shows you ways to keep your capital gains taxes as low as possible so you can hold on to the lion's share of your market profits!

Be Shocked—But Make Profits!

This is one of the most shocking, most surprising, most rewarding books ever published on trading to win in the stock market! Lewis Owen is no slide-rule analyst or chart-toting advisor. He is—or was —a small investor . . . one of the "little guys" just like you!

But there is one BIG difference—he hit upon certain rules that put him many thousands of dollars ahead—enabled him to retire rich at 53! Some of these unorthodox rules may startle and amaze you . . .

Lewis Owen Violated Many Traditional Investment Rules—But Consistently Made Big Profits! Follow his Lead—YOU Can Be a Big Winner Also!

First of all, Mr. Owen makes it perfectly clear that you don't need a fortune to play his money game—and really start making big money! He maintains—with personal figures to back him up—that you, too, can rack-up gains of 30% or more annually . . . and double your money every three years . . . if you are cool enough and wise enough to follow his simple advice!

And the first piece of valuable advice he gives you is to become what he calls a "Specuvestor"!

A "Specuvestor" is the result of crossing the daring of a speculator with the caution of an investor. And, like Lewis Owen, the "Specuvestor" can really make money in the market place. Best of all, when you win, he shows you how to win big—and when you lose, he shows you how to cut your losses and bounce right back to winning again!

Twenty Rules for "Specuvesting"

Mr. Owen gives you his TWENTY RULES for "Specuvesting"—and they are unlike any other guidelines you have ever seen! Here are a few examples:

- Forget about dividends when you're looking for a good stock to buy!
- Buy a stock only after it has started rising—if it keeps going up, buy more!
- Never ride a stock down. When it starts to drop, sell—no matter what your broker says!

"Most profitable shock you ever had," says IRA U. COBLEIGH,

Economist and Author of the Bestselling Happiness Is a Stock that Doubles in a Year

"This book will shock you—if you are as conventional in your thinking about stocks as most of the 'little guys' who dabble in the market. But unless you've done as well as Lewis Owen—that is, unless you've consistently doubled your money every three years—it will provide the most profitable shock you've ever had.

"As a man who has been studying the market for many years, not without my own share of success, I have only one piece of advice to give you about this book: Read it—and then follow Owen's lead!"

And there are 17 more! These rules may contradict everything you have ever learned about trading in stocks! But Lewis Owen shatters market myths! He shows you, with actual precise buys and sells from his own portfolio, how he achieves that crazy 30% gain per year! Year-in and year-out! How you can be a big winner too—through bull and bear markets—if you follow his rules!

Special No-Risk FREE-TRIAL Offer!

Holiday Highway: The Trans Canada

Our northern neighbor's coast-to-coast super road has something spectacular for everyone—sportsman, fisherman, camper, camera fan, or just plain tourist

By ERWIN A. BAUER

Rocky formations provide cozy beach setting for family in Nova Scotia.

THE Trans Canada Highway is a smooth concrete super road, which was built originally to provide the fastest cross-continent travel by car. But more and more it is becoming "the vacation highway" for Americans and Canadians alike.

Today no paved road on earth connects so many vacation opportunities, particularly for family vacations with an outdoor flavor. The Trans Canada begins at St. Johns, Newfoundland, on the east coast, and ends 5,800 miles later at Victoria, British Columbia, on the west—from the Atlantic to the Pacific. In between, it passes countless parks and woodlands, mountain ranges and meadows, fishing and boating waters unmatched anywhere.

Newfoundland, the Trans Canada's eastern terminus, is a good destination for fishermen and for vacationists who enjoy trailing their own boats to be launched in unfamiliar waters. If the boat is large enough and seaworthy, it is possible to cruise completely around this island. Giant bluefin tuna school near Harbour Main, whole pods of pothead whales are driven ashore at New Harbour, and trout fishing in most inland waters is rewarding. Beginning in September, the interior of Newfoundland attracts many moose-hunter enthusiasts.

A maritime ferry carries Trans Canada travelers from Newfoundland westward to Cape Breton Island. Main attractions here for outdoor people are Cape Breton Highlands National Park (camping), sea trout and salmon fishing in Bras d'Or Lake, and great bird-watching on Ciboux and Herford islands. A rock causeway links Cape Breton Island with mainland Nova Scotia.

Many lakes of Nova Scotia have landlocked salmon and Grand Lake is one of the best. There are numerous campgrounds in the province, an excellent wildlife sanctuary near Waverly, and the waters off Yarmouth are internationally famous for bluefin tuna.

Continuing westward, the route leads to the province of New Brunswick. Virtually all of the waters of this province offer good fishing for trout or landlocked salmon, smallmouth bass or pickerel, and possibly all four. Best known to most anglers are the St. Croix and St. Johns rivers, plus the necklaces of connecting lakes. Fundy National Park offers extensive camping opportunities.

Quebec is Canada's best-known province, and it would require volumes to catalog in detail all of the fishing waters and the best hunting areas (for deer, bears, moose, game birds in the fall). To reach the best of the salmon fishing, it is necessary to circle away from the Trans Canada Highway to the Gaspe Peninsula and its provincial parks. But hundreds of other fishing and boating lakes are accessible by road, north of Ottawa.

Even with several lifetimes to devote, an angler couldn't begin to sample all of the fishing waters which are scattered across Ontario. From Ottawa to Kenora, the Trans Canada Highway crosses countless rivers and passes within sight of hundreds of lakes. Connecting roads lead to other lakes, and chartered flights by float plane carry anglers to waters still farther north, which are seldom fished. Algonquin Provincial Park is a good one for camping-fishing expeditions. Georgian Bay, North Channel, and the perimeter of Manitoulin Island must compare with the finest boating waters anywhere.

All of the best fishing in Manitoba and Saskatchewan is north of the Trans Canada, and much is easily accessible by a constantly improving network of roads. The most important game fish are northern pike (they reach greater size here than anywhere else) and lake trout. Manitoba's blue-ribbon fishing country is reached via Route 10, which extends 400 miles northward from its junction with the Trans Canada Highway at Brandon.

Both of these prairie provinces have provided better-than-average facilities for campers; good campgrounds are spotted at intervals along all major highways. Fall game-bird shooting and deer hunting are superb south of the Trans Canada. Three very popular camping areas are Whiteshell Provincial Park and Riding Mountain National Park in Manitoba, and Prince Albert National Park in Saskatchewan.

In Alberta the Trans Canada traveler meets the Canadian Rockies, and this is a magnificent chunk of real estate to cross. From Banff, a road (Route 93) known as "the Calendar Highway" extends northward along the full length of Banff and Jasper National Parks. A good many vacationers consider this the most spectacular drive they have ever made.

A popular holiday in the Rockies of both Alberta and British Columbia is the pack trip (on horseback) or back pack (on foot) into the mountains to fish in remote alpine lakes. Action is invariably fast and the mountain scenery makes it all the more exciting. Horses and guides for pack trips can be obtained in Banff or Lake Louise. In the fall, hunters can make pack trips for such big game as moose, bighorn sheep, bears, and mountain goats, elk, and deer.

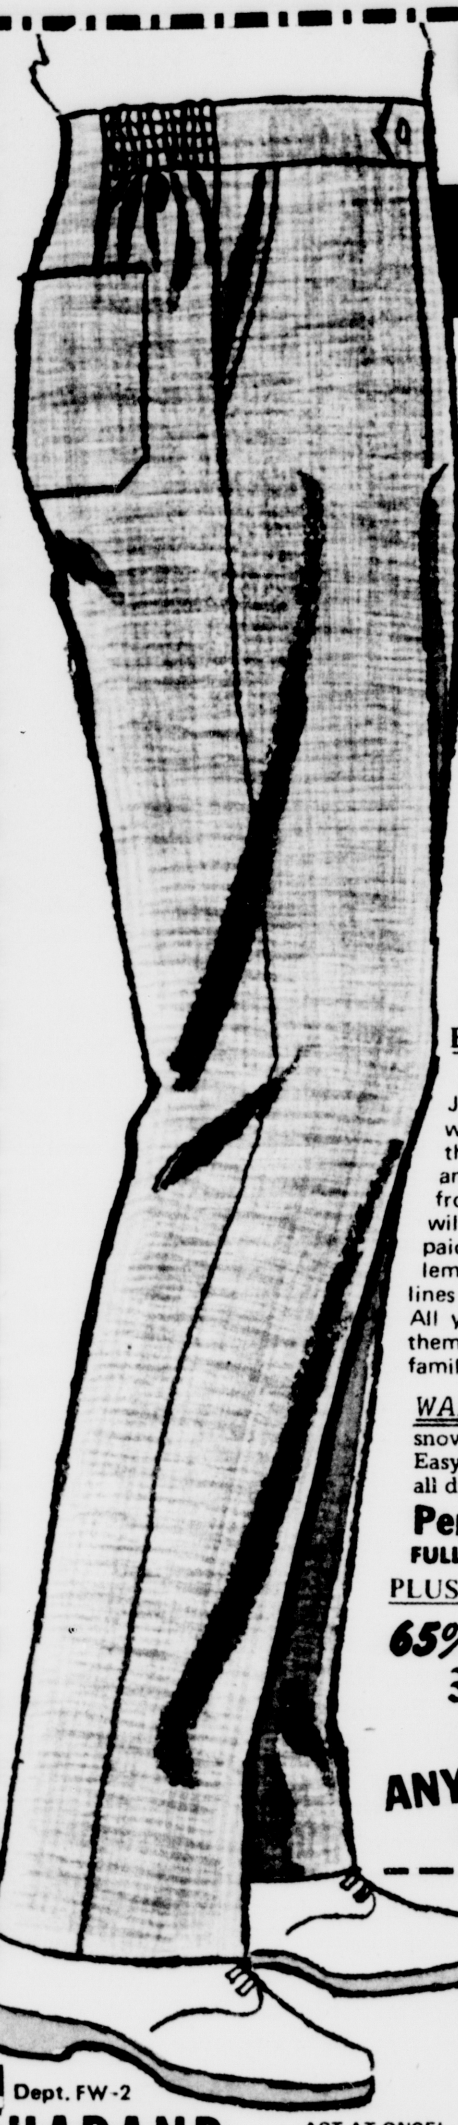

In British Columbia, the Trans Canada winds through Glacier, Yoho and Revelstoke national parks, all great for outdoor enthusiasts with well-marked trails and abundant wildlife. There is splendid rainbow trout fishing in Kamloops Lake and in Wells Gray Provincial Park.

The Trans Canada terminates in the center of Canada's best Pacific salmon fishing. Daily charter boats leave from such ports as Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo, and Campbell River, and they seldom return in summer without a heavy catch. Of course, boat owners can also fish from their own craft. The Strait of Georgia, between mainland and Vancouver Island, is exciting to cruise. It is also the starting point for trips by boat, via the Inland Waterway, to Alaska.

COURTLY LADY WALTZES TO

"HELLO DOLLY"

Delicately hand-painted china lady dances to the reminiscent notes of "Hello Dolly." This imported musical figurine recreates the age of innocence, the era of elegance, personifies the aristocratic turn-of-the-century manners & dress. A gentle time when ladies were escorted to Del Monico's attired in floor length growns, leg-horn hats, carrying flamboyant parasols. It was a time of horseless carriages, Sunday picnics, gas lights, nickelodeons, cotillions, bustles and garters. Revolving base, no wind-up key needed. 8" high.

9681—Hello Dolly Music Box.....$5.98

An Amazing Value for only $2.98

Lighted Pineapple Centerpiece

Many luscious fruits surround the base giving a "dining in the tropics" atmosphere! Light shimmers through the translucent true-to-life color of the pineapple. Unique! Two "C" Batteries not included.

8441—Pineapple Lamp.....$2.98

WIG LINER KEEPS HAIR TUCKED IN; GIVES PERFECT WIG FIT! Just tuck your hair under it ...no struggling or pinning, fits like a stocking! Your own hair stays tidy and manageable! This new stretch net liner works wonderfully because it keeps you cooler—it breathes! Your wig will feel better, more natural! Wig stays cleaner, too. Set of 2. Flesh color.

8376—Wig Liner $2.98

INFLATABLE PILLOWS SPELL L-O-V-E!

The loveliest word in our language spelled out in four inflatable pillows...The gayest psychedelic colors to brighten any corner. Toss them coyly about as a "hint" to a friend. Teens will visualize them as throw-abouts or wall decorations. Each has painted "peace" flower. 12x9".

8685—Inflatable Love Pillows $1.98

A PURPLE VELVET COW... gently stampedes across your heart. His winsome expression makes comedy of the black tipped horns atop his regal purple head. A red rose juts jauntily from between smiling lips and a feathered tuft tops off a "Devil-may care" attitude. Delightful conversation piece and he's no BULL. 4½" tall.

8702—Purple Cow $1.00

My Big Man used to dress like fashion was a sin! Now... look how daring KING-SIZE has made him!

My big man had become a bitter man. Everywhere he looked, there was this bold new look for men . . . the new flare slacks, Edwardian jackets, a rainbow of bright colors . . .

But where in our local stores could a 6'5", 225 lb. man find these gorgeous clothes in his size! My big man was out in the cold. He wasn't with it. It was maddening. Frustrating. And there was nothing he could do about it! Until . . .

One day I noticed a KING-SIZE catalog at a friend's house. I was so happy — I nearly screamed! Because here were big men's clothes in all the colors of the rainbow. Flare bottom pants and bells. Bold sport shorts. 6 button blazers. The new wide ties. And all styled and proportioned for big and tall men, by specialists!

I borrowed the catalog. And my big man and I had a field day, going through the 128 pages, in color, displaying the clothing and shoes . . . the sweaters, slacks, and jackets . . . the shirts and accessories . . . all specially designed for TALL and BIG men! Necks to 22" . . . sleeves to 38" . . . inseams up to 42" . . . sizes to XXXL! And all famous brand names — McGregor, Arrow, Manhattan, Jantzen, Weldon. PLUS 200 shoe styles in sizes from 10 to 16, widths AAA to EEE . . . including DuPont Corfam, Hush Puppies, Bates Floaters and others.

So my husband went style-happy — for the first time since he'd reached his full growth. And it was nice to know that every item he ordered was backed up by the famous KING-SIZE Money-Back Guarantee: "You must be completely satisfied both BEFORE and AFTER wearing, or you get an immediate refund or exchange." What better protection could anyone ask for?

These days, thanks to KING-SIZE, my rugged, he-man husband dresses like a movie star. And we find ourselves with a lot of extra free time for fun — time we used to waste in fruitless shopping!

So if the big man in your life (husband, son, brother, boyfriend) has the same kind of KING-SIZE problem, your story can have the same happy ending as mine. Just sit down and write for the FREE 128-page full-color KING-SIZE Catalog. When it arrives, you and your TALL and BIG man will be able to go places in KING-SIZE STYLE!

Send today for FREE 128 page full-color catalog!

Barbers talk a lot—except when they find an electric shaver that outshaves a hand-honed straight razor.

Then they keep it to themselves. Until now!

10 DAY FREE TRIAL!

Treat your face to the Oster Professional for 10 days—10 days of the smoothest, fastest, closest, most irritation-free shaving you've ever enjoyed . . . either blade or electric! Then, if not completely satisfied, return for a full refund.

JAY NORRIS CORP., 31 Hanse Ave.
Dept. L-380, Freeport, N.Y. 11520

A barber gets $1.50 plus tip for a shave with his electric razor. For years he's kept the brand name hidden with adhesive tape.

Can you rightly blame him? For this professional instrument outshaves his hand-hone straight razor! You won't find it in stores, It's been a secret weapon of master barbers for years. It delivers a barber-close shave that lasts all day long. It does it faster and with less chance of irritation than a straight razor. That's why barbers use it on the toughest beards and the most sensitive skin.

Now the secret is out. A blabber-mouthed barber talked. We have it. The Oster Professional Electric Shaver.

Contoured Head — Like a Barber's Fingers

The design is a barber's dream. Technically, the shaving head design is called a "double arch contour," because it sets up whiskers just like a barber does with his fingers. It means you get every whisker at one pass — as clean as if you had drawn a hand-honed, surgically sharp, straight razor over your face.

4,000 Comb Traps — 152 Surgical Steel Edges

So Powerful, Whiskers Turn to Dust!

Open an ordinary electric shaver and you'll find bits and pieces of whisker. That's because these run-of-the-mill shavers hack and chop your beard. But the Oster Professional Electric Shaver operates at nearly twice the speed—on ordinary household AC current—and actually pulverizes whiskers into fine microscopic dust.

Separate Trimmer Motor — Other Great Features

No expense was spared to make the Oster Professional to rigid, master-barber specifications. Trimmer operates off its own independent motor to trim moustaches and sideburns straight and neat for today's new "styled" look. The high-impact plastic housing is sculpted to fit your hand effortlessly. Removable stainless steel head rinses clean under running water. Two separate On-Off switches operate shaving head and trimmer separately. The specially counter-balanced drive gives you a smooth, vibration-free shave, and won't cause radio or TV interference.

It all adds up to an amazing shaving experience. An electric shave that makes your face come cleaner than a hand-honed surgical steel barber's straight razor—and in a lot less time.

Expecting a hefty price tag? Forget it! The Oster Professional was designed for barbers who don't go for expensive unneeded frills. The price is only $22.98, complete with carrying case—containing separate cord storage, cleaning brush and head cover.

Show me! I'd like to treat my face to the Oster Professional Electric Shaver's barber-close shaves! If it doesn't deliver smoother, faster, closer, more irritation-free shaves than I've ever enjoyed, I understand that I can return my shaver in 10 days for full refund or cancellation of charges. ☐ SAVE! SPECIAL OFFER! Order two Pianos for just $9.98 ppd. Extra music box makes the perfect gift!

"LARA'S THEME" FROM DR. ZHIVAGO

In its ornate splendor, this is just the piano you would imagine that Lara, the heroine of Dr. Zhivago, sat down to play her nostalgic melody. Now recreated as an exquisite music and jewel box here is the ultimate in decorating beauty. A hideway for your precious earrings, rings and pins...a collector's music box that will bring you endless moments of musical pleasure and delight.

Actually, it is impossible to recapture all its grace and charm from the black and white picture here. You must see the heavy embossing, the intricate filigree work richly detailed in shimmering, antique silver-like metal and overlaid on red velvety plush. The combination is incredibly beautiful.

And inside is a crystal window so that you can actually see the precision works of the tiny synchronized movement. It's fascinating to watch the winding drum tinkle out the crisp, bell-like melody. Perfectly scaled, as an exact collector's miniature, it makes a superb decorating piece on your mantel, sideboard or table. An inspiring decoration, a magnificent gift.

OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON

Because these precious music boxes must be specially imported we urge you to order now while the supply lasts. Don't risk being disappointed. Each Concert Grand Piano Music Box is 4⅛" x 3¼" x 2¼", and is yours for only $5.98 on full money back guarantee if you do not agree it is the most charming and beautiful music box you have ever received. Hurry, order now, this offer will not be repeated this season in this magazine.

A TINY TREASURE CHEST to store your precious jewelry.

Arteries

Now Helped By New Diet

A WONDERFUL NEW DISCOVERY, By ROBERT S. FORD, B.S.

New research shows cholesterol and fat choke the arteries only when eaten in aged and cured form such as in cheese and sausage, but are harmless when FRESH as in beef and eggs. Cholesterol and fat slowly dry and harden like paint when aged in stored foods, and can form deposits in the body only when changed in this way. And certain other common foods previously unsuspected turned out to be even more harmful, showing why all previous diets failed.

Arthritis also is caused by the same stored foods. The dried-up fats and cholesterol in stored foods enlarge and harden the joint linings, causing the pain and stiffness of arthritis. And these hardened materials from stored foods are the principal constituents of gallstones.

Powerful natural forces in our bodies gradually attack and remove non-living matter. When we stop fouling our bodies with the wrong foods, these slow but sure natural forces catch up in their cleaning work. Our blood, arteries, and joints become clean again in a few months, without drugs or surgery.

It's all told in a new easily understood non-technical booklet now on sale. This booklet tells how to select FRESH foods so as to help clear arteries and joints without surgery, and reduce high cholesterol and blood pressure without drugs or weakening diets. How you can enjoy a full diet of tasty FRESH food and grow strong while your circulation and arthritis gradually improve. Our booklet gives clear instructions on the FRESH FOOD DIET. How to relieve suffering, avoid surgery, and reduce kitchen work. Weight and figure improvement. Effects of better food on sex and beauty. New easy ways to cook well for one or two. Diabetes control without insulin. Digestion, bowel, and general health aids. Ear noises and deafness. Enlarged prostate. Fibroid uterus. Tooth decay. How to get better meat at less cost. Pictures. Drawings. First time published. A new practical approach that really works. Fully guaranteed: may be returned for refund if you are not satisfied. Over 20,000 satisfied customers.

People are getting quick practical relief with the FRESH FOOD DIET. For example, Mr. John Landridge said with a happy smile: "Sixty days ago I needed plastic arteries. But I went on the new diet instead, and now I mow my whole yard without resting. My angina and leg cramps are gone. Blood pressure and cholesterol dropped to normal. And those fatty yellow lumps in my eyelids faded away!"

Strawberry Pie

¾ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca
½ cup pastry mixture before adding water
Unbaked Pastry Shell (see recipe)
¼ cup packed light brown sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

1. Toss strawberries with a mixture of granulated sugar and tapioca; set aside.
2. Prepare the pastry, reserving the ½ cup flour-shortening mixture before adding water and completing pastry. Turn the sweetened strawberries into the unbaked pastry shell. Lay an 8-in. round of aluminum foil over filling.
3. Bake at 400°F. 35 min.
4. Meanwhile, blend the brown sugar and cinnamon with the reserved ½ cup flour-shortening mixture.
5. Remove aluminum foil and sprinkle mixture over berries. Continue baking 25 min., or until pastry edge and topping are browned.
6. Cool on a wire rack. One 9-in. pie

Pastry Shell

Sift 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour with ½ teaspoon salt into a bowl. Cut in ½ cup all-vegetable shortening until pea-sized particles are formed. Sprinkle 2½ tablespoons cold water over mixture while tossing with a fork; shape into a ball. On a lightly floured surface, roll pastry into a round 1½ in. larger than an inverted 9-in. pie plate. Gently fit past-

■ Strawberry growers in your local area are quick to get their beautiful berries into your market throughout the short growing season. When local berries are no longer plentiful, your produce markets may also carry strawberries shipped in from California growing areas. So, enjoy fresh berries while they are available. Remember, too, that frozen, as well as fresh, strawberries have that same inimitable, delightful flavor but are available throughout the year.

ry into plate and trim ½ in. beyond edge. Fold pastry under and flute, forming a high-standing edge. Fill and bake as recipe directs. One 9-in. pastry shell

For a Baked Pastry Shell: After fluting, prick bottom and sides thoroughly with a fork. Bake at 425°F. 10 to 15 min., or until browned. Cool on rack and fill.

Strawberry Maple Cheese Pie

Baked Pastry Shell (see recipe)
4 oz. cream cheese, softened
3 tablespoons maple-blended syrup
½ cup dairy sour cream
4 cups halved fresh strawberries

1. Prepare pastry shell, fluting without forming a high edge.
2. Blend the cheese with the maple syrup; mix in the sour cream. Spoon filling into cooled pastry shell and cover with waxed paper. Chill about 8 hrs.
3. Drizzle additional maple syrup generously over strawberries in a bowl and toss to coat evenly; chill.
4. Toss lightly before spooning strawberries with syrup over cheese filling. If possible, arrange top layer of berries cut side down. One 9-in. pie

Strawberry-Lime Jam

Fresh fully ripe strawberries (enough for 1¾ cups crushed fruit)
1 teaspoon grated lime peel
4 cups sugar
2 tablespoons lime juice
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

1. Wash jars and lids in soapy water; rinse thoroughly in boiling water and drain. Set aside.
2. Rinse, hull, slice, and crush berries. Turn into a large bowl. Blend in lime peel, then the sugar. Mix well. Blend lime juice and fruit pectin in a small bowl; stir into fruit. Continue to stir 3 min. (A few sugar crystals will remain.)
3. Ladle quickly into jars. Cover at once with tight-fitting lids. Let stand at room temperature until set, about 24 hrs. Store in refrigerator if jam is to be used within two or three weeks or in freezer for longer storage. About 4½ cups jam

Double-Quick Strawberry Doughnuts

Heat fat for deep frying to 365°F. Meanwhile, using 1 pkg. refrigerated fresh dough for buttermilk biscuits, separate dough into biscuits, cut them into halves, and flatten into rounds about ⅛ in. thick. Place a rinsed, drained, and hulled ripe strawberry (coated with sugar or confectioners' sugar) in the center of each round of dough. Gather edge to the top and twist or pinch to seal. Fry doughnuts, a few at a time, in heated fat about 2 min., or until browned, turning occasionally. Drain on absorbent paper. Sift confectioners' sugar generously over hot doughnuts and serve immediately. (Interior of doughnut is very juicy.)
10 doughnuts

Rhubarb-Strawberry Mold

3 cups (1-in. pieces) fresh rhubarb
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup water
1 pkg. (3 oz.) strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 cup cold water
1 cup sliced sweetened fresh strawberries, or 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen strawberries, thawed

1. Put rhubarb into a saucepan with the sugar and ¼ cup water. Set over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cover and cook gently about 15 min., or until rhubarb is just tender (do not allow it to become mushy).
2. Drain rhubarb, reserving hot syrup. Set rhubarb aside to cool. Add boiling water to the reserved hot syrup to make 1 cup liquid. Pour hot liquid over gelatin in a bowl and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Blend in the cold water.
3. Chill until gelatin is slightly thickened. Mix in cooked rhubarb and strawberries. Turn into a rinsed and drained 1-qt. mold. Chill until firm.
4. Unmold onto a chilled serving plate. For Dessert, garnish with mint sprigs and whole strawberries sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. For Salad, garnish with watercress or crisp inner leaves of romaine. 6 to 8 servings

Michael Douglas: Unlike Father

Kirk Douglas' son knows what he wants, where he's going, and how to do it on his own

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

MICHAEL DOUGLAS could do a perfect imitation of his father, Kirk—if he wanted to. Just sitting there, Michael looks like a reincarnation of a young Kirk. He can flash the same intense, burning eyes, clench his teeth like he's mad at the world, cock his head like a fox listening for danger. But Michael doesn't want to emulate his famous dad.

A true son of the younger generation, Mike, 25, has different ideas about life, liberty, and the pursuit of a film career. "Dad came from a poor family," says Mike. "He worked hard to get what he wanted, and that included money. But I don't think he ever learned to enjoy it. He's got a big house in Beverly Hills and a big fence around it—and himself. Money doesn't mean that much to me."

It isn't just the money that makes young Mike take a second hard look at his old man. "When I was in California the last time, he told me, 'If anything goes wrong in your career, the hell with it!' He said in this business you get so many pressures from so many people who want things from you that you can lose your objectivity. You can take yourself too seriously when work should be fun. If it can't be, forget it.

"Actually, he was more outspoken, but I know yours is a family magazine." When I pointed out that in the almost 12 years I have known Kirk, I've never seen him as much as crack a smile, Michael nodded. "That's what I mean. He's just learning. Until now, he always tried so hard that he alienated people with his drive even when he was trying to have fun and be a good guy."

There was no bitterness, no animosity in Michael's voice when he talked, only an analytical evaluation for the benefit of himself.

Yet there are similarities between the two, quite aside from a physical likeness. They are about the same height—just short of six feet—have similar facial features, including the slight cleft in the chin—the father's trademark. But Michael seems more fragile, more sensitive, and has little of the tough self-assurance that typifies Kirk. Possibly because Mike didn't have to struggle for a livelihood and work his way through college as Kirk did.

Looking very much like his famous dad, Michael Douglas plays young intellectual searching for truth in "Adam at Six A.M."

Kirk and his wife, former actress, Diana Douglas, were divorced when Michael was six. Kirk provided well for her and their two sons, Mike and Joe, 23, who is married and attending the University of Oregon. Diana, now married to writer Bill Darrid, moved to Westport, Conn., then back to California, then returned to Connecticut where she now lives. As a result, Michael was shuttled back and forth to boarding schools.

Michael joined his father every summer, either in California, or wherever Kirk was on location. When he was old enough, his father got him jobs with the company, as assistant director on location in Norway where his father starred in "Heroes of Telemark" and as assistant film cutter in New Mexico where Kirk was starring in "Lonely Are the Brave."

It seems rather odd that although Mike worked as a cutter for eight weeks for the film's director and was Kirk's son, that the director did not recognize him eight years later when he auditioned for "Hail, Hero." "I had long hair (he still does) and a beard (no more) and that's why David Miller didn't know me," Michael explained.

"My father didn't even know I applied for the job," Mike insisted. "He heard about it only after I called him from New York to give him the good news that I'd won the part!" At the time, Kirk was recuperating from a minor throat operation and was not allowed to talk. His reaction was scribbled on a piece of paper and told to Michael by his stepmother: "I'm speechless!"

Unfortunately, the film about the generation gap of father-and-son toward the Vietnam War was a disappointment from every point of view. However, Michael was signed to star in "Adam at Six A.M." before the previous film was released, and according to inside reports, redeemed himself well. "Better to have a failure with a first appearance and do well with the second, rather than vice versa," he says.

"Hail, Hero" was his first opportunity to star in a film after studying in New York with drama coach Wynn Handman. By then he had spent three summers in stock, then earned excellent notices for a tv drama, "The Experiment" in which he was billed as M. J. Douglas because there was already a Michael Douglas listed in the union. But that's been straightened out now.

Unlike his father, Mike didn't know what he wanted out of life when he enrolled as an English major at the University of California's campus at Santa Barbara. "For one and a half years I lived in a commune off campus," he recalled. "I did a lot of swimming, ran around, made pottery, meditated, smoked pot, tried LSD, and every once in a while went to class. For all practical purposes, at 21, I had retired from life!" Not surprisingly, he flunked out.

He tried the hippy life in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district, but there was too much of Kirk's drive in him. And so he asked to be let back into the university. "I became interested in acting, switched to a drama major, and really started to concentrate on my studies." The result was evident during his last two years at the university when he made the Dean's list for outstanding students twice and also won Best Actor and Best Director awards.

Michael currently has two homes—an apartment in New York City and a place in Los Angeles. Where he lives depends on where there is work.

Michael, who has been romantically linked with a young actress-model named Pamela Barkentin, insists he is not interested in marriage at this time. "I don't want any responsibilities now. I want to concentrate on my career, and not just acting." Like his father, he also wants to produce and direct and already has formed his own production company. Unlike his father, however, who has been talking about directing a film for 15 years but has never attempted it for fear it might be a failure, Michael insists he will do it soon. He is not afraid of failure and says he can only learn from it.

When we parted company, I was convinced that he has a good chance of going as far as his father, and possibly further—with less tension, making fewer enemies, and possibly being happier in the long run. But then, by his own admission, he had a lot of advantages that his father never had—but provided for him. And while Michael is grateful for these advantages, he can't follow in anyone's footsteps. It seems that Mike has inherited a lot more from Kirk Douglas than a cleft in his chin and a look in his eyes! ◆

Jules Jürgensen.
Not just another pretty face.

Ours has been a great name in watchmaking for 230 years.

So you know we haven't been getting by on looks alone.

Our Swiss artisans would rather turn in their eyepieces than turn out a jeweled movement that's anything less than the ultimate in precision.

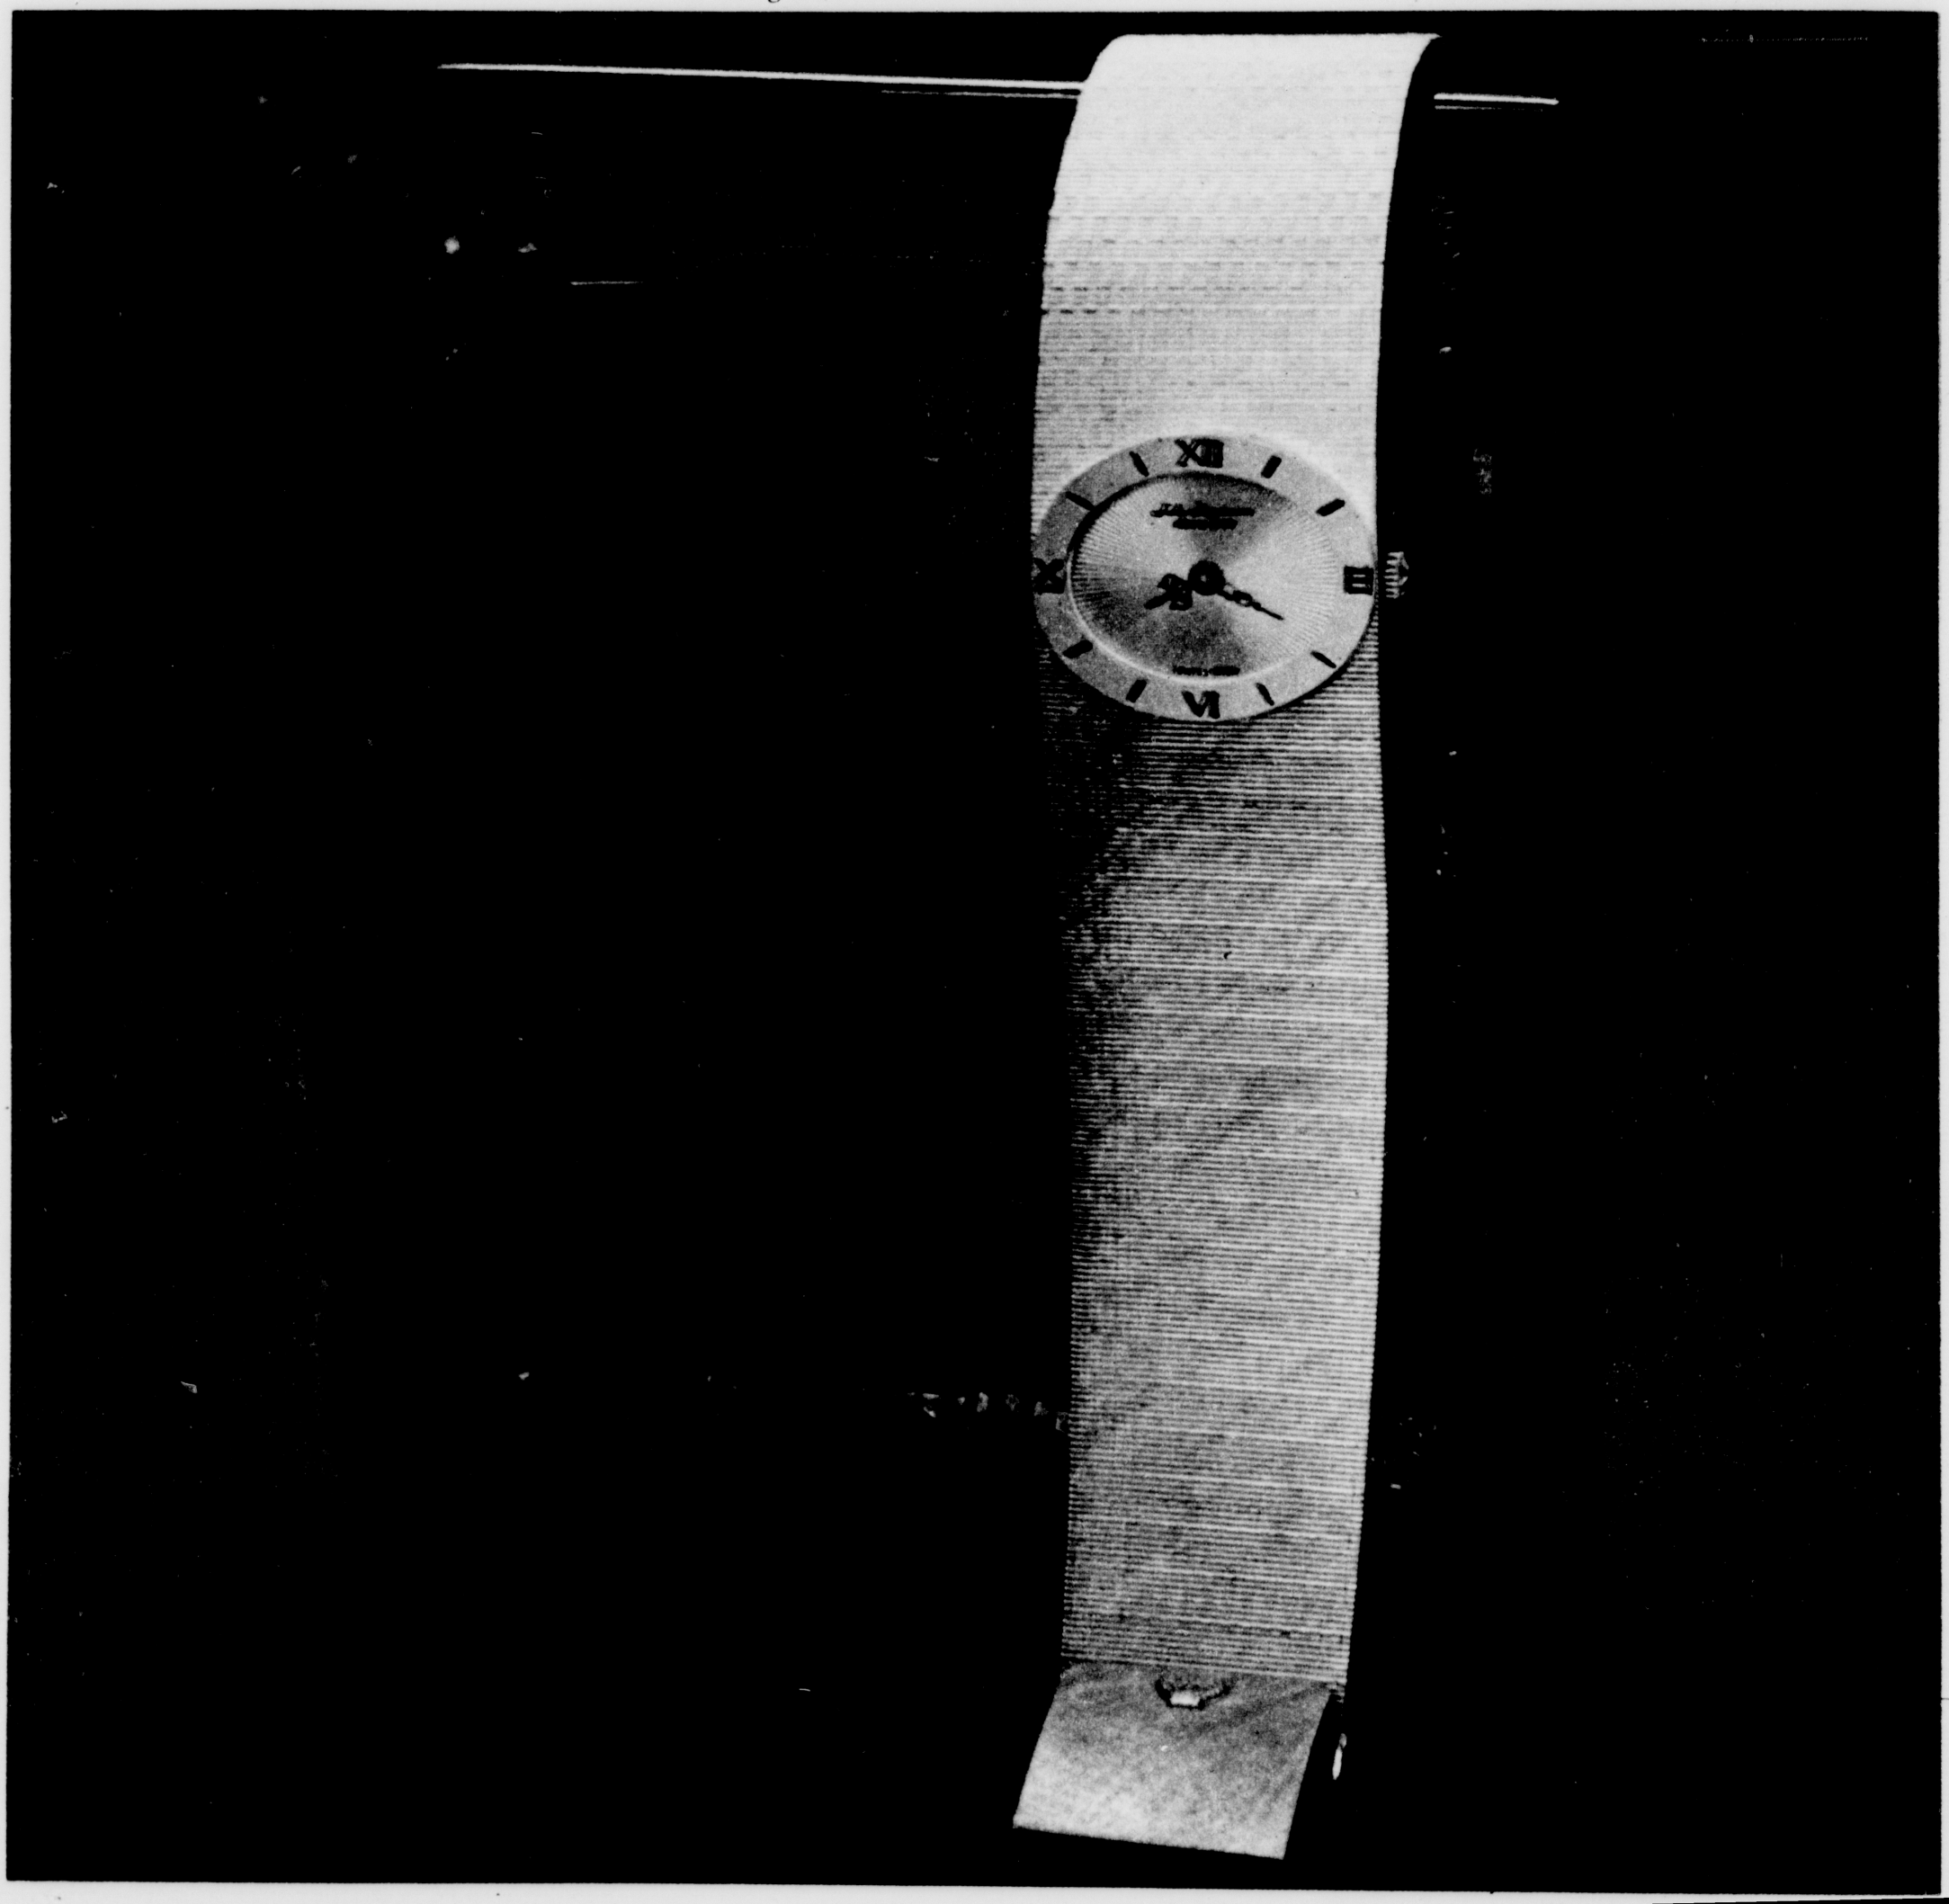

Every part is triple-checked before it goes into the case. And double-checked after it's in.

A Jules Jürgensen is never rushed through an assembly line. We choose our inspectors for their toughness, not their speed.

Why do we spend so much time on our watches? So they'll spend a lot of time with you.

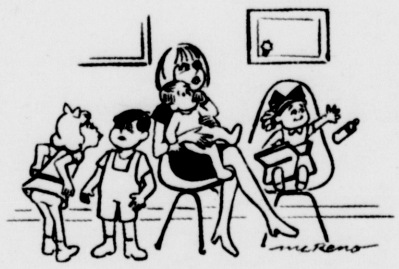

This $1,000 handcrafted man's wristband watch is called Eduardo. One piece Continental styling incorporates a 14K gold case and 14K Florentine band. The sleek wide oval case contains a magnificent 17 jewel movement. Other Jules Jürgensen watches from $80 to $10,000 at fine stores everywhere. QUIPS AND QUOTES

Former President Harry Truman likes to tell of the day, a year or so after he left the White House, that he went calling on a friend in New York and inadvertently rang the wrong doorbell.

The man who answered accepted his apology graciously enough, and then did a double take.

"Say," he exclaimed, "did anybody ever tell you you're the spitting image of that old blankety-blank Harry Truman?" —Dan Bennett

When you see a number of trucks parked at a restaurant, it's a sure sign there's nothing edible for 200-miles ahead. —Eudora T. Sabo

"Funny, nothing," retorted her friend. "They dont let him shuffle the horses."

—Dorothea Kent

Once upon a time you could fix a broken chair with baling wire—now a chair is baling wire.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They, Themselves, Suffer From Hemorrhoids?

Exclusive formula gives prompt, temporary relief from pain, itching in many cases... and actually helps shrink swollen hemorrhoid tissues—caused by inflammation.

A recent survey among doctors showed that fifty-eight per cent of the doctors reporting named one particular formula which they either use or recommend for their families.

This medication in case after case gives prompt relief for hours from pain and burning itch of tissues and helps shrink swelling of inflamed hemorrhoid tissues. Tests upon hundreds of patients showed this to be true.

The medication used was Preparation H®—there's no other formula like it. And Preparation H needs no prescription. Ointment or Suppositories.

New KLEENITE gets dentures cleaner, brighter, faster.

New Improved-Formula KLEENITE Denture Cleanser... with cleansing action unsurpassed by conventional denture cleaning tablets, unoxygenated pastes or powders.

More detergent action, stronger penetrating power, more bubbly effervescence than ever. Surges to every denture surface, penetrates where no brush can reach. Loosens film, flushes away foreign matter. Gets dentures cleaner, brighter, faster without brushing. Leaves dentures fresh and odor-free.

Helps Rid Lungs of Excess Mucus

Helps clear air passages, restore free breathing, relieve distress...coughing and wheezing.

This clinic-tested preparation is called BRONKAID®. In one tablet, Bronkaid combines an expectorant and bronchodilators to attack the two major causes of congestion and wheezing. Bronkaid Tablets quickly start acting to soften and loosen excess phlegm. This direct action helps rid your air passages of sticky, stringy phlegm. At the same time, Bronkaid helps relax tightened bronchial muscles and eases the distress that results from stagnant air trapped in the lungs.

With Bronkaid Tablets, you enjoy amazing two-way help in one combination tablet. Bronkaid helps you cough up phlegm, clear clogged air passages, restores free breathing. You cough less; you breathe more freely, easily. For rapid relief of coughing and wheezing of bronchial congestion and bronchial asthma, for relief that lasts for hours, get BRONKAID® TABLETS today. Summer Job Tips for Students

By SANDY SHEVEY

Vendor jobs offer opportunity for students.

LAST SUMMER, Tulsa, Okla., teen-agers staged an unusual kind of protest. Groups of boys and girls picketed stores and businesses because there weren't enough summer jobs available.

The demonstration points up students' increasing desire for the work experience and expense money that summertime employment can give them.

Countless jobs are waiting to be filled, many of them unusually interesting or offbeat. Youthful job hunters may not be aware of some of the possibilities.

For example, New York State's Long Island Rail Road last summer welcomed aboard more than 100 teens: boys as ticket agents, bar-car attendants, and sandwich-soft-drink venders; girls as secretaries and "mini-maids," who serve coffee and doughnuts to rush-hour passengers.

"They picked up our public image as well as filling important jobs while some of our people were on vacation," says personnel director Earle Gay.

The Long Island will again be hiring young people this summer. Applicants should write to Gay at: Jamaica Station, Jamaica, N.Y., and mention any business experience.

More than 1,800 boys and girls earned an average of $148 a week (20-percent commission basis) driving ice-cream vending trucks in 12 Eastern and Midwestern states for the Good Humor Company.

Says personnel director, Gail Chalcraft, "No experience is necessary, but applicants must have a clear driver's license (no violations), be in a good, healthy condition, get along with people, and be able to manage money. Chalcraft asks that applications be sent to him at: The Good Humor Corporation, Englewood Cliffs, N.J., accompanied by verification that you are a student.

Want to have a working holiday in Europe? The Brook Street Bureau of Mayfair, Ltd., can arrange for teens to spend four months in London. It gets you a job, oversees your training, obtains your work permit (which costs $40), and can schedule air transportation (at your own expense), if you so desire.

Once you're in London, the Bureau will help you find a place to live for as little as $10 a week if you share. Brook Street looks after your social life, too, putting on getting-to-know-you coffees and cocktail parties and arranging trips.

Salaries range from $37.50 to $50 a week, with a 20-percent income tax and free medical care. Mrs. Elizabeth Halverstam, director of Brook Street in the United States, notes: "You can live quite nicely in England on this wage." All inquiries should be sent to Mrs. Halverstam at 18 East 48th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Shell Oil is also tapping the youth market. Shell has set up training programs in high schools in New York City; Hartford, Conn.; Newark, N.J.; Atlanta, Ga.; New Orleans, La.; Houston, Tex.; and San Francisco, Calif. During the school year teens learn service-station merchandising, bookkeeping, and automotive repair, tune-up and brake work. When summer comes, they are ready and eager to go to work.

Teen mechanics earn about $1.65 an hour. Jobs begin in June and run through the middle of August. Shell gives youngsters a two-week break before school begins again. Says the program's eastern regional manager, Richard Lampe, "Even if you're not a Shell trainee, you are eligible for a summer job." He'll be happy to receive job requests at: Shell Oil, 700 White Plains Road, Scarsdale, N.Y. 10583.

"If you want a summer job, create one!" is the advice of Ronald Franzmeier, director of Youthpower, a nonprofit, equal-opportunity summer-job clearinghouse run for and by young people. Jeff Harris, a Milwaukee, Wis., teen, cleared $900 after he paid assistants by running a lawn-care service.

The best jobs for girls are in sales; pay is about $2.50 an hour. For boys, the big money is in construction, where the rate goes up to $4.

A work permit is generally not necessary if you are 18 or over, or if you work for a householder rather than for business. If you want to get involved in Youthpower as an employer or employee, write to: Mr. Ronald Franzmeier, Youthpower, 820 North Plankinton Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. 53203. ◆

Here I am, Tank the tank—and I hadn't even reached my top weight of 246 pounds.

Guess I'd better get myself a new nickname now that I'm down to 160 pounds. What do you think, girls?

By Phillip "Tank" Spangler—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

WHEN I was fat, if somebody had invited me to meet the President of the United States, it wouldn't have shaken me one bit. But the very idea of a blind date used to throw me into an absolute panic. What was the girl going to think when she looked at me—a guy called Tank who looked like a tank?

Oh, sure, I had muscles, buried beneath the blubber. But 246 pounds of fat on a fellow five feet eight and one-quarter inches tall is enough to turn any girl's head. The other way.

My weight problem really began in my teens. At first, I was kind of proud of my bulk. You see, I played tackle on the high school football team in Middletown, Ohio. And when I plowed into a man, I could ground him fast. Then the cheers would go up and I'd puff up with pride in my bigness. But the coach had one rule. To stay on the team, you had to run the half-mile, and do sit-ups and push-ups. That's when my bigness got to me. I used to be pooped in no time. Of course, all that exercise didn't help reduce my appetite any. It just got bigger. And bigger.

After I graduated, I went to work at the steel mill and soon had money in my pockets. But I had no girls to spend it on. I don't blame them, when I think of it. Imagine dating a guy who could eat six pounds of roast beef at one sitting. I also liked plenty of beer. Once, while helping my friend clean out his basement, I drank a whole case of it, and ate sixteen hot dogs. Now that's an appetite.

But after I'd do such a thing, I'd start to think about reducing. At one time, I crash-dieted like crazy. I drank black coffee. Skipped meals. Gave up desserts. But I climbed the walls at night thinking of all I was missing. And in the end, I lost only 30 pounds. So back I went to stuffing myself.

All my shirts had to be made to order, because I needed a 19-inch collar and a 29 sleeve. It was costly, believe me. Especially since the shirts wore out fast across my middle. The steering wheel of my car did it.

Diet pills weren't any help either. I tried them, but my appetite stayed as big as ever.

I don't mind saying, however, that with all the kidding and joking I used to do, I was hurting inside. I liked clothes, and the clothes that fit me, I didn't like. I wanted to get married, but the girls I wanted didn't want me. And I wanted good health, but I wasn't helping mine because of my big mouth. But that was me. Good old Tank!

Then, one day, my world changed. I walked into a drugstore in Franklin, Ohio, and began leafing through some magazines, until I saw it. The story about the woman who'd lost 97 pounds on the Ayds Plan. I read every word of it. Twice. I walked up to the clerk and asked her about it. She handed me the box. It said Ayds Reducing Plan Vitamin and Mineral Candy. I read the label. There weren't any harmful drugs in it. Still, I wondered. Could it really help me? Finally, I put the box down and walked out. But I only walked a block when I turned around, walked back in and bought it. The chocolate fudge-type. Incidentally, there's a vanilla-caramel type, and also a new chocolate mint.

Did it help? Like nothing ever did before! I found on the Ayds Plan I could eat good solid meals. I'd just take Ayds as directed, then eat three good meals a day. Only I found I'd eat less at each one because I wanted less. Ayds were great for me between meals, too. I'm a brakeman on the railroad down at the mill, and I'm out a lot in the fresh air. When I'd feel my appetite building up, I'd just chew on some Ayds. With about 25 calories each, it was a lot better than downing half a dozen donuts.

At first, the guys wondered what had happened to my appetite. Then they got wind of my carrying Ayds around and they started bumming free samples. Finally, I had to call a halt to the freebies.

But nothing stopped me from taking them. Soon, I began to see results, and I started shopping for clothes. That was kind of expensive, because I ended up buying four completely new wardrobes. I'd gone from a size 48 suit down to a 40. And after achieving that, I wasn't about to be seen in public in baggy pants.

Funny thing happened to me, though, on the way down the scales. I was in a restaurant one day, and a girl I'd known when I weighed 246 pounds, kept saying to me: "Golly, you talk just like a jolly, fat fellow I know." I didn't let on I was the same guy. But she found out later, and the next time I saw her—86 pounds thinner—she did nothing but apologize. I don't think she's gotten over it yet.

Fact is, I can hardly believe what's happened, myself. I'm just totally different. Cooking's become a hobby with me. I'm interested in Early American furniture and am fixing up my apartment. And I've discovered a whole world of girls. Have to admit, I still don't understand them. Maybe because I was late in dating them. But I'm not in such a big rush anymore. I'm just taking my time and having a ball, thanks to Ayds.

Get this motorized Indy "500" model racer FREE!

TESTORS

Save crown liners from bottles of Sprite! It's a $14.00 value—free by mail!

You'll have hours of fun with this authentic Indy "500" model racer. It's a copy of the car Wally Dallenbach drove to the lead in last year's Indianapolis 500 Mile Race—and that's headed back this year, sponsored again by the folks who bottle Sprite!

And it's easy to get one of these model racers! Under bottle caps on Sprite, you'll find plastic liners that say "Sprite." Just collect 140 liners and this exciting $14.00 value is yours free!

You can also save proof-of-purchase seals found on the bottom of cartons of Sprite in cans. Each seal is worth six (6) crown liners.

There's a second way to get a racer, too. If you prefer, send 50 crown liners plus $5.00 (check or money order).

Just remember, part of the fun in getting your Indy "500" model racer will be enjoying the light, pure taste of Sprite. And you don't want to miss that!

To order your model racer, simply fill in coupon at right, and send it, together with the correct combination of crown liners and/or proof-of-purchase seals (include $5.00 check or money order if you choose that option), to: Indy "500" Racer, P.O. Box 5000, Clinton, Iowa 52732. (Please do not send metal caps.) Mailing and handling costs are prepaid. Allow about four weeks for delivery.

It really works! Fuel-powered to speeds up to 35 mph!
Over 12" long! Comes completely assembled. (Fuel and battery not included. Both available at most hobby shops.)

1) With this and all other rolls of film you send us, P.D.Q. PHOTO guarantees you finest quality processing to KODAK standards under the direction of KODAK-trained personnel and processed with genuine KODAK paper and chemicals, at really great savings.

2) YOU must be completely satisfied with our work on your order or simply return the complete order of prints and negatives, or slides, or full roll of movies. We will immediately give you a cash refund for the processing and film even if the roll was purchased elsewhere. In case of reprints and enlargements return the complete order, and the full cost of processing will be refunded.
